Another Roosevelt Job.
Mechanized Army.
Australia's Plan.
The Idea Suits 100,000.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GEN. ATTERBURY, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad, says the state of New Jersey can have the Raritan Canal, leased to the railroad for 999 years. It costs more to keep the canal up than it is worth.

This gives President Roosevelt an opportunity to carry through a work that would be remembered, to his honor.

A canal across New Jersey, using the Raritan right of way, would cut the water route between New York and Philadelphia from 275 to ninety miles, eliminating dangers of coastwise shipping along the New Jersey seaboard.

AND MOST important, that canal across New Jersey would complete the inland waterway from New England to Florida, vitally important to this country's safety. Digging that canal would put idle men and government money to work, and build a lasting monument to F. D. Roosevelt.

Russia has just finished one of the largest canals in the world, and after nineteen months of intensive work, her ports on the Arctic Sea are directly connected with the warm water ports of Europe.

Russia no longer need send shipping around the dangerous coasts of Norway and Sweden to reach the South.

Charmion Von Wiegand, describing the canal digging, tells how, "far on the frozen tundra of the Arctic, skeletons of ancient Laplander chieftains, over 2,000 years old, have been unearthed, and a new and thriving world is being built by Soviet pioneers."

If Russia can do that work "on the Arctic's frozen tundra" Uncle Sam should be able to do it in comfortable New Jersey.

THE SECRETARY OF WAR puts before the President a proposition to spend $50,000,000 "motorizing the Army."

High-powered Army tanks, traveling fifty miles an hour over rough ground, through barbed wire entanglements, across ditches, would replace old-fashioned cavalry horses, trotting or cantering along, painfully dragging small cannon. One big tank, able to go through a solid brick wall, could do more damage than 1,000 horses.

And one gas bomb could put 1,000 horses out of commission in two minutes.

Britain and Japan have long since established "mechanized" armies.

IT MAY interest the Secretary of War to know that some racketeers developed the idea of a "mechanized army," ahead of the War Department.

In New York, police have seized three "underworld forts on wheels," 1933 model automobiles, with secret compartments for machine guns, bullet-proof glass windows and armor plate to keep out ordinary rifle or pistol bullets.

The cars, not the owners, have been found. Detectives suggest, reasonably, that they should have such cars.

AUSTRALIA, keeping out all but white population, and failing to get enough whites to make the country safe, adopts this plan:

She will let British capitalists lease for 100 years some 500,000 square miles in the wilds of northern Australia.

Tens of thousands of aborigines will not like it, but they will be protected. Gigantic Australia, with only 4,120,000 population, has for neighbor, just beyond the horizon the islands of Japan, with their sixty millions, and earth's most rapidly growing population. The increase was more than 1,000,000 last year.

ENTERPRISING Americans may be interested to know that there are diamonds in Australia, of quality better than the African diamonds, equal in color, brilliancy and hardness to the diamonds of Brazil.

It might be worth while to go and look for them, perhaps find the bed from which those discovered have been dislodged. Much of Australia has never been explored.

ONE HUNDRED thousand workers in the steel industry will agree that it is a good thing for the government to meddle in "private business." One hundred thousand, under the "steel code" prepared by government order, will have their wages raised 15 per cent, and work is cut to forty hours a week.

Not long ago Judge Gary, with difficulty, reduced them from 60 hours.

The present wage increase applies only to skilled workers. It is to be hoped that profits and necessary tariff protection from foreign competition will make it possible to raise the pay of unskilled workers.

Their children are as hungry as any, wear out as many shoes.

GEN. BALBO brought his 24 great seaplanes from Italy to their landing on Lake Michigan at an average flying sp[illegible] of 130 miles an hour.

He will fly back again and our Navy will please observe this: When Gen Balbo return, they will not order him to give up flying and go on board a floating ship to do "sea duty."

That idotic custom of the American Navy, which takes a man from the job he does best, is no part of the Italian system.

J. & L. RAISES PAY OF 20,000

Glass Company Also Announces Wage Increase

The men with the dinner buckets tramped to work in increasing numbers for more pay today.

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, National Tube Company and the American Window Glass Company announced boosts in wages on the heels of similar announcements by other concerns Saturday.

The steel companies' increase is the uniform boost of the steel industry to 40 cents an hour for common labor and 15 per cent to all others in the mills, effective today. About 20,000 persons are affected.

GLASS COMPANY RAISE

The American Window Glass Company gave its employes an 11 per cent raise, effective last Saturday. "White collar" workers were included among the 750 getting raises.

The National Recovery Administration, according to dispatches from Washington, is interested now in the wages of the "white collar" class, including office workers and clerks in stores.

Several branches of industry reported business picking up.

Steel and coke have been sitting up and taking nourishment for some weeks now, and today it might be said that steel at least was able to crawl out of bed, what with production at 58 to 60 per cent of capacity.

COKE GAINS

Coke producers reported business better than at any time since 1929. It seems coke suffered a sympathetic ailment because steel was sick. When steel began to recover, metallurgical coke picked up.

Domestic coke, it was said, still is rather wan. It depends more

McQuaide Transfers 18 City Patrolmen

Eighteen patrolmen were transferred today upon orders of Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide. Among them were three assigned as the homicide division, working as detectives, but drawing patrolmen's pay.

They were transferred to different beats, but will continue in the homicide department. They are Frank Morgan, Thomas Donohue and William R. Harris.

Two Cross-Country Fliers Stop Here

C. Alfred Anderson and Dr. Albert E. Forsythe, Negro aviators flying from coast to coast in their plane, "The Pride of Atlantic City", soared westward today after a brief stop for refueling at the Allegheny County Airport.

The flyers left Atlantic City at 5:20 a. m., and arrived here shortly before 11 o'clock. They took off from the county airport at 11:20 a. m.

Harriman Vanishes Again

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP.)—Joseph W. Harriman, under indictment for alleged alteration of the books of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, which he formerly headed, disappeared from the Regent Nursing Home again today.

The aged banker took a taxicab to the Liberty street ferryhouse, and was seen by the driver of the cab to enter the building, presumably to take a boat to the New Jersey side of the Hudson River.

Harriman disappeared from the nursing home, where he has been under treatment for months, by a service entrance. A few minutes later his absence was noted by the nurse. The nurse immediately gave an alarm and the home communicated with Col. William J. Donovan, Harriman's chief counsel, who in turn notified police and federal authorities.

An alarm was broadcast for the taxicab, the number of which was noted by pedestrians. Meanwhile, Federal authorities notified guards to be on the lookout for the banker at all piers in this city and along the Canadian border.

Today's disappearance was Harriman's second from the nursing home. He first "slipped away" from the home May 19 last, and a few minutes after he was found the following day he stabbed himself over the heart. The wound, however, was not serious, and he was able to return to the nursing home a short time later.

An inquiry to determine the banker's mental fitness to stand trial has been under way in federal court for more than a week and was scheduled to be resumed today.

U. S. TO SPEED HOME LOANS

The government will have an office of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation open in Pittsburgh not later than August 1.

This announcement was made by Jacob H. Mays, state manager for the corporation, who, with Levi G. Lichliter, of Somerset, district manager, was in conference yesterday with Joseph F. Guffey and other leading Democrats.

Mays announced a location has been tentatively selected for a headquarters in Pittsburgh to serve Western Pennsylvania. The proposed lease will be submitted to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington by Wednesday.

The appointment of Orson N. Ritzman, of Womelsdorf, Pa., as executive secretary of the corporation, was made public by Mays today.

The new official, the first aide to be named, is a former news-

Karen Morley Soon To Welcome Stork

HUTTON SUES AIMEE OVER BABY HOAX

Marriage 'No Bed of Roses' Says Rotund Baritone

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—(AP.)—David L. Hutton, rotund husband of the crusading evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, filed suit for divorce today in Superior Court on the ground of mental cruelty.

Specifically, said the baritone choristor who married the Angelus Temple evangelist 22 months ago on a flying trip to Yuma, Ariz., he was tired of having the intimate details of his married life "publicly discussed."

Mrs. McPherson-Hutton is on the high seas, en route home from Europe.

Divorce, often rumored, is sought by Hutton as a climax to a tumultuous wedded life which, only a fortnight or so ago, was punctuated by serio-comic cablegram from his wife in Paris, announcing the birth of a son.

AIMEE'S STORY

Subsequently the explanation drifted out of Temple headquarters that Sister Aimee was merely trying to find out where the "leak" was occurring in confidential messages she sent the temple.

The complaint filed today alleged Aimee made him and his married life "ridiculous" by perpetrating "a hoax as to the birth of a baby," which was "bandied about in the press of the world," when, in fact, "no baby was born."

That was when Aimee lay in a Paris hospital recovering from what ultimately was described as a plastic operation.

'NO BED OF ROSES'

Said Hutton aside from the complaint:

"I am sorry to find it necessary to take such steps, but the really well meaning folk of the Temple need peace and a rest from hippodrome publicity in order to carry on. I must admit that married life for me has been no bed of roses. At times I was tempted to call it a 'martial' state instead of a marital one."

Then he disclosed plans for a theatrical career beginning Thursday. He will open at a Long Beach theater and then continue appearances in an eastward trek already booked.

Someone mentioned a Mexican divorce. He exploded.

"Say, I wouldn't have one of those things for all the chili in Mexico! I want a divorce that'll take."

Mrs. Hutton advised her husband by cable she would arrive at Baltimore July 25 on the City of Havre.

WILEY POST LEAVING HIS PLANE AFTER HE LANDED AFTER A RECORD HOP TO BERLIN

Flier Post at Berlin, his first stop on his solo flight around the world over the general route followed by the unfortunate Jimmy Mattern who today was still trying to get back from remote Siberia. This is an International News Photograph Service picture, radioed from Berlin.

LITHUANIANS KILLED IN GERMANY

Ocean Conquerors' Bodies Found With Wrecked Plane

Wiley Post, making a solo flight around the world, left Moscow for Siberia today 13 hours and 2 minutes ahead of the time he and Harold Gatty made to that point two years ago.

Death was the portion of two Chicago fliers, Capt. Stephen Darius and Stanley T. Girenas, whose goal was Kaunas, Lithuania. After a successful spanning of the Atlantic, their plane fell at Soldin, Germany.

Gen. Italo Balbo today accepted an invitation to visit President Roosevelt at the White House.

International News Service.

SOLDIN, BRANDENBURG PROVINCE, Germany, July 17.—Capt. Stephen Darius and Stanley T. Girenas, native Lithuanian residents of Chicago who set out from New York Saturday morning to fly non-stop to Kaunas, Lithuania, were found dead in a woods near here today with their wrecked plane.

The pair had spanned the ocean successfully despite the bad weather into which they had headed, but came to grief just a few hours from their goal at a spot approximately 4,000 miles from Floyd Bennett Field, their starting point.

FUEL SUPPLY FAILS

Lack of fuel appeared to be the reason for the crash. It appeared their fuel tanks were empty, and that they had been aiming at a forced landing in a wide meadow only 200 yards beyond the thick woods into which they crashed.

It was indicated the fliers had crashed from a great height and that both were killed instantly. They were identified by maps, charts and Lithuanian newspapers found in their plane.

Walter Danzig, acting district Governor, told International News Service he had visited the plane about 8 a. m., presumably about seven hours after the pair had crashed. He said:

"It was a terrible sight. The plane had fallen right into the middle of the woods, cracking trees right and left.

"The ship must have crashed from a height of at least 1,000 meters (about 3,200 feet)."

FINDS LOG BOOK

"I found their log book with details of their flight from Chicago to New York described in it, also their flight from New York to Kaunas."

The Lithuanians were last sighted over Berlinchen, a suburb of Soldin, shortly after midnight, therefore it was presumed they crashed about 1 a. m.

The ship was a complete wreck. The motor and propeller were thrown a considerable distance and debris was strewn far and wide.

One body was crammed into the cockpit, while the other lay beside the wrecked ship, a flashlight still burning in his pocket.

Elliott Divorce Due, Texas Girl Denies Troth

MINDEN, Nev., July 17.—(INS.)—Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt today was scheduled to obtain a divorce from Elliott Roosevelt, tall, handsome 22-year-old son of President Roosevelt.

Her attorney, Lester Summerfield, of Reno, was to read Mrs. Roosevelt's deposition, air mailed from Philadelphia, and it was expected that she would be granted the decree on her cross-complaint.

After the decree is granted, Elliott, his companion, Ralph Hitchcock, and his attorney, Samuel Platt and Mrs. Platt will return to Reno and depart by airplane tonight for Chicago to visit the world's fair.

Platt, who filed young Roosevelt's divorce complaint here Friday, refused to comment on a report that his client would meet pretty Miss Ruth Googins, Fort Worth (Tex.), society girl, in Chicago. It was understood in Reno that Miss Googins had gone from Texas to Chicago for a visit.

CHICAGO, July 17.—(INS.)—Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth, Tex., today issued an emphatic and unqualified denial to reports that she is engaged to Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President.

The Texas girl, here to attend the World's Fair, likewise denied that she is planning to meet the President's son here after he is divorced in Minden, Nev.

Judge Evans Ill; Condition Serious

Judge John A. Evans, former president judge of Common Pleas Court, is seriously ill at the summer home of his son-in-law, Attorney Don Rose, at Magnetawan, Canada.

Judge Evans was succeeded, after his retirement in 1930, by Judge James R. Macfarlane as president judge. His retirement came after 32 years of continuous service, which set a state record. He is 80 years old.

POST HOPS OFF FOR SIBERIA

MOSCOW, July 17.—(AP.)—Wiley Post, American round-the-world solo flier, landed here from Koenigsberg, Germany, this afternoon and a few hours later soared eastward on the 1,818-mile journey to Novosibirsk in Siberia.

The most perfect possible weather conditions prevailed from Moscow as far as the Ural Mountains. Local weather officials, who gave the airman full meteorological information before he left, said it was probable that the present cloudiness between the Urals and Novosibirsk would clear up before he reached that area.

REFUSES TO SLEEP

Post refused a chance to snatch a few minutes sleep at the Moscow airport that he might speed up mechanicians working on his plane.

It was 5:12 p. m. (10:12 a. m. Pittsburgh time) when the American flier started the Novosibirsk leg of his journey. He had been in Moscow two hours and 52 minutes.

Post said he experienced great difficulty with his mechanical pilot from the beginning of his flight from New York and he was therefore compelled to drive his ship manually the entire distance.

Difficulties with the robot were blamed for forcing the American flier 100 miles off his course between Koenigsberg and Moscow and they were also said to be the

Mellon Tax Charges Thrown Out

$220,000,000 Suit Dismissed By Court

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—A $220,000,000 tax suit against Andrew W. Mellon and other former Treasury officials was dismissed today by Justice James M. Proctor in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The suit was filed by David A. Olson, former investigator for a special Senate committee, and charged Mellon, former Secretary Ogden Mills and several others with conspiring to defraud the government in the settlement of foreign steamship company taxes.

Justice Proctor, in his opinion sustaining a demurrer raised by the defendants, said the suit did not state a "good present" cause of action.

Unless Olson files the suit in an amended form, the dismissal today means the end of the case.

Olson charged Mellon, Mills, Arthur A. Ballantine, former Treasury Undersecretary; David H. Blair, former Internal Revenue Commissioner, and Alexander W. Gregg, former Treasury solicitor, with fraudulently permitting the steamship companies, never named, to escape taxes of $110,000,000.

Under the double penalty provision of the law, Mellon and the other defendants would have to pay $220,000,000 if Olson's suit had been upheld.

Olson was a former investigator for the Senate Banking Committee which investigated the stock market and banking.

Charles A. Russell, Olson's attorney, said after Justice Proctor's ruling that an amended complaint probably would be filed.

Defense Counsel Sees Malice As Basis

Defense counsel in arguing for dismissal of the suit said it was "fanciful and the extreme" and conceived "in malice."

In addition to the suit against the Treasury officials, Olson recently filed suit in Pittsburgh in which he charged that William L. Mellon, president of the Gulf Oil Corporation and nephew of the former Secretary of the Treasury, had evaded payment of $2,000,000 in income taxes.

Pair Leaps From Bridge For Swim, One Drowns

Two youths jumped from the Twenty-second street bridge into the Monongahela River today, according to police. One drowned, the other landed in jail.

The dead youth was Leo Uniatowski, 19, of St. Patrick street, South Side. His companion, Joseph Baldis, 21, of 1612 St. Patrick street, was fished out of the river by police and locked up on a disorderly conduct charge. Police say they had been drinking.

Baldis, trying to jump out of the boat after his rescue, told police he wished to stay in the river until he found his "pal." He said:

"We were walking across the bridge, when I just decided to take a swim. I jumped in and was swimming around when I heard my buddy yell, 'Save me.' I got to him before he went down, but he grabbed me so tight I had to break loose, and before I could find him again the police had me."

1,000,000 WORKMEN GET PAY RAISES UNDER 'NEW DEAL'

SHORTER HOURS EFFECTIVE IN MANY LINES

Other Industries to Follow Textile Trade's Lead

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—For almost a million workingmen and women the depression is as good as ended today, their wages suddenly lifted back to the purchasing level of better days by voluntary co-operation of industry with government.

For hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions more, the day holds forth hope of similar good luck in the immediate future.

Textile workers, not only cotton, but rayon, silk and allied products—all over the North and South, went back to their mills this morning on a 40-hour work week schedule, at rates of pay intended to give them the purchasing power of 1929.

CLOTHING CODE

A code providing for a 40-hour work week and a 20 per cent wage increase was submitted to the administration today by the "Industrial Recovery Association of Clothing Manufacturers."

It was the second agreement to be filed by a clothing group.

The first was submitted by the "Clothing Manufacturers Association of the United States," which included manufacturers associated with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Today's group included 111 independent manufacturers who declined to join with the first association. These independents cover those operating open shops and those operating under working agreements with the United Garment Workers of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

STEEL PAY BOOST

In steel mills, labor today is earning 15 per cent more than last week — in some cases even better—a boost back to the level of 1932.

In countless other industries, which have submitted or soon will present their so-called codes of fair competition, the compacts by which the government allows them to regulate themselves in exchange for giving labor a lift, the promise of a real living wage to workers is near realization.

Originally all this day was to bring was beginning of operation for the cotton textile industry's code. By it 450,000 workers were to go on the 40-hour week with all wages increased in their present proportion, above minimums of $12 a week in Dixie, $13 elsewhere.

OTHER TEXTILES

But the other textiles, with codes hastily framed, asked to come under cotton's labor terms today. The President last night signed executive orders effecting agreements with each. Estimates of the additional number of workers involved were indefinite, but 250,000 was considered conservative.

Steel proclaimed its raises without waiting for Presidential sanction. The much smaller cement industry has asked approval for quick increases and limited hours.

The underwear industry, operating hundreds of knitting mills with employment rivaling the weavers, will vote the first of this week on joining the cotton procession.

Wool men, with a code now awaiting hearing, may join the speeded movement.

Printers' Union Head Denounces Code

CLEVELAND, July 17.—(AP.)—Organized labor was not given a voice at the meeting in which a code was adopted for the printing industry, Charles P. Howard, of Indianapolis, president of the International Typographical Union, said last night.

Howard declared that in the meeting held in Chicago last week, non-union employers "packed" the sessions with their own men. He said:

"The unions are not going to accept such a code as was drafted in Chicago. We are going to Washington to tell the administration that such a code does not comply with the Industrial Recovery Act."

on the fellow with a dinner bucket for its health.

Orders are putting new life into the electrical equipment business. The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company today got an order for equipment for the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company's new multi-section aluminum train.

On the rivers, the fleet was out. The Union Barge Line reported it has all of its equipment in service, has ordered six new barges, and is putting three others in shape. The American Barge Line is operating close to capacity. Steel and coal movement is responsible.

A word of warning to business not to forget the man with the dinner bucket was uttered by Senator James J. Davis in Washington. He said a decent standard of wages will be a leading factor in the success of the administration of the National Recovery Act.

DAVIS WARNING

He said:

"With the puffed up dollar, prices are certain to rise and there must be no delay in increasing wages accordingly. Failure to do this would wreck this entire machine for recovery."

The Senator, who knows what to be an iron puddler—will be to be a iron puddler—will be cheered to know 15 per cent pay increases went into effect yesterday for many other steel workers. Employes in the Pittsburgh district affected are:

Thirty thousand in the plants of the Carnegie Steel Company, United States Steel subsidiary; other thousands in the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company and the American Steel and Wire Company, also steel corporation subsidiaries; 3,500 in the Pittsburgh Steel Company's Monessen and Allenport plans, and 3,000 in the Brackenridge plant of the Allegheny Steel Company.

Several plants in West Virginia, Ohio and other steel centers boosted wages accordingly.

Wage statements from other large independent concerns were expected this week.

STEEL INDUSTRY CODE

The latter pay envelopes follow submission of the steel industry's recovery code to Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator. The code, fixing a 40-hour work week and minimum wages for common labor ranging from 25 cents an hour in the South to 40 cents in the North, will go into effect if and when it is approved.

Hearings on the code were expected to begin next week, according to advices from Washington.

Pittsburgh's other mainstay—coal—meanwhile was doing its bit to co-operate with the Roosevelt administration in framing a code. Northern operators, including the Pittsburgh district, have agreed on their program and now have to coordinate it with that of southern operators.

COAL MEETING

According to dispatches from New York, where the northern operators met, the group will meet today with the southern representatives to get together on their respective codes. A hearing for the industry was expected next week.

Some miners in Western Pennsylvania are benefitting from higher wages. Officials of the Mather-Pickands Company announced a 10 to 12 per cent increase for all employes at the Mather mine at Brownsville.

Five hundred men were to return to work on full time at the Crucible Fuel Company's Brownsville mine. Higher wages were agreed on by officials and a miners' committee.

MINE HIRES MEN

The South Hills Coal Company announced employment of 55 more men at its Sawmill Run mine and expectation of hiring more next week when operations are expected to reach capacity.

Two hundred workers returned to the New Castle works of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company after being idle seven months. Officials said the plant would have started July 10 but was unable to get necessary coal at that time.

Increased freight business at the New Castle terminal of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad took 15 brakemen and a like number of enginemen and firemen back to work in the last 15 days.

4 NEW BOARDS ADDED BY OHIO

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS.)—Four new boards and commissions have been added to Ohio's system of state government by the Legislature.

They are a milk marketing commission, a racing commission, a board of cosmetology examiners and a board of barbers' examiners.

Each board and commission will have offices in Columbus, a salaried secretary and the authority to employ various inspectors. The upkeep of all four boards is to be paid out of license money they collect.

Motor Firm Raises 5,000 Workers' Pay

DETROIT, July 17.—(INS.)—Wage increases ranging from 5 to 10 per cent for all shop employes of the Hudson Motor Company were announced today by President Roy D. Chapin, former Secretary of Commerce. Approximately 7,000 workers are affected.

The increase represents a payroll boost of about $750,000 a year, Chapin said.

INDEPENDENTS PLEDGE OIL CO-OPERATION

Ickes Reveals Rules For Effecting Curb On Production

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—Co-operation of independent oil producers with the administration's efforts to choke the flow of illegal crude was pledged today in informal statements by officials of the Independent Petroleum Producers' Association.

Regulations issued yesterday by Secretary Ickes to prevent oil produced in violation of state conservation laws from moving to consumption channels were looked on as "almost certain to bring early stabilization to the industry."

Ickes promised vigorous enforcement of the provisions requiring oil producers and shippers to report monthly and forbidding transportation agencies from accepting oil or petroleum products without evidence that it was legally produced.

REACTION FAVORABLE

Russell Brown, secretary of the independents' association, told newspapermen:

"The reaction in the oil states to the regulations has been most favorable."

The order said that each transaction which violated the regulations should be "deemed a separate offense."

Producers, purchasers and shippers are required to furnish the Department of the Interior with detailed data on production, purchases and shipments "regardless of whether such production, purchases and shipments are in interstate and foreign commerce or in intrastate commerce."

DATA REQUESTED

Producers are ordered to file under oath statements showing location of wells and the allowable production under each, as well as the daily production in barrels. In addition they must give full information on all sales and a declaration that petroleum produced or withdrawn from storage does not violate state regulations.

Purchasers and refiners are required to file similar statements and this data is reinforced by the statements from transporting agencies.

Carriers, however, may receive shipments from other carriers without being liable to penalty if regulations are infringed.

INCREASED DOLE URGED HERE

The State Emergency Relief Board today was called upon to increase relief an additional 37 cents a week for each person, in a letter from Rose M. Stein, secretary of the League for Social Justice.

Miss Stein said the 90 cents a week given each person six months ago now is worth only about 74 cents. She added that according to Mrs. Ruth Fisher, nutritionist of the Public Health Nursing Association, the equivalent of what 90 cents could purchase last November, plus the Red Cross flour then available to families on relief, would now cost $1.27.

She wrote:

"The least the relief agencies can do is sustain the low and much deplored level of last November. To expect the seventy some thousand familiese who are on relief in this county to subsist on the old rate in the face of increasing prices is to starve them in the most cruel sense of the word."

Cotton Code Benefits 100,000 in State

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt's order extending the cotton code will benefit about 100,000 workers in Eastern Pennsylvania.

This estimate was made today by John W. Edelman, research director of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers.

Dempsey and Hannah Rush to Wed as Baer, Wife Kiss and Makeup

Jack, Fiancee to Slip Away to Squire's Office Today

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey, onetime heavyweight champion of the world, and Hannah Williams, Broadway showgirl, will be married today, Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, the heavyweight prizefighter, declared.

Miss Williams

Hoffman said that Dempsey and Miss Williams, former wife of Roger Kahn, would slip quietly out of Salt Lake City today and be married "somewhere in Nevada by a justice of the peace," then continue their leisurely automobile trip to Los Angeles.

Hoffman had been with Dempsey in Salt Lake City for several days and returned yesterday to his California ranch with Baer, who is scheduled to start work on a motion picture in Hollywood next week.

Max, 'Little Woman' Agree to Scrap Divorce Suit

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 17.—(INS.)—Max Baer, the heavyweight "Adonis" of California, and his pretty wife, Dorothy Dunbar Wells, former stage and screen actress, walked arm-in-arm to the breakfast room of a fashionable hotel here early this morning, reconciled after several months' estrangement.

A divorce suit pending in Sacramento courts will be dropped immediately, they agreed.

"Are we happy? Well, you guess."

RIVERS WORK CUT INDICATED

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—The cabinet board in charge of public works met today to consider new proposals for speeding federal funds into construction amid indications that President Roosevelt is making cuts in the $90,000,000 rivers and harbors and flood control program it sanctioned last week.

The board reviewed recommendations for projects totaling about $750,000,000. Sharp reductions were expected.

The President still was scrutinizing the rivers and harbors and flood control projects submitted to him by the board last week. His failure to return the program with his approval led to predictions he would make some material cuts.

Though in every case the estimates have been examined and cut down both by the cabinet board and a sub-committee before they reached him, the President has in previous recommendations found still further ground for reductions.

Steel Men Strike For Wage Increase

MARTINS FERRY, O., July 17.—One hundred and fifty employes of the Wheeling Structural Steel Company went on strike today for an increase in the 22 cents an hour wage. The strike halted work on steel for the new postoffice at Columbus, O.

Mystery Thriller Kills Hungarian Premier's Wife

BUDAPEST, July 17.—(INS.)—Mme. Elizabeth Gomboes, wife of Julius Gomboes, the Hungarian premier, died today of heart disease. She was 40.

Mme. Gomboes' heart ailment was said to have been brought on by a shock she received in 1929 when attending a Budapest performance of an American mystery "thriller" play.

As the play opened several shots were fired from the audience toward the stage, whereupon Mme. Gomboes collapsed. She immediately lost her voice, recovering it a year later. She never recovered from the heart illness, however.

PARLEY REVIVAL UNLIKELY

LONDON, July 17.—(AP.)—The leaders of the World Economic Conference have decided after long and solemn consideration that too many cooks spoil the broth.

Unless they change this view the conference, which will take a recess July 27, will not be reconvened in its entirety.

The belief that the parley should not be revived after the recess was voiced at this morning's meeting of the steering committee, it was understood.

There is a growing feeling, in which at least some of the American delegation concur, that the conference as now constituted is so unwieldly it blocks its own progress.

If and when it is brought into being again—in Washington, London, Geneva or elsewhere—its numbers will be whittled down so that it will not take a census expert to keep track of the subcommittees of sub-committees of committees appointed by the subcommissions of the commissions.

Bishop Cannon Trial Set for October

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(INS.)—Arraigned on charges of violating the federal corrupt practises act, Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Southern Methodist church, and his secretary Miss Ada L. Burroughs, pleaded not guilty today in the district of Columbia Supreme Court.

Each was released under $1,000 bond. Their trial was set for the next term of court, opening in October.

Pay Raise Settles Radio Plant Strike

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—(INS.)—An approximate 20 per cent wage increase and Union recognition sent 2,000 striking employes of the Philco Radio Corporation's four plants here back to work today.

The agreement fixes a minimum wage scale of 45 cents an hour for men and 36 cents an hour for women; an 8-hour day and a 5-day week.

Relief Need Drops In Vanango County

OIL CITY, Pa., July 17.—Relief needs dropped 20 per cent in the last six weeks, according to officials of the Venango County relief boards. The decrease was 15 per cent between June 1 and July 1.

Steel Workers Hear Plea to Join Union

PORTSMOUTH, O., July 17.—(AP.)—First steps toward possible unionization of workers at the Wheeling Steel Corporation's new Boston plant were taken at a mass meeting last night.

Upwards of 500 workers attended the meeting and heard a talk by a representative of the American Federation of Labor. They took no definite action, but appointed a committee to make a further investigation and report at another conference to be held some time this week. The plant employes approximately 4,000 men.

REPEAL FACING SEVERE TEST IN SOUTH

Hot Campaigns Ending In 3 States; Drys Seek First Victory

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 17.—(AP.)—Three states of the deep South vote on repeal this week in elections which both friends and foes of prohibition recognize as a crucial test in the national campaign.

Alabama and Arkansas hold their elections tomorrow. Tennessee votes Thursday. Leaders on both sides in all three states claim victory.

The 16 states which already have voted have favored repeal. The repealists believe if they can swing the South into line their battle is virtually won.

CAMPAIGN INTENSE

For weeks, intensive campaigns have been conducted through the three states. Postmaster General Farley capped the repeal campaign here this week-end, calling upon Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee to "keep the covenant" with President Roosevelt by voting to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

Repealists, stumping the voting states, have raised the issues of party loyalty and of states' rights. Anti-repeal campaigners, many of them church leaders, have called attention to the South's dry traditions and warned of danger of return of the saloon.

Dry leaders in Arkansas and Alabama, where the fight has been particularly hot, say both states will vote dry.

VIRGINIA TO ACT

RICHMOND, Va., July 17.—(AP.)—By proclamation of Gov. Pollard, the Virginia Assembly will convene in special session August 17 with beer, a repeal referendum, and public works the principal items on the agenda suggested by party leaders.

OREGON TO VOTE

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—In addition to three southern states, one in the Far West will vote on prohibition repeal this week. Oregon voters will go to the polls Friday.

Huge Rye Market Awaiting Repeal

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—An outlet for 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels of rye produced on American farms was seen today by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics "if the manufacture of distilled spirits for beverage purposes is legalized by the fall of 1933."

Its statisticians estimated that renewal of activity by the distilling industry would require from 20 to 25 per cent of this year's short crop.

York Raps Farley In Plea for Drys

PALL MALL, Tenn., July 17.—(AP.)—Sergt. Alvin C. York, World War hero, told his neighbors at a dry rally here yesterday to disregard the repeal advice given by Postmaster General James A. Farley in an address at Memphis Saturday night, he said:

"We don't need these eastern guys to come down here and tell us how to vote."

Bowman Insolvent At Time of Death

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP.)—A transfer of tax appraisal filed today showed that John McEntee Bowman, president of the Bowman Biltmore Hotel Corporation, was insolvent when he died October 28, 1931. It listed gross asssets of $750,331 and deductions of $2,249,979, including debts of $2,112,527.

Food Costs Show Rise Fourth Month in Row

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—The butcher, the baker and the grocer to say nothing of the dry-goods store keeper had to pay an average of 3½ per cent more for their stocks during June than in May.

The Labor Department said today that wholesale prices for the month showed an index figure of 65 when compared with 100 in 1926.

This was the fourth consecutive month the wholesale prices have showed an upward swing. In February the index was 59.8, March 60.2 and April 60.4. The June increase when compared with a year ago, however, was only 1½ per cent.

Every group into which the 784 products reported are divided showed increases. Farm products went up almost 6 per cent. The sharp rise being shown in average prices of grain, cattle, sheep, cotton, lemons, oranges, fresh milk, tobacco, onions, white potatoes and wool.

There were decreases in the average prices of calves, live poultry, eggs, fresh apples, dried beans, hay and sweet potatoes.

Food price increases were reported for butter, cheese, flour, corn meal, rice, dried fruit, canned vegetables, cured beef, lamb, ham, pork, oleomargarine, lard and vegetable oils. In New York, fresh beef, mutton, veal and coffee averaged lower, but the food group as a whole increased 5 per cent in June as compared with May.

Leather products were up 7 per cent in June as compared with May, textile products 10; coke and petroleum products 1¾, metals and metal products 2; chemicals .75 and miscellaneous commodities 3¼.

Bashful Farmer Asks Police to Play Cupid

From far-off North Carolina a sturdy son of the soil (farmer to you) today asked Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide to play Cupid.

One who signs himself Otis Deaver, of Greenville, N. C., wrote this letter to the police boss:

"I have heard a great deal of praise of your city and the good-looking ladies, so I am wondering if you can help a lonely bachelor in his search for a wife, as I have always been very bashful around the fair sex.

"I am a farmer, a soldier, a painter and a poet. I am 40 years old, 6 feet tall, 200 pounds, dark hair, brown eyes, strong and healthy and well able to take care of the right girl."

Mr. McQuaide marked the letter "received and filed."

CITIZENS CALLED UPON TO AID IN RIDDING U. S. OF GANGS

PUBLIC'S HELP SOUGHT BY CUMMINGS

Co-operation of Nation Held Essential in War on Rackets

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—A plea for aid of the citizenry in the government's campaign against gangsters was made today by Attorney General Cummings.

Cummings told newspapermen without such assistance the drive could not succeed.

He said racketeering was "a national disease" and could not be stamped out in a day.

Not only must kidnapers and other criminals be arrested, but a curative and preventive campaign must be carried on, he added.

Cummings listed as some of the evils of the situation the ease with which criminals secure firearms and said to remove this would be helpful.

The Attorney General recommended more stringent laws, adding:

"This country has just passed through an unhappy period when the enforcement of unpopular laws built up a degree of resistance to law enforcing agencies so the people do not go to them with their problems.

"Even in kidnaping cases the relatives of the victim generally urge the police to keep out of the case and they themselves deal directly with the criminal. We must resurrect a psychology of supporting the law enforcement agencies."

Gang Frees Aged Banker, Son Denies Paying Ransom

ALTON, Ill., July 17.—(AP.)—The release by a kidnap gang of August Luer, aged and wealthy banker, today had stilled deep anxiety for his safety, but created a controversy over how much, if any, ransom was paid.

Freed early Sunday on a highway near Collinsville, Ill., the 77-year-old and almost invalid man was returned to his home several hours later by Department of Justice agents.

Carl Luer, his son, asserted "we didn't pay a cent of ransom."

Many well-informed persons believe, however, that a ransom of $10,000 changed hands.

The elderly man, seized last Monday evening in his own home here by two men and a woman, suffers from frequent heart attacks. Fear that he might die while in custody was believed in some quarters to have been the motivating influence in the release.

Luer said he was told by one of the abductors:

"We'd never have touched you, pop, if we'd known you were so weak and sick."

O'Connell's Kin Await New Word from Kidnapers

ALBANY, N. Y., July 17.—(AP.)—A strong feeling prevailed here today that the kidnapers of John J. O'Connell, Jr., would release him in New York City or in a suburb of the metropolitan district.

This belief was given impetus when it was learned that of the four letters received by the 24-year-old National Guard lieutenant's uncles, Ed and Dan O'Connell, one of the first three notes was mailed from Yonkers and the fourth bore a White Plains postmark. The other two were mailed in this city.

The fact that two of the letters were mailed from close to Manhattan and that the last list of intermediaries was published last Friday in New York City newspapers, revived the theory that the kidnapers hailed from New York City.

With the passing yesterday of the tenth day since O'Connell was seized from an automobile in front of his Putnam street home, the O'Connells today again expected further instructions from the young man's captors, either by mail or telephone.

Rancher Escaping Kidnapers Guarded

STOCKTON, Cal., July 17.—(AP.)—Object of a mistaken identity kidnap plot, W. Q. Wright, wealthy land owner, was given a police guard here today.

The plot was revealed after E. T. Wiggins, 70, superintendent of Wright's land company, was released by kidnapers in Northern California Saturday.

Mrs. Post Following an International Trail Through the Air

MRS. POST CLOSELY FOLLOWING THE MAP THAT WILEY LEFT

Mrs. Post, his loudest cheerer, in her New York home keeping close by the radio and the great route-marked map that her flying husband left before he lifted off on his solo globe-encircling attempt. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

WILEY POST'S ROUTE AND A SCENE OF DISASTER NEAR HIS FIRST STOP AT BERLIN

Flier Post's route as far as Moscow, his first definite stop today, and his projected route beyond and around the world. Soldin, small German town about 100 miles northeast of Berlin, is the scene of the deaths of the two Lithuanian fliers, Capt. Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas, who were just an hour behind Post in their attempt to fly the ocean to Lithuania.

POST HOPS OFF FROM MOSCOW FOR SIBERIA

chief reason why he landed at the East Prussian capital last night.

The robot trouble combined with a break in the oil feed induced Post to land at Moscow, he said. He hoped he had put everything in excellent order here before he departed.

Russian officials were concerned at Post's small appetite, and urged more food on him, but the American declined, saying:

"I eat only enough to keep from weakening myself. I purposely stay hungry so I can keep awake."

The American aviator had his two vacuum bottles filled with boiled water just before taking off for Siberia.

LOSES BAGGAGE

The Oklahoman will make the remainder of his globe circling flight without a change of clothing, having forgotten and left behind at Koenigsberg his suitcase, his only piece of baggage. Airport officials at Koenigsberg telephoned that the suitcase would be forwarded to Moscow by the regular commercial air service, but Post replied:

"I can't wait for it. Just have it sent home for me."

Post landed here at 2:20 p. m. Moscow time (7:20 a. m. Pittsburgh time) today after his flight from Koenigsberg.

Post, who seeks to better the mark he and Harold Gatty set on a globe-girdling journey in 1931, had left Koenigsberg at 6:45 a. m. local time (11:45 a. m. Pittsburgh time).

On arrival here Post was behind the schedule he had arranged for himself, but was four hours and 24 minutes ahead of the flight he made with Gatty.

Post and Gatty had an elapsed time of 54 hours and 34 minutes when they reached Moscow.

On that flight, which established a record which still stands, Post and Gatty stayed 11 hours and 30 minutes in Moscow. Today Post stayed there only two hours and 52 minutes.

When he left Moscow he was 53 hours and two minutes out of New York, which he left Saturday. When Post and Gatty left Moscow they were 66 hours and four minutes out of New York. Thus Post held a lead of 13 hours and two minutes.

Post had an elapsed time of 50 hours and 10 minutes on his arrival in the Soviet capital.

PERFECT LANDING

His monoplane swooped down suddenly out of the west, circled October Field, and then made a perfect landing.

Post climbed out stiffly as his plane taxied to a halt. He swayed from exhaustion after his feet touched the ground. He said:

"I need some work on the ship and also some gas and oil."

Airport officials hustled him into a private room and airdrome headquarters and a doctor examined him.

Approximately 200 officials and employes of the airport, with a sprinkling of members of the foreign colony, comprised Post's reception committee.

After a talk with the officials in a private conference room the airman went back to his plane and directed Soviet mechanics repairing a broken oil line which forced him to land here. He also ordered three tanks filled with gasoline, but said he needed no oil.

Declaring that he hoped to get off in two hours for Novosibirsk, he remarked:

"I feel fine."

The physician bore him out by pronouncing him in excellent physical condition. His right eye, however, was very tired from the strain (He lost his left eye in an accident several years ago), and the doctor gave him a lotion for it.

Eschewing regular flying garb, Post was attired in thin gray trousers, a blue shirt and a blue tie. He was bareheaded and his sleeves were rolled up.

Perspiration was streaming down his face when he climbed out of the cockpit onto a field baked hard by the hottest day of the summer.

He was served a light meal in the airport after supervising repairs to the oil line and then he went to the airdrome barbershop for a much-needed shave.

BALBO TO VISIT ROOSEVELT AT CAPITAL

Chicago Fetes Fliers Of Armada as They Plan Return Trip

CHICAGO, July 17. — Gen. Italo Balbo accepted today an invitation to visit President Roosevelt at the White House late this week.

Postmaster General James A. Farley presented the President's invitation while the Italian air minister way paying an official call at City Hall.

The capital city, however, probably will not have a visit from the fleet of 24 Italian seaplanes which completed the first mass flight from Europe to North America when it dropped down on Lake Michigan at Chicago's front door Saturday.

Gen. Balbo said the return trip would start Wednesday morning, the armada flying directly to New York.

VISIT TO ROOSEVELT

The Italian visitors will remain in New York for several days while the commander makes a special trip to Washington, probably by automobile or train, or in an American plane. After the visit to the capital, Gen. Balbo will rejoin his flight comrades in New York and prepare for the crossing of the Atlantic to the Azores and Italy.

Hundreds of gallons of gasoline were poured today into the 24 seaplanes of Gen. Balbo's 96 trans-Atlantic fliers as they prepared for the return trip.

Taking time out from the round of receptions that were strenuous enough to tire them more than did the 6,100-mile flight to Chicago from Orbetello, Italy, most of the fliers spent several hours working on the six-ton flying boats.

MEET MAYOR KELLY

A visit to Mayor Edward J. Kelly in City Hall, a tour of the World's Fair, and and inspection trip to Municipal Airport were among today's activities. A banquet was scheduled for tonight.

Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general here, said:

"Gen. Balbo feels that the flight was a decided success. In addition to its evidence of friendship and good will between our two great nations, I believe the flight will result in a great benefit to aviation."

At a banquet last night a message of congratulation from President Roosevelt was read by Chairman John A. Sbarbaro. Mr. Roosevelt wired:

"Please express to Gen. Balbo and his intrepid companions of his flight my great admiration for their achievement, and my warmest congratulations on the success of their exploit. Their accomplishment marks an important step in the progress of the conquest of the air. They are most welcome visitors."

In such esteem did Chicago hold the fliers, it was found necessary to place extra police guards around their hotel, keeping pedestrians and automobiles moving.

POLICE PROTECT ORTIZ RUBIO

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 17.—(AP.)—Vigilance and secrecy prevailed today at the home of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, former Mexican president, who informed police Saturday he had received two telephone messages since July 7 demanding $50,000 on the threat of kidnaping.

Police Chief Harry Raymond said:

"There will be no kidnaping. We have detailed men to the case. There are no known gangsters in the city and none can get in."

Two men were added to Ortiz Rubio's private guard and his house is surrounded day and night by armed men and police dogs.

Ortiz Rubio, his wife and three children returned to their home yesterday after spending a day, following the receipt of the second threat, in seclusion elsewhere.

Ortiz Rubio came here last September after relinquishing the Mexican presidency to Abelardo Rodriguez because of poor health.

Postmaster Named At E. McKeesport

Postmaster General James A. Farley today announced the appointments of George J. Hoke as acting postmaster at East McKeesport, and Robert G. Furlong, in the same capacity at Donora, Pa.

Hoke will succeed Mrs. Eliza Willhide, a widow, appointed four years ago by Former President Herbert Hoover. Postmistress Willhide, a mother of three daughters, succeeded Mrs. Camilla Bennett, who died while in office.

Italy Renews Peace Pact with Rumania

ROME, July 17.—(AP.)—Italy today renewed for a period of six months her treaty of friendship with Rumania. Many circles had concluded the treaty would not be renewed, in view of recent developments in Balkan politics.

U. S. IN FACTOR KIDNAP HUNT

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP.)—Federal, state and city law enforcing officers are pooling their resources to stamp out the kidnap menace in the Middle West.

Melvin Purvis, of the Chicago office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was ordered by Attorney General Cummings in Washington to co-operate with officials named by Gov. Henry Horner, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago, and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

A co-operative detail was organized to seize gangsters suspected of the recent kidnaping of John Factor, the speculator.

Meanwhile, Capt. Daniel Gilbert, of the State's Attorney's police, planned to question Martin O'Leary and Cal Fontana, described by investigators as former convicts, who were seized as suspects in the Factor abduction.

Lindberghs Visit Balbo Supply Ship

CARTWRIGHT, Labrador, July 17.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, preparing to survey possible air routes across the North Atlantic, spent a quiet weekend here. They arrived last week after easy flight by stages from New York.

Over the weekend they visited the Hudson's Bay station, the Italian supply ship Alice which was anchored here to service Gen. Italo Balbo's squadron of 24 seaplanes on its flight to Chicago, and the Grenfell Mission.

Flier, 75, Hopes To Span Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(AP.)—Determined, he said, to pilot an airplane across the Pacific Ocean despite his 75 years, Chairles Dickinson sailed from here aboard the liner President Coolidge yesterday for Japan. Dickinson is a licensed pilot.

HOLLYWOOD ON HONEYMOON

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—(INS.)—Today was honeymoon day in the movie colony.

Newly-married couples were:

Nina Wilcox Putnam, the novelist, and Christian Eliot, member of a noted British family.

George O'Brien, western film star, and Marguerite Churchill, film actress.

Jacqueline Roth, film actress, and Michael Cudahy, heir to meat packing millions.

F. X. Bushman, Jr., Postpones Wedding

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—(INS.)—Francis X. Bushman, Jr., young actor, and pretty Miss Winifred Wood, 17, daughter of Templeton Wood, formerly of St. Louis, will not be married—at least not immediately, her father said today. Wood declared:

"We have talked with the young couple and both agree with their families that there is no hurry."

DU PONTS SAFE IN GLIDER CRASH

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 17.—(INS.)—Unscathed when a glider in which they were riding crashed on a wooded mountain side near here, A. Felix du Pont, vice president of the du Pont de Nemours Company, and his son, Richard, 24, today rejoiced at their narrow escape.

The du Ponts were attending a glider meet here, the elder du Pont having offered a $3,000 prize for a glider pilot making a nonstop flight from this city to New York.

Young du Pont, a glider enthusiast, decided to essay a flight and took his father aboard as a passenger. They took off from the top of the mountain, but had risen only a short distance when a shift in the wind sent the glider crashing into the wood.

Six hundred spectators, including Mrs. Felix du Pont, raced to their aid, but found the pair climbing from the wreckage of the glider unhurt.

Young Richard du Pont last February was forced to land in the mountains near Greenburg in his own plane during a snowstorm. For two days he lived with a mountaineer family who knew him only as "Dick."

Balbo Declared Jew, Nazis Hold Writer

BERLIN, July 17.—(INS.)—Col. Schwendi, editorial writer on the Duetsche Zeitung, was ordered interned in a concentration camp today for publishing an article declaring that Gen. Italo Balbo, leader of the Italian seaplane flight to Chicago, was of Jewish descent.

The paper, one of the most influential in Germany, was suppressed until October 15. The orders were issued by Capt. Goering, Prussian prime minister and Chancellor Adolf Hitler's right hand man.

Mrs. Roosevelt Visits Mrs. Taft on Tour

MURRAY BAY, Quebec, July 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, on a vacation tour in Canada, called on Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the former President of the United States, during the week-end. She spent some time chatting with Mrs. Taft before continuing her motor trip eastward.

MRS. POST SAYS 'HURRY HOME'

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP.)—The prospect of glory is not the only spur that is sending Wiley Post hurtling around the globe. There is also a stern injunction from his wife to "hurry home."

Mrs. Post talked with her husband at Koenigsberg, Germany, by telephone last night. The conversation was terse. She asked:

"Well, how do you feel?"

"Swell."

"Well, hurry home."

"You bet I will."

"Well, I'll be seeing you soon."

"O. K. So long."

There was no surprise for Mrs. Post in her husband's fast flight to Berlin. She said:

"It was nothing more than I expected."

paper man, a neighbor and close political associate of Mays. He owns an advertising agency, and has been one of the most active Democrats in Berks County.

Mays said Ritzman will have charge of publicity and will make speeches, explaining the workings of the home loan fund in answer to anticipated requests of business and civic organizations.

LARGE STAFF NEEDED

The purpose of the corporation is to give help to home owners who are financially responsible but unable to obtain loans on their properties or are hard pressed by the mortgage holders.

A large staff will be required to handle the business of the Pittsburgh office, Mays revealed. All appraisals, title examinations and other legal work required in making the loans will be handled by members of the office force, he said.

Pennsylvania has been divided into four districts, and the section administered from Pittsburgh probably will extend as far east as Bedford County, he said.

Mays asked that an appeal be made to the public not to write in about mortgage help until the office is established. Declaring a false impression had been spread about the purposes of the corporation, he said:

"There is no Santa Claus in this plan. The government is not going to give anything away for nothing."

80 PER CENT LIMIT

The government will loan on homes up to 80 per cent of their appraised value and not more than $14,000. Such a loan will be made through the issuing of tax-free bonds, guaranteed as to interest, but not as to principal, by the government. They will bear 4 per cent interest.

These bonds will be offered to the holder of the mortgage in exchange for it. If he refuses, and the loan required is not more than 40 per cent of the value of the property, the corporation may make the loan in cash.

Mays emphasized that the government will seek to avoid the cash transactions, to make the bond loans reach as far as possible.

After the bond transaction is arranged, the property holder will have 15 years to pay back to the government the interest and principal of the loan, and will pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent on the unpaid balance.

VICKI TO STUDY FILM WRITING

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(Universal.) — Smoothly clad in white linen and black accessories, Mrs. Richard Lert, better known as Vicki Baum, came to San Francisco today.

The famed authoress of "Grand Hotel," one of the country's best novels of 1930, best play of 1931, and best movie of 1932, had just spent four hot days coming across the continent, and snifted delightedly at the city cool morning air. She said:

"Now, it's not fair to ask about 'Grand Hotel.' Naturally, I was happy at its success, why not?

"Personally, just in my own opinion, you understand, I liked the play a shade better than the movie, not because of the people involved, but just because I like plays better than movies. They were both splendidly directed, splendidly acted.

"But I'm going to learn more about movies, for I'm under contract and living in Los Angeles. Germany is out, I'm afraid. They burned my books, you know. That puts me in good company, anyway."

GARBER NAMED TO HOME BANK

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced today the appointment of H. H. Garber as treasurer of the home loan bank at Pitsburgh, to succeed R. A. Cunningham, who has been acting treasurer. Cunningham is retained as general counsel of the Pittsburgh home loan bank.

Garber has been connected with the treasurer's office of the Aluminum Company of America for the past three years.

W. Homestead Man Cut Fighting Fire

Fred Knauber, street commissioner of West Homestead, was cut on the arm early today in a fire which damaged two houses at 205 and 207 West Tenth avenue, West Homestead. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

The families of Harry Bennett and Howard Hawk lived at 205 West Tenth avenue and the family of H. A. Stevens occupied the house next door. The fire started on the third floor of the Bennett home.

FILIPINOS FACE FREEDOM ISSUE

MANILA, P. I., July 17.—(INS.)—Opening the third session of the Philippine legislature this morning Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy urged quick and patriotic action on the independence measure passed by Congress. He said:

"No greater responsibility nor more urgent call has ever come before the representatives of a people. In making this momentous decision personal fortunes must be subordinated for the country's good."

Gov. Murphy stressed government control for guidance of the economic life of the Philippines. He urged an adequate system of aviation and electric communications, more public utility control, and an enlarged educational system.

Persons favoring the independence measure paraded yesterday, and today, in equal numbers, opponents of the bill paraded.

TRAMP CHARGED WITH MURDER

OCEAN CITY, N. J., July 17.—(INS.)—A charge of murder today was lodged against John Smith, 57-year-old vagrant, following the death of a young law student whom he shot during a chase on Saturday.

Smith is believed to be one of 19 inmates who shot their way out of the State Reformatory at Granite, Okla., some time ago.

The student, Lawrence Imbesi 24, employed as a letter carrier here for the summer, died in a hospital. A second victim, Maurice Johnston, Jr., 26, a mail clerk, who was shot under the heart, still is in critical condition.

Smith, slightly wounded by a police bullet, dropped his gun and submitted to arrest. A crowd gathered about the jail, crying "lynch him" and "string him up." The gunman was taken secretly from the jail here to the jail at Cape May Courthouse.

BARTERED BRIDE WAITS RELEASE

CHICAGO, July 17. — (Universal)—On testimony that she was sold to her husband by her stepfather for $300, and that she was given a drink of whisky on the morning of her marriage, Marion Fisher, 18, is awaiting annulment of her ties today.

Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein has announced that the girl's testimony will be embodied in the decree, even though the annulment was sought by Kasper Felder, 27, the husband.

Felder in his plea said that they were married last December, and that she had refused to live him. The young woman told the judge:

"I never met Felder until two days before the marriage. About December 15 my stepfather said he had found a young man for me who was going to pay him money on our marriage. I thought he was joking. When I got up the morning of December 31, my mother gave me a drink of whisky. It made my mind a blank for several hours. Later I was told that Felder and I had been married.

SEEKS HUSBAND 'LOST' ON HIKE

Police today were seeking a trace of the husband of Mrs. Gladys Hatch, of Havre de Grace, Md., mother of two small children, who told Central Police Station attaches she had become separated from Percy James Hatch in the mountains near Cumberland last week, while they were hitchhiking to the home of her parents in Newport, Tenn.

Mrs. Hatch, with her children, was brought here from Connellsville by a woman motorist. She said she and her husband abandoned their car when it broke down, and he left her after expressing the belief she would be able more easily to obtain a ride without him. The children are aged 14 months and 2 years.

"I PICKED PLYMOUTH BECAUSE IT'S A Sweet-Running Car!"

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH MR. GEORGE R. STEVENS, 1006 SPRING STREET, ELGIN, ILL.

"It's a piece of real Precision Engineering"... and that's High Praise from a Watchmaker!

"THEY call me a crank on precision. That's because I'm an engineer in a watch factory, where we measure through a magnifying glass.

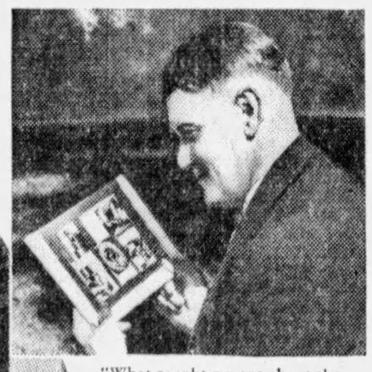
"But I'll say this for Plymouth—there's no neater piece of precision manufacture anywhere. It runs like a watch—and from me, that's a mighty high compliment!"

People like Mr. Stevens understand why Plymouth carries "details" so far. Four rings per piston instead of three. Four crankshaft bearings. Full pressure lubrication—not hit-or-miss splash!

Those things are good engineering. Of course they're details—when you compare them in importance with Floating Power engine mountings—hydraulic brakes—safety-steel bodies.

But details count—and we'd like to have you see how much. "Look at all three"... and see for yourself why Plymouth sales are growing so much faster than its two chief competitors.

"Yes—we take good care of our Plymouth! We're fond of it! Mrs. Stevens is as proud of its looks as she is of her smartest dress—and as for me, I'm never one to neglect a piece of machinery as fine as this Plymouth. Every time we drive it out it seems to perform and handle better!"



"What caught my eye about the Plymouth was its engineering."

"Once you try Hydraulic Brakes you'll never use anything else."

"Now I say, 'It runs like a watch!' That's praise . . . coming from a watchmaker."

MUNICIPALITIES WAIT BEER REVENUE

'Social Clubs' Here Fail to Beat Beer Tax

Officers of incorporated "social or literary" clubs who have been congratulating themselves upon escaping the federal beer tax changed their minds today.

David L. Lawrence, collector of internal revenue, announced that all such clubs, even if they sold beer below cost, must pay the retailers' $20 annual tax. This new ruling was received from Washington.

Members of the clubs are criminally responsible for failure to pay, Lawrence added.

Boroughs and townships are awaiting their share of 3.2 beer revenue due them from the County Treasurer's office. Some municipalities will place theirs in the general fund for current expenditures; others will make minor improvements; but the majority await receipt of the money before deciding for what it will be spent.

Ben Avon is one of the few which will not share in the revenue distribution. The borough has no beer distributors nor retailers. If they want beer, a native said:

"We have to go next door—Emsworth or Avalon—to get ours."

The treasurer's office is mailing checks amounting to $122,937.50. Boroughs will receive $94,425 and first class townships $28,512.50. Second class townships do not share in the distribution. Pittsburgh gets $389,775, McKeesport $17,200, Duquesne $5,925 and Clairton $5,525. The treasurer's office reports there were 3,866 licenses issued in the county. The $10 license fee goes to the county.

The following amounts have been allotted to the various boroughs and first class townships:

Boroughs—Aspinwall, $250; Avalon, $200; Bellevue, $1,300; Blawnox, $350; Brackenridge, $1,650; Braddock, $8,700; Bradford Woods, $150; Brentwood, $850; Bridgeville, $1,650; Carnegie, $6,025; Castle Shannon, $1,050; Chesswick, $2,625; Coraopolis, $3,150; Crafton, $400; Dormont, $2,475; Dravosburg, $400; East Pittsburgh, $2,650; East McKeesport, $2,000; Edgewood, $100; Edgeworth, $25; Elizabeth, $625; Emsworth, $400; Etna, $2,025; Forest Hills, $375; Glassport, $1,950; Glenfield, $75; Greentree, $225; Heidelberg, $825; Homestead, $9,875; Ingram, $450; Leetsdale, $700; Millvale, $3,475; Mt. Oliver, $2,175; Munhall, $450; McDonald, $100; McKees Rocks, $7,900; North Braddock, $1,575; Oakdale, $350; Oakmont, $975; Pitcairn, $975; Port Vue, $275; Rankin, $3,500; Sewickley, $925; Sharpsburg, $3,350; Springdale, $850; Swissvale, $2,600; Tarentum, $1,800; Thornburg, $25; Turtle Creek, $2,750; Verona, $1,025; Versailles, $625; Wall, $550; West Elizabeth, $187.50; West Homestead, $775; West View, $1,350; Whitaker, $300; Wilmerding, $2,275, and Wilkinsburg, $3,875.

First class townships—Baldwin, $1,175; Braddock, $100; Collier, $850; Crescent, $262.50; Elizabeth, $1,000; Harrison, $2,550; Mifflin, $1,700; Mt. Lebanon, $2,325; Neville, $450; North Versailles, $1,000; O'Hara, $950; Penn, $3,350; Reserve, $550; Ross, $3,900; Scott, $1,825; Shaler, $1,750; South Fayette, $1,725; Springdale, $350; Stowe, $2,450, and Wilkins, $250.

Cosgrave Attacks Feud with Britain

KILTIMAGH, Irish Free State, July 17.—(AP.)—William T. Cosgrave, former president, said in a speech here last night that the land annuities dispute with Great Britain should be settled and the economic warfare between the two countries ended.

The economic conflict, he asserted, has cost the Irish Free State £250,000 a week, adding:

"Unlike any other country, we brought a serious economic crisis on ourselves."

Keg of Beer Causes Motorcycle to Crash

LANGHORNE, Pa., July 17.—(AP.)—A barrel of beer sent three motorcyclists into the ditch last night—through no fault of their own.

The keg rolled out of a roadster speeding up a hill and careened toward the motorcycle. The operator, William H. Porter, of Philadelphia, was forced to drive off the road to avoid a collision. Hurriedly retrieving their beer, the motorists drove on, leaving the three slightly injured men in the ditch.

MAY ASK STATE FIX BEER PRICE

Members of the Allegheny County Wholesale Beverage Distributing Association, meeting yesterday, talked about soliciting the aid of Attorney General Schnader to fix beer prices.

The members heard Elliot Donley, treasurer, criticize distributors who sold three bottles for 25 cents.

A motion to sell case beer at $1.80 to retailers and $2 to private consumers was passed.

Officers elected were Harry I. Neaman, president; Joseph P. Martorella and Charles Luebbe, vice presidents; J. Napoleon, financial secretary; James H. Wall, secretary; Elliot Donley, treasurer.

U. S. May Restore Island Naval Base

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(Universal.)—The Virgin Islands, gateway to the Caribbean, are to be restored as a naval base, under plans being worked out by the administration.

Gov. Paul M. Pearson, who is under jurisdiction of the Department of Interior, would be replaced by a naval officer as governor. The Navy formerly governed the islands.

Uncle Fails to Save Boy From Drowning

OIL CITY, Pa., July 17.—(AP.)—John V. Haight, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Haight, of Bradford, drowned yesterday while swimming in the Allegheny River near West Hickory.

Lawrence Tucker, the youth's uncle, almost drowned attempting to save him.

WEALTHY G. O. P. LEADER DIES

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP.)—William L. Ward, 76, veteran Republican leader of Westchester County, died at a hospital last night.

Ward, long a dominant figure in state politics, underwent an operation recently.

A multimillionaire, he lived alone in his later years in a mansion called "The Castle," atop a hill in Port Chester.

Thirty years ago a prominent figure in national politics, serving on the powerful executive committee of the Republican National Committee, Ward in his later years was reduced to his leadership of Westchester County.

Always personally independent, Ward once flatly refused President Taft's invitation to dine with him and other national committeemen at the White House. Instead, he played rummy in a Washington hotel, explaining he never attended dinners.

BRITAIN TO BALK GANDHI PARLEY

LONDON, July 17.—(AP.)—The British government will maintain its refusal to negotiate on the question of civil disobedience in India, Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for India, told the House of Commons today. He said:

"Once again Gandhi wishes to put himself in the position of a negotiator who carries in reserve the unconstitutional weapon of civil disobedience to back his arguments. There can be no question of making a bargain with the congress as a condition of their accepting the ordinary obligations of citizens."

POONA, India, July 17.—(AP.)—The Mahatma Gandhi declined to be discouraged today by the refusal of the viceroy, Lord Willingdon, to grant him an interview unless the civil disobedience campaign were unconditionally abandoned.

The mahatma quickly replied to a message from the viceroy and repeated his request of last week for a conference on the possibilities of ending the passive resistance movement.

Col. Walter H. Kelly Elected by Vets

Lieut. Col. Walter H. Kelly is commander of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Military Order of the World War, following the annual election. Other officers elected were Lieut. Commander George T. Ladd, senior vice-commander; Lieut. Col. George H. Cherrington, junior vice-commander; and Capt. Edward H. Flood, adjutant.

Heart Attack Kills 'A. E. F.' Postmaster

HAVANA, July 17.—(INS.)—Maj. J. H. Knox, superintendent of United States mails, died here today of heart failure. He was A. E. F. postmaster during the World War.

Gas Pump Police On Long Vigil For $5 Fee

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—(AP.)—That pump handle shall not turn today. Three policemen, leaning against a gasoline tank in eight-hour shifts will see to that.

They started Thursday noon at the service station of Charles H. Williams and, at $5 a man each day, the cost is already $60.

It seems the city says Williams owes it a $5.50 fee and he's got to pay no matter what it costs to collect.

2 STOWAWAY GIRLS HOME

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP.)—Disinclined to talk about their experience, Meta V. Chapman, 19, of Trenton, N. J., and Anne Timpko, 20, of Tamaqua, Pa., were landed in New York yesterday after spending 20 days in a German jail on charges of stowing away on the liner Bremen when it left here June 9.

The young women were put ashore from the liner Berlin by German authorities who had refused to accept their explanation that they lost themselves aboard the Bremen before it sailed and were forced to go along.

They carried a letter from the American consul at Bremen vouching for their American citizenship, and immigration officials allowed them to land without delay in New York.

U. S. Woman Freed After Lebrun Row

PARIS, July 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Charles Tarbell Dudley, of New York, who was held by police after she insisted Friday on seeing President Lebrun, was released today and left for London. She had been a resident of Paris for three years.

PINCHOT NAMES MISS CARR

HARRISBURG, July 17.—(INS.)—Miss Charlotte E. Carr, whose activities Dr. A. M. Northrup blamed for the termination of his services as Secretary of Labor and Industry, today was named to succeed him.

She is the second woman to join the cabinet of Gov. Gifford Pinchot. Mrs. Alice I. Liveright, Secretary of Welfare, is the other.

Dr. Northrup in announcing his resignation blamed Miss Carr for fomenting industrial strikes in Pennsylvania and cited the marked increase in labor troubles since her connection with the department.

A professional social worker, Miss Carr was brought here from New York at the beginning of the Pinchot administration.

At the time he announced the appointment today the Governor made public a lengthy statement lauding Miss Carr's abilities and also a telegram from Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor in the Roosevelt administration, congratulating him on his selection.

Dr. Northrup announced his resignation last week, making it effective as of August 1. Governor Pinchot countered by stating the resignation was requested, and then terminated his services immediately. Northrup's charges against Miss Carr were branded by the Governor as "too silly for words."

Big Choir to Sing At Slovak Outing

A gypsy orchestra playing Slav tunes, a mixed choir of 1,000 and gymnastic drills will be featured Thursday at the tenth annual Western Pennsylvania Slovak Day at Kennywood Park. Addresses will be made by the Rev. K. A. Mlynarovic, of East Chicago, Ill., Dr. Olga Husek, of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, the Rev. Isaac Herkel and Michael Simchak.

Convict Refuses Freedom Until He Wins Game

JOLIET, Ill., July 17.—(AP.)—It was the eighth inning of the baseball game between the Joliet State Prison team and the Will County Democrats, and the score was tied 6 and 6.

Ira Padgett, third baseman for the prison boys, was playing some sparkling ball when a guard walked out on the infield and handed him his parole papers. He said:

"Don't bother me. I gotta play ball."

And he did, breaking a tie with a single in the fourteenth. Then he checked out.

SESSION TO AID N. Y. ASSURED

ALBANY, N. Y., July 17.—(AP.)—For the second time in eight months Gov. Lehman today prepared to summon the Legislature to a special session to help New York City meet its financial problems.

The Governor last night granted the city's request for immediate legislative action to help it raise needed unemployment relief funds. The session may be called "in about a week." The Governor served notice, however, that he would recommend only that the Legislature approve additional municipal taxes. He refused flatly to consider a "general statewide tax" on the ground that it would be unfair to citizenes of other communities which do not need additional relief funds.

Reach for a Lucky for always Luckies Please!

Copyright, 1933, The American Tobacco Company.

I learned about "Toasting" from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

ROOSEVELT TALKS -:- President's Address To Forest Army -:- ON AIR TONIGHT

Dern, Ickes, Miss Perkins Broadcast

Facing the White House microphone, President Roosevelt is to be heard over nation-wide NBC and CBS networks tonight at 10:30 as he sends a special message to his 300,000-strong reforestation army.

The broadcast, carried locally by KDKA and WJAS, also will include talks by the recruited foresters' immediate commander, Secretary of War George H. Dern, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Robert Fechner, director of the corps, introduces the speakers. A musical program by the United States Army Band is an additional feature.

Aircaster's Girl Dishes Out Gossip

By AGNES P. M'GILLICUDDY
(Slaving for Aircaster.)

According to all of my calculations, which I must admit at times have not been so good, my playboy boss ought to be back in the picture most any day now. If I am right, today marks the second anniversary, taking it by weeks, of his departure.

At any rate, here I am at the switch again; but be patient, please.

Rosaline Swims

Rosaline Greene, the NBC dramatic star, did a bit of swimming the other day, it seems. With Maestro Harry Salter and another friend, she went canoeing on the Sound, and about a mile out a wave got the better of the canoe.

There is talk of a new commercial for Jimmy Melton, the NBC singer who's proving his prowess as a maestro in one of the Broadway theaters this week.

Vacation Department

List among the vacationers-abroad Freddie Rich, CBS maestro, who sailed Friday for Italy and the Riviera. . . . Elsie Lichtenstuhl, of KDKA, is lazy-ing at Atlantic City . . . and Earl White, WCAE's young tenor, also is at the shore.

For the first time since Brother John—he of the deep bass voice—suffered an attack of pneumonia in the spring, the Mills Brothers return to the scene next week for a Brooklyn theater engagement. They plot their aerial return in the fall.

Gracie's New Show

Those CBS dumbcrackers, George Burns and Gracie Allen, are at it again—with George striding around mumbling to himself and adding up sums on his fingers, and Gracie trying out electric light signs with her name in letters eight feet high.

The thing that's got them dizzy is their first real revue—the Great Burns and Allen Revue—being staged on Broadway this week with a cast of 50; novel Burns-designed sets, and, according to Gracie, the whole show "running backwards."

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

In sincere boyish scrawl, comes a letter from David Wells Bright, of Forest Hills Borough:

"I can't eat very much because Laddie is gone. I'm scared I won't ever see him again. I am 8 years old and he is my best playmate."

The familiar plaint of the little fellow who lost his dog. David's Laddie is a tan and white collie.

David is only one of the little fellows who loses a dog playmate. When we think of what a tragedy it is to the youngster it becomes a duty to do all we can to return a dog that we might find as quickly as possible, to its owner.

This hollyhock contest is growing as fast as the hollyhocks themselves. No prizes have been offered, yet, but we're open for suggestions. Maybe a copy of the Jack and the Beanstalk story would be appropriate.

J. Vincent Borgia, Ambridge—It doesn't seem probable that the people around here will get a chance to see the Italian Armada. However, Gen. Italo Balbo received an invitation to fly over Gettysburg to participate in a historical celebration there. If he would accept, then we might be so honored.

Please, ladies, do something for me. Tell me what you have discovered to keep ants out of the house so that the word can be passed along to long-suffering sisters.

A super-salesman is Howard York, of Balboa street, Sun-Telegraph newsie. He entered a business establishment Saturday night and sold 10 Sunday papers to the patrons there by exhibiting a copy of the store's advertisement.

WOMEN HOLD $1.50 MENUS EXTRAVAGANT

Hundreds of women readers who followed the Sun-Telegraph Prudence Penny $100 weekly prize dinner menu contest, are of the opinion that the expenditure of $1.50 for serving an appetizing dinner for four persons is not an exercise of real thrift. In fact, many frowned upon it as an extravagance.

Hundreds of housewives in letters to Prudence Penny claimed that the expenditure of $1 will easily serve four persons with a fine dinner. Will it? Let's find out!

In compliance with these many suggestions the Sun-Telegraph turns Contest No. 6 into the $1 menu class instead of $1.50. The prize list will still total $100 for the week, with $25 as the first prize. Housewives everywhere are invited to send in their $1 menus. The contest question is "Can four persons be served with a well-balanced, appetizing dinner menu at a cost not to exceed $1?" Send in your favorite menus but be sure that you do some careful shopping before you put them together. The judges will check up on the prices. Entries for the new $1 dinner menu contest must be submitted before Tuesday, July 25. In the Sun-Telegraph today there is an entry blank and complete rules covering the contest.

COURT STAYS EXTRADITION

BOSTON, July 17.—(AP.)—Judge George H. Bingham, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, today stayed the extradition to Virginia to George Crawford, Negro, charged with murder, pending the taking of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court by Crawford's counsel.

Crawford, who was arrested last January charged with breaking and entering, later was identified as a fugitive from Virginia, where he was wanted on a charge of murdering Mrs. Agnes Ilsley, wealthy sportswoman, and her maid, Nina Buckner, in 1931.

Gov. Joseph B. Ely agreed to grant extradition but Judge James M. Lowell, of the United States District Court, upon petition of J. Weston Allen, counsel for Crawford, granted a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that Negroes were barred from jury service in Virginia.

Later the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed Judge Lowell's decision and Allen petitioned for a stay in order to bring the issues before the United States Supreme Court.

2 WOMEN SET SELVES AFIRE

WINDSOR, Ont., July 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Annie Brookbanks, 43, set fires under the beds of her sleeping children early today, Windsor authorities said, and then soaked her clothing in kerosene and ignited it.

She was critically burned.

The children were uninjured. They were Hilda, 13, and Billie and Duncan, 10-year-old twins.

Investigators asserted the mother shut herself in the kitchen and there set fire to her clothes. Then she ran screaming from the house.

LEESBURG, O., July 17.—(INS.)—Setting fire to her clothing after soaking them with gasoline, Mrs. Maude Curran, 64, of Los Angeles, Cal., was dead today from burns.

Friends said Mrs. Curran had been in ill health. She came here recently for a visit.

Gary Mayor's Auto In Crash, 3 Killed

WINCHESTER, Ind., July 17.—(AP.)—Three persons were killed at a highway intersection north of here yesterday when an automobile owned by Mayor Roswell O. Johnson, of Gary, Ind., struck another machine, driven by George Tanner, 49, of Saratoga, Ind.

Tanner was hurled from his car and killed instantly, as were Frank Rex, 51, and Mrs. Rex, 49, both of Saratoga, who had been riding with him.

Mother and Son In Double Wedding

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 17.—A mother and son were the principals in a double wedding ceremony performed by Ralph H. Brown, Blairsville Justice of the Peace.

The mother, Mrs. Martha E. Pearce, was married to Grust Bower, of Pottsville. Her son, Albert S. Pearce, wed Florence Lenora Dunmire, of Robinson, Pa.

MISS JEAN DAVISON MISS MARION BLACK

GUESTS IN THE GARDEN AT "VOSEMARY," THE E. V. BABCOCK HOME, FOR THE WOMAN'S CITY CLUB GARDEN PARTY

300 Brave Threatening Skies to Attend City Club's Garden Party

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

In spite of threatening skies and a few scattered raindrops, about 300 guests attended the garden party given Saturday by the Woman's City Club at "Vosemary," Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock's country home. For a time the bridge devotees played indoors and on the veranda, but as the clouds lifted tables were moved out into the gardens.

Here and there over the spacious grounds, several costumed "fortune tellers" moved. In the garden house, Mrs. Chester B. Story read palms, Mrs. Stuart McFarland read nearby and Miss Lay Palmer and Miss Jean Carroll were seen at various vantage points dispensing 'good fortunes."

Welcome Guests

Mrs. Babcock was ill and confined to her room, so her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., stepped into her mother's place, making the guests welcome. Mrs. James H. Hammond, wearing white embroidered crepe, was general chairman for the affair and was apparently everywhere at once.

Mrs. C. L. Peirce, Jr., president of the club, wore a charming blue and white dotted frock and a dark blue hat. Mrs. E. W. Mudge was in blue and white, too, an attractive model with ruffled trimming of white chiffon. Mrs. A. S. F. Keister wore one of the most striking costumes seen during the entire afternoon—an ensemble of plain white crepe with broad bands of dark red.

At one of the tables in the rest house overlooking the swimming pool Mrs. George Phelps Rose, Mrs. E. M. Heumann, Mrs. William E. Frick and Mrs. William Chapin played.

Party at 2 Tables

Mrs. George A. Holliday and her party of seven occupied two other tables, among her guests being Miss Dorothy Holliday and Miss Marie Louise Behrens, both from California, who are spending the summer with her. Miss Behrens wore blue organdie, Miss Holliday was in white and Mrs. Holliday herself was in pink crepe which she wore with a silk and wool Czechko - Slovakian embroidered jacket.

Mrs. Henry Clay McEldowney had on a becoming floral chiffon and black lace. Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard wore white embroidered batiste, Miss Suzanne Beatty who was touring the gardens with Mrs. Hilliard, Miss Emma Mellor Campbell, Miss Margaret Lee and Mrs. George Seibel, had on a most becoming figured chiffon ensemble in blue and white. Incidentally, Mrs. McEldowney and Miss Beatty presided at the tea table. Mrs. D. J. Kennedy's gown was of chiffon and lace.

In Frock Of Voile

Two of the most attractive younger people there were Marion Black, who wore a long straight model of checked voile, with fichu and very long sash of white organdie, and Jean Davison whose frock was of natural colored embroidered batiste. Miss Black's mother, Mrs. E. M. Black, was in green and black figured chiffon and her grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Mackrell, in black and white chiffon.

* * *

Among the many others noted at the affair (which was a benefit for the club choral) were Mrs. W. Norton McCutcheon, who wore a brown print; Mrs. Sylvester Snee, Mrs. Samuel C. Grier, Mrs. Harold Irons, Mrs. C. C. Hartman, Mrs. Ralph Riggs, Mrs. John Donahoe, Mrs. Charles S. Miller, Miss Dorothy Miller, Miss Harriet Parks, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. John Howard Phillips, Mrs. S. J. Corbett, Mrs. F. J. Riebel, Miss Karen Fladoes, Mrs. J. C. Heckman, Miss Natalie Diebold, Miss Gene Miller, Miss Hannah Patterson, Mrs. Jennie Bradley Roessing, Mrs. A. W. Powell, Mrs. Arnold M. Replogle, Mrs. Newell G. Alford, Miss Catherine Norton and Mrs. Charles S. Davis.

Peace League Exhibits To Be Shown Tomorrow

The rain on Saturday caused the postponement of the Women's International League's woods party from Saturday to yesterday. Even so, the attendance was small, but those who were there found the Scandinavian and Latin-American exhibits so interesting that it was decided to show them again tomorrow night from 7:30 until 9:30.

Both yesterday's picnic and the exhibit tomorrow evening—at Mrs. Max Henrici's home "Hildesheim," McAlister's crossroads, are benefits for the League's peace work.

Pittsburgh Party Visits Hotel in Mountains

Among visitors at the Summit Hotel and Golf Club near Uniontown during the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Doeblin and Miss Eleana Doeblin and Miss Mildred George, all of Dormont, who had a luncheon party.

Vacationing at the Summit are Miss Elizabeth Brown and Miss Jean Schley, of Crafton.

Other Pittsburgh visitors have been Mrs. C. I. Townsend, of Wilkinsburg; Mr. and Mrs. P. L. McCain and Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Wiley.

Tressa L. Kennedy Is Married to K. S. Twyman

Mrs. John A. Kennedy, of Sheraden, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Tressa Lacey Kennedy, to Kenneth Stewart Twyman, son of Mrs. Laura Twyman, of Crafton, which took place in the rectory of the Holy Innocents Church July 3.

The bride, who wore white net, had as her only attendant, Miss Dorothy Kennedy, who wore blue net. John A. Sauer, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Twyman are now at home in Duncan avenue, Crafton. Mr. Twyman is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, Dickinson College chapter.

Miss Belle Slutzky's Betrothal Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Slutzky, of Stanton avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Belle Slutzky, to Herbert Shook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shook, of Avondale place.

International Congress Told Women Should Do More and Talk Less

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP.)—An international congress of women opened last night with feminine leaders from 31 nations joining in discussions of world problems and the relation of their sex to them, which will continue a week.

Welcomed by President Rufus C. Dawes, of a Century of Progress Exposition, the congress members heard Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, New York attorney and head of the National Council of Women, urge them "to talk less and do more for the progress of civilization."

She said:

"The time has come for men and women who are eager for the progress of civilization to abandon words for militant action."

Avenues for action at present, she said, were through governmental channels. She urged her listeners to enter politics in their communities and go to work in "an orderly way for social justice."

Responses to the welcome of President Dawes were made by Dr. Wally Alexandrescu, of Rumania, Baroness Schidzue Ishimoto, of Japan, and Hon. Margaret Bonfield, former British cabinet member.

Other distinguished foreign visitors here for the conferences include Dame Rachael Crowdy, of England, Miss Lily Kelly, of Argentina, Miss Emma Gonzales, of Chile, and Senora Pate, of Uruguay.

President Roosevelt, in a message read by Miss Phillips, expressed hope that the meeting would be sucessful.

The program embraces nearly every phase of modern thinking, modern government and modern living.

More than 100 speakers, at the congress, both men and women, are recognized experts in their fields. It is to deal in round tables and general sessions with birth control, music, the future of education, social hygiene and industrial planning.

Emerson Club to Sponsor Theater Party and Dance

Emerson Club of Sacred Heart Church will sponsor a theater party and dance at the Willows, Oakmont, Thursday evening when the Stage Guild will give "Symphony in Two Flats."

Dormont Mothers Sponsor Play For Oct. 6

October 6 has been selected by the Dormont Mothers' Club as the date for a benefit performance by the Golden Triangle Players. The play, "Mr. Dooley, Jr.," in which the players made their debut last year, will be repeated for the benefit of the mothers' scholarship fund, but this time in the Dormont New Century Club.

The players are including in their season's repertoire "The Forest Ring," "The Child of the Sun," by Charles C. Banks; "The Little Red Headed Princess," "Ali Baba," "The Peltznickel" and "Signals," the last by Ray E. Hurd.

"Ali Baba," "The Peltznickel" and "The Little Red Headed Princess" have been written or adapted by Pittsburghers, Mrs. Sarah C. Pettit, Miss Beatrice Lewis and Miss Sophie G. Keenan.

The players are Madge Blount MacQueen, Nelle Moore Sprowls, Ruth Aston, Mathilda Bodycombe, Lydia B. Patterson, E. Kendall Power, Jack Woolley and Lester C. Myers, Jr.

GOWN OF CHIFFON A PERFECT CHOICE FOR SECOND WEDDING

EVEN THOUGH there be no "Lohengrin," or lace or bridal veil, the bride for the second time can manage plenty of glamour just the same. Her bridal gown is as important sartorially as that of the bride making her trip down the aisle for the first time.

ONE RULE to remember is that though she plans her costume with a touch of sentimentality, the whole thing must spell elegance without the slightest trace of fussiness in order to be a success. For this reason a glamorous cocktail-hour dress of chiffon is an excellent idea. To begin with, at least one sheer evening ensemble of this sort belongs in every summer wardrobe and certainly in a bride's trousseau, where it can serve her long and well. This fabric is good right now and it is one of those that will continue to be good far into the fall.

ON A HONEYMOON such an ensemble is indispensible. It will take her dancing, and, later on, to cocktail parties. She might take under advisement the ensemble sketched today. It's a vaporous, floating thing of chiffon in an exquisite new shade. Close your eyes and think of rose-quartz jewelry, with its delicate mixture of rose and coral, and you have this very color in mind. For contrast, a huge corsage of Russian violets is worn at the V-line in front. Watch the new evening clothes for evidences of slight trains in back, as you can see in this new, new dress. And also keep your eyes open for daytime and evening accessories of taffeta.

SOME BRIDES-TO-BE might have completely different ideas about accessories to wear with this same gown. Instead of the formal stitched black taffeta sailor and gloves, one will wear a new taupe-brown beret, gloves and bag of velvet and the costume will look just as refreshingly smart. This coming season you'll see brown . . . brown . . . brown, everywhere. Instead of a corsage on the dress, camillas, orchids, or orange blossoms may be pinned to the back of the purse. It's a current fad and a pretty one, too.

36 SURVIVORS REACH PORT

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 17.—(AP.)—Survivors of stirring drama of the seas, 36 members of the crew of the Cities' Service petrol, were back in port today.

Arrangements were being made to send home 34 of the men, who were aboard the tanker which caught fire off the North Carolina coast Friday and sank 14 hours later.

Two other members of the crew, William J. Emsley, of Somerset, Mass., second assistant engineer, and Messman John J. Sandow, of Newark, N. J., who were badly injured, are receiving hospital treatment.

Survivors explained how Capt. F. L. Sears, of Dennis, Mass., who was reported to have refused to leave the ship, lost his life. He stayed aboard as long as he thought there was a possibility the ship would remain afloat, they said, and arranged to flash a light when he left.

A light was seen as the tanker was sinking, presumably his signal, but efforts to find the officer failed. Members of the crew said he went down with $8,000 in cash, money belonging to the ship and to men aboard.

TWO ARRESTED IN STORE THEFT

Two men were arrested early today after a chain grocery store in Carnegie was looted of merchandise valued at $200.

The suspects, Joseph Clemis, 29, Western avenue, North Side, and Alphonse Bellakonis, 26, Bell avenue, McKees Rocks, will be questioned also in connection with the robbing of an Oakdale constable last week, police said.

Police Chief Christ Keisling, of Carnegie, said a police scout car blocked Clemis when he attempted to drive away from the robbed grocery store at 26 West Ninth street, Carnegie.

Police reported finding cigarets, tobacco and meats hidden behind shrubbery near the store.

RICHEST BRITON DIES AT 71

LONDON, July 17.—(AP.)—Sir John Ellerman, 71, shipping magnate and reputedly the richest man in England, died today at Dieppe, France. He was created a baronet in 1905.

Sir John was believed to be worth more than £30,000,000 (currently $143,000,000). Few great businessmen were known so little to the general public.

The shipping magnate's income was estimated at £1,000,000 ($4,780,000) yearly, yet he lived in a house in Mayfair and sold his Scottish castle three years ago.

Of his big income Sir John spent only 5 per cent and reinvested the remainder, also giving large sums to charity and much to the Red Cross.

Gov. Pinchot's Son Reported Unchanged

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—(AP.)—The condition of Gifford Pinchot, Jr., 17-year-old son of Governor Pinchot, was reported at a hospital today to be "unchanged."

The boy entered the hospital last Friday for treatment for [illegible]; his mother said was "just a case of appendicitis."

PARIS, July 17. — (AP.) — Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the American President, who arrived last week on a vacation trip from America, said today—reversing the usual experience of tourists—that he found his visit to Paris affording him an opportunity to catch up on sleep.

He described his stay in Paris, where he passes unnoticed, "as very vacationish." He has nearly finished his sightseeing and expected to call upon President Lebrun today. He will go to London within a few days.

TWO CHICAGO BANDITS SLAIN

CHICAGO, July 17.—(INS.)—Two gunmen were shot and killed early today when they attempted to hold up the Tavern Pale, a beer cafe which had been robbed twice before in the last week.

Warned that a third raid was to be made on the resort, Peter Capadona, one of the proprietors, opened fire from behind a partition with a small caliber rifle when the bandits entered with guns drawn.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Notes to a Columnist's Girl Friday

HOLLYWOOD.—Very happy about Mark and Gladys middle-aisling it again . . . That's the way it should have been right along . . . Be sure and save those two denials of the past few weeks, so that when they are confirmed we'll have some amusing "deadly parallels" . . . Who told you to kill the word "realtor" in that item because, as you explain, they said it was a copyrighted word? . . . Copyrighted? It's in the dictionary—in the Winston simplified dicksh as a matter of fact, on page 805, and it is defined as a dealer in real estate! . . . Say, so long as the subject has come up, my column is copyrighted isn't it? . . . But the parrots and pirates have helped themselves to the wordage for years! . . . Honolulu is out. I can't get back in time . . . Are you going to honeymoon—and why?

Jean Harlow got gay tonight on a West Coast hookup, according to people who tuned in . . . She said: "I want to say that Walter Winchell reported that I wouldn't appear with Clarke Gable again, and I hate lies!" . . . Then she added: "I will now sing the hit from my newest picture, 'Hold Your Man'" . . . The unsuspecting air audience, of course, didn't know that Miss Harlow, who hates lies, told a good one herself, for she can't sing and her voice double sang it . . . An unknown, but a grand Libby Holman song stylist named Nora Shiller . . . And this is Nora Shiller's first recognition. So what? So it makes a paragraph.

The line about Mary Howard being Mary Rogers, Will Rogers' little girl, broke big here. She's a lovely looker, and she wanted to get over in pictures without any help of her pop's tag—and I unknowingly spoiled it . . . Veddy, veddy soddy—it takes all kinds of fillers to make a column, huh? . . . Eleanor Holm, I see, admitted that she would marry Jarrett soon . . . But what the gazettes overlooked was this unusual angle—Eleanor did the marriage proposing in a corner of the Cocoanut Grove three weeks ago! . . . I heard her ask him . . . She explained that besides really being in love with him—that he was the first guy she loved sincerely—who was of the same faith . . . Connie Bennett doesn't care who knows it now. And she occupies front row pews at the fights with Gilbert Roland . . . Up to then it wasn't so blunt . . . The Powell-Lombard break also concerns one of the richer Hollywood agents.

The Eddie Cantor-George Jessel tiff is on the level. I thought at first it was a gag . . . Jessel is really sore at Eddie—for personal reasons . . . They avoid each other when they can—but this is such a village . . . They grouped me in a photo last night with Estelle Taylor, Norma Talmadge, Sari Maritza and Dorothy Burgess, all of whom (just before the shutter shuttered) stuck their thumbs to their noses, but not before I did, too! . . . Maritza has most of the class—not unlike Lili Damita . . . You may hear of a blast against a noted clown, whose jewels have been thefted a lot. The buzzing is that the insurance firm is wising up and will charge collusion, etc. . . . Has nothing big broken yet on the Sally Eilers-Jimmy Dunn resumed romance? . . . Hoot Gibson, by the way, says it isn't serious with the Gale gal. . . They're together incessantly when he isn't falling out of planes . . . I like Joan Bennett . . . Bert Hanlon says you have to be in Hollywood two years before you realize that you are stranded.

Jack Kirkland wishes his biographers would stop saying that he was once Nancy Carroll's husband every time he is mentioned . . . The penalty, of course, of being connected with a box office name. As a matter of fact, Kirkland has done several fine things on the writing end here . . . He rates solo recognition, but he doesn't realize that a half-column cut of Nancy dresses up the item . . . Jack Pearl, who never squanders a centime, got careless last night and threw eleven passes and won seven dollars! . . . His father here with him is plenty cute . . . His son is nationally renowned, yet he gets a huge kick out of meeting "celebrities" who aren't as well known . . . I am praying hard for Jack Haley's success in the kodaks—not that there is any doubt of his ability—but some of these impresarios have wrecked equally as fine actors.

Richard Dix is the only star who still insists on music when he is on the lot—to get him into the mood . . . They did it in the old days, you know—a fiddle and cello playing a wary sad sonk . . . Dix still has the little girl violinist who works whenever he does, pretty steady job, at that . . . Here's a line to lift your plucked eyebrows . . . Some of the stars even have to give auditions out here . . . Ann Harding wanted to make "Ann Vickers" so both Ann and Irene had to make up and take costume tests . . . Dunn won . . . This amusing episode happened at the smartest spot . . . A Galahad-type of actor with enough yellow up his back to paint a ton of fake lemons paid a couple of tough guys to start a fight with him in the place. He wanted to impress the doll with him . . . The gangsters were to take nose dives when he started slugging (after she was insulted) . . . But this is what happened. The gal got phluggy from whoopee milk and missed the whole thing—and later wanted to know why her friend had been thrown out! . . . Ralph Morgan and Lew Ayres, by the way, almost went a few rounds, but Ginger Rogers cried them out of it.

Did anything break in New York on what happened in London to Jeannette MacDonald? . . . In the smarter spots there women are not permitted to dine wearing their hats . . . Jeannette was wearing a bit of a thing to match her frock and thought the rule was ridiculous and said so. So she was put out of one spot and left another when they told her no dice . . . I read it in a London clipping sent to a local . . . I see Rex Ingram, the one time movie star, got his picture in the papers again . . . Interesting guy, Rex . . . He owns the most beautiful movie studios in Europe, a gift from the grateful Marcus Loew, for whom Ingram starred . . . The studios cost about 2 million—and Ingram rents them to European movie companies at fancy fees . . . Wynne Gibson shelved Paramount because her wages were trimmed from $1,750 to $600 . . . Malibu Beach is getting that 42nd Street look about it, so the smarter crowd is going to Santa Barbara week-ends—a lovely Eden . . . Somebody ought to grab Betzi Beaton, a newcomer in a feeble show called "Low and Behold" out here . . . Never been on a stage before—and she has a contagious way about her. A vague thing, a la Gertrude Lawrence, but better. . . . The city desk might be interested in knowing that Johnny Weismuller gets his freedom (or Bobbe Arnst gets it) on Oct. 11 . . . And that Lupe Velez will not deny that she will marry him on Oct. 12 . . . That's all I know about the Whollywood Who's Whooligans—until tomorrow, that is—W. W.

Jack Oakie's Mother in Picture

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—The most devoted mother and son in Hollywood are Jack Oakie and his ma, and now they're to play together on the screen.

After taking tests of Mrs. Evelyn Offield (that's Jack's real name), Director Edward Sutherland has asked Paramount to sign her to play Jack's mother in "Too Much Harmony," the musical in which Bing Crosby, Jack, Skeets Gallagher, Judith Allen, Harry Green and several other favorites are to appear.

"Mrs. Offield has never appeared on stage or screen," says Sutherland, "but she is a natural actress. I believe the affection between her and Jack is so strong that it will shine out in the picture."

Mr. Oakie

As for Jack, he is jubilant. Acting has been one of the few parts of his life that he has not shared with his mother. He takes her to all the premieres, he always introduces his girls to her. When he is working, he asks them to go up and eat dinner with his mother to keep her company. Mary Brian used to do it all the time. Even Peggy Joyce was a visitor.

The only other mother and son in Hollywood to approach this camaraderie are Mrs. Rose Grauman and Sid.

Funny what makes success. That glass-blower on the Long Beach boardwalk has been cleaning up since he started blowing those schnozzle faces of Jimmy Durante . . . Sam Taylor will be back in Hollywood soon to direct Harold Lloyd's picture . . . MARY LANGE, PITTSBURGH GIRL, SIGNED FOR CANTOR'S "ROMAN SCANDALS"

Notes About Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"A Symphony in Two Flats," third in the series of plays presented by the Stage Guild, will be seen on its stage at The Willows, Oakmont, tonight and Thursday night. It is by Ivor Novelle, who acted in it in London and later in New York. It never has been shown here. The cast will include several players not heretofore with the Stage Guild. Curtains at the Willows are at 8:45 p. m.

Mary Lange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lange of the North Side, will be seen in the company supporting Eddie Cantor in his next movie, "Roman Scandals." Her mother is accompanying her from New York to Hollywood. Ruth Etting will have a featured role in the Cantor film. Miss Lange's appearance in her home town was in the last edition of the Ziegfeld "Follies" at its premiere here two years ago. She was a show girl in this production and Miss Etting was a featured member of its big company of stars. Miss Lange, for nearly a year, has been in "Music in the Air" in New York. She made her dramatic debut as a member of the George Sharpe company in the Pitt after graduating from Divine Providence Academy and Duquesne University.

Lillian Gish, a foremost star of the silent screen, who began in the days when flicker players were not even named, and was one of the first to be identified when names came to be mentioned, has signed to make one picture. For several years she has been appearing in New York and touring stage productions. Her last picture was "One Romantic Night." Miss Gish, like Mary Pickford, is one of the sensible ones among early screen stars, and is supposed to be quite well-to-do. The two have been friends since girlhood.

Ann Harding has signed a new contract, hence will continue to be a film actress after the completion of the present contract, under which she will make one more picture, "Beautiful." There was a rumor that she might return to the stage, but that idea evidently is out. Under the new arrangement she will make three pictures a year. She recently completed "Double Harness," in which she is co-starred with William Powell.

* * *

A company has been organized for the production of classics of Yiddish literature as movies. The first production will be "The Wandering Jew," in which the star will be Jacob Ben-Ami, former luminary of the Yiddish stage, who is well known also as a player in various Theater Guild productions. Recently he has been a member of Eva LeGallienne's Civic Repertory Theater. His appearance in "The Wandering Jew" will be his first in a Yiddish character in six years, during which he has been occupied on the English-speaking stage.

In Lead

Loretta Young plays the feminine lead in "She Had to Say Yes," coming Friday to the screens of the Davis and Sheridan Square theaters.

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"PERHAPS," writes Jerry Smith, of a spot near New York, "you know the magistrate I have reference to. As a matter of fact, I'm pretty sure you do. He's one of the most publicized jurists in the metropolitan area. But whether you do or not makes little difference. The story is all that matters.

"On the bench he has always been austere. But this characteristic is offset by his absolute fairness. He has never been accused of being unduly harsh with a prisoner, no matter what the crime or the evidence.

"That is, he was never harsh until a few days ago. That was when court attaches and lawyers witnessed a piece of unusual cruelty on the part of Hizzoner.

"To tell the story correctly, Mark, I've got to inform you that the magistrate was quite a boozer. Night after night, after court had adjourned, he was in the habit of jumping into his car and driving to a very swanky speak near Times Square. There, he invariably drank his dinner. And, in the wee hours of the following morning he would be poured into his car and driven to his home uptown.

"After breakfast of sauerkraut juice he would go straight to court. There he would sit all day listening to the drone of lawyers' voices while counting the cute pink goats as they gamboled all over the rostrum.

"Everyone in the court knew what a boozer he was. And he knew they knew. Looking at him, anyone with half an ounce of brains could tell that the flushed face and the St. Bernard dog eyes didn't come from indigestion!

"Yet Hizzoner was acutely sensitive about his weakness. He never discussed liquor except when it came up in a court case. And at times like that, he confined himself to the most rudimentary remarks on the subject.

"But the other day he broke the spell in five explosive words. It happened that a trivial case came up concerning a disorderly conduct charge. The prisoner, a fat, redheaded man, had argued with a cop when told to move from in front of a clothier's store window. The cop alleged that the prisoner had been drinking. The prisoner alleged that the cop was crazy.

"In most cases of this type, the magistrate either slaps a small fine on the wiseguy, or acquits him. But it behooves me to tell you that Hizzoner was in terrific shape on that day.

"During the hearing, he signed some court orders and the way the pen shook was something to behold. Standing near him, I noticed that his lower lip trembled. His skin was purplish and his eyes looked like two burnt holes in a blanket.

"The defendant took the stand. The testimony was brief, Mark, and the judge's voice sounded like bad brakes on a wet night.

"Q. How long were you obstructing the view to the clothier's window?

"A. About two hours.

"Q. Two hours? What made you stand there that long?

"A. I had nothing to do, I guess.

"Q. Aren't you working?

"A. No.

"Q. Why didn't you move on when the officer ordered you?

"A. I don't know.

"Q. You don't know? Were you drinking?

"A. Don't be silly.

"Q. Don't be flippant. Answer yes or no.

"A. Your honor, I was as sober as a judge.

"For a split second, the judge stared at the prisoner in amazement. Then he slammed the gavel with terrific force.

"[illegible] months," he bellowed. "[illegible]ckhouse!" . . . .

"EVER near the story, Mark," writes Eddie Paul, of the mental patient who sat in the garden of the hospital day after day? Well, if you didn't, this bird looked completely cuckoo. He sat over a flower bed, dangling a stick with a piece of string attached to it.

"Along came the inevitable visitor, who stopped to watch him.

"'Fishing?' asked the visitor affably.

"The nut nodded.

"'How many,' smiled the visitor, 'have you caught?'

"The daffy one shifted his position.

"'Well,' he returned, 'so far you are the ninth.'" . . . .

"YOUR 'High Hat' column the other morning," writes B. W., "reminds me of a gag that Jack Benny pulled on George Jessel some time ago while George was playing in Philadelphia. I don't think it ever appeared in print.

"As everybody knows, it is necessary for anybody in the public eye to be gracious to the public that supports him or her. Time and time again, a man or woman will approach a star and ask if they aren't remembered from some chance meeting somewhere. Invariably the star replies in the affirmative, shakes hands warmly—and goes on. The star, of course, does not remember the other party—but what's the difference?

"Well, it so happens on many occasions that Jessel is even more kindly in that direction than many of the others. Instead of shaking hands and passing right on, he will stand and gab for a while with the fan. It doesn't do George any harm, and I suppose it makes the fan feel that he is one swell guy.

"Knowing all about this, Jack Benny determined on a little gag one evening. He arranged matters — and when Jessel stepped from the theater that night, a man stepped up to him.

"'Well, well, well,' cried the man. 'If it isn't my old friend, George Jessel, in the flesh. How are you, Georgie, old boy?'

"Jessel took the proffered hand and pumped it warmly. He had no idea, of course, who the man was.

"'How are you, pal,' cried George. 'You're looking great. It sure is a pleasure to see you again.'

"The man stepped back.

"'That's swell of you, George,' he asserted, 'but are you sure you remember me? Or are you just being nice?'

"The actor waved a hand.

"'Of course I remember you,' he returned. 'I can't just remember your name at the moment, but—'

"The man interrupted him eagerly.

"'Don't you remember,' he asked, 'that big party in Atlantic City that night? Nocky Johnson was there, and Bert Wheeler, and all the rest of the mob. Don't you remember?'

"Jessel clapped his hands.

"'Of course, of course,' he repeated. 'Now I remember. That was a great party all right. And I'm sure glad to see you again.'

"The other man was strangely persistent.

"'You're positive now,' he said, 'that you remember me, George?'

"Jessel nodded vehemently.

"'Absolutely,' he stated. 'I remember that party and your face very clearly now.'

"The other man scowled deeply.

"'Then you're a cockeyed liar,' he barked. 'I never saw you before in all my life!'" . . . .

CARS RESUME IN BEAVER

BEAVER, Pa., July 17.—(INS.)—Street railways of the Beaver Valley Traction Company were operating today within the limits of Beaver Borough after local officials reached an agreement with traction authorities, permitting their cars to operate until the State Highway Department begins the paving of Third street.

By orders of the Public Service Commission, service on the East Liverpool, Steubenville and Beaver Valley lines was to end Saturday, July 15.

X-RAY MARTYR DIES IN SLEEP

BALTIMORE, July 17.—(AP.)—Dr. Frederick Henry Baetjer, pioneer X-ray specialist of the Johns Hopkins medical school, died today at his home in suburban Catonsville. He was 58.

The noted physician apparently died in his sleep. A member of the household, going to the bedside, discovered him dead.

Dr. Baetjer suffered terrible burns from his experiments with the Roentgen ray, burns that necessitated amputation of all his fingers and caused the loss of an eye.

Despite these burns he continued his work. Th[illegible] injury to His last visit there was on Friday of last week.

the eye caused him to retire as professor of clinical Roentgenology at Hopkins a year ago but he maintained an office in the city.

Six Closed Banks To Pay $411,000

Dividends of $411,000 to 37,000 depositors in six closed banks, one of which is in Pittsburgh, were announced today by the State Banking Department.

The Hamilton State Bank of Pittsburgh will make a 10 per cent distribution on July 20 to 2,138 depositors. This will amount to $21,081 and will be the fourth payment. Previous disbursements amounted to 55 per cent.

Girl Saves Driver Trapped in Auto

TRUCKEE, Cal., July 17.—(AP.)—Marie O'Connor saved the life of Edward J. Eagan when their motor car plunged into the Truckee River near here and Eagan's sleeves caught in the windshield and held him fast. Miss O'Connor, struggling in the water, pulled Eagan out of his coat.

GIRLS' CHARGES HOLD PREACHER

The Rev. Edward Smith, 55, Negro pastor of a McKees Rocks church, was held for court today in connection with an alleged attack upon two young girls, 16 and 13 years old.

County detectives said the girls identified him. He denied the charge. His arrest occurred yesterday as he was en route to his church, detectives said.

The suspect is employed as a porter in the Carnegie Railroad Station. He was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blouts up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

3,410,507 FILE TAX RETURNS

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(INS.)—Individuals in the United States filed 3,410,507 income tax returns during the 1932 calendar year, reflecting incomes of the preceding 12 months, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced today.

Other details as to income and tax liability by states were being prepared by the bureau and will be published in "statistics of income for 1931" to be issued later in the year.

The returns included 682,603 from New York state, which led the nation.

Preliminary statistics of income showed that up to August 31 of last year 3,116,317 returns were filed, a decrease of 7.71 per cent as compared with the year before.

The average net income of those filing returns was $4,245 and the tax liability $77.43.

Returns were filed under the 1928 revenue act.

The number of returns filed by principal Pennsylvania cities follows:

Pittsburgh, 40,698; Reading, 3,856; Harrisburg, 3,446; Erie, 4,275; Scranton, 5,731; Allentown, 3,012; Wilkes-Barre, 2,907; Philadelphia, 71,899.

WEDDING NEAR FOR MILESTONE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—Lewis Milestone, world famous director and the man who won the academy award for his direction of "All Quiet on the Western Front," is in Europe. Friends of Mr. Milestone say that he has gone abroad to be with Mrs. Kendall Gleanzer when she obtains her divorce in Paris.

Mrs. Gleanzer is well known in Hollywood, where she appeared in a number of pictures. It was while playing a part in "Rain," directed by Milestone, that her romance with the director started.

Jules Gleanzer, vice president of Cartier, one of the biggest jewelry concers in the world, has frequently visited in California. He has many friends here and most of them have known that he and his beautiful wife had come to a parting of the ways.

The Milestone-Gleanzer nuptials will take place just as soon as Mrs. Gleanzer obtains her legal papers.

3 JOBLESS MEN DIE IN FIRE

WEST NEWTON, Pa., July 17.—Three men trapped in a blazing building after an oil lamp is believed to have exploded were burned to death near here early today.

The bodies, tentatively identified as those of Bryon Austin, 35; Harry Nichols, 45, and Harry Kramer, 35, all unemployed West Newton miners, were recovered from the ruins of the single-story miners' shack by firemen following the blaze.

Police said the men apparently had tried to flee the burning building as the bodies of all three were found near the doorway. Firemen said the fire had apparently been caused by an overturned lamp.

Identification of the bodies was made by Mrs. Mary Peterman, 60-year-old housekeeper for Nichols. She told police that Kramer and Austin had been visiting Nichols last night.

Crash Kills Fireman, Hurts 3 on Outing

DANVILLE, Pa., July 17.—(AP)—One fireman was killed and three were hurt badly after the truck of the East End Fire Company of Danville, returning from a field day at Turbotville, ran away on the Conway hill, three miles from Danville, and turned over.

Irving Boyer, 38, the driver, died yesterday in a hospital of a fractured skull and other injuries.

'Oriental Curse' Pursuing Thieves, Curator Says

SEATTLE, Wash., July 17.—(INS.)—A mystic Oriental curse from an age long past today pursued thieves who robbed the new Seattle Art Museum of rare art objects.

Sickness, poverty or death in some strange form will be the fate of the thieves, solemnly said Kenneth Callahan, curator of the museum.

The art objects stolen from an unlocked showcase, are three eighteenth century netsukes. One is a rabbit, carved in ivory; another is a tiny human figure in porcelain and the third an ivory elephant.

JELKE ORDERED TO PAY $13,500

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 17.—(INS.)—The final chapter in Rhode Island of the Jelke divorce case was written today when Judge Hugh B. Baker in Superior Court allowed $13,500 as fees for attorneys representing Mrs. Eugenie (Nini) Jelke.

The counter action of the Dixie beauty against E. Frazier Jelke, millionaire New York broker, was denied in Newport court, as was the action brought by Jelke.

Under Rhode Island law, a husband who brings a divorce suit must pay the counsel fees for his wife's attorneys.

When the action was begun, counsel for Mrs. Jelke was allowed $1,500 on account, bringing the total for all attorneys to $15,000.

In filing the petition for fees, attorneys for Mrs. Jelke requested $25,000 counsel fees.

CRASH IN OHIO KILLS WIFE OF DETECTIVE

Mrs. Patton Victim; Auto Accidents Fatal to Four

Mrs. Ella Patton, 58, of 2551 North Charles street, North Side, wife of City Detective Robert A. Patton, was dead today from injuries suffered in an automobile crash on a highway near Columbus, O.

The car, driven by her son, Robert, skidded and struck a pole Saturday. The son was not injured. Mrs. Patton's death occurred in a Columbus hospital last night.

Mrs. Clara Hoak, 21, of Elizabeth, died yesterday in McKeesport Hospital from injuries she met Friday when an automobile driven by her husband collided with another in the Elizabeth-Glassport road, according to a police report.

John Malinak, 50, of 3168 Lecky avenue, died yesterday in St. John's Hospital from injuries suffered Saturday when he was struck by a skidding automobile in McClure avenue, according to a police report.

Fatally crushed while attempting to board a truck near Portersville, Saturday, the body of Melvin Owens, 15, today arrived at his mother's home, 406 Alpine avenue, North Side.

Owens, with three North Side companions, was returning to McConnells Mills after a trip to Butler when the accident occurred. The boys left Pittsburgh last Wednesday, planning to camp at McConnells Mills for two weeks.

FOUR WOMEN HURT

Four women passengers in an automobile driven by Andrew Rausher, Jr., of South Twenty-third street, were injured when the automobile collided with another driven by Paul Kister, 25, of 408 Loyal way, at Climax and Millbridge streets, according to a police report. The injured were Mrs. Mary Rausher, 45; Miss Mary Arras, 50, of 125 South Twenty-third street; Miss Margaret Arras, 52, and Miss Elizabeth Windharger, 23, of Bassler street.

Valentine Ganter, of Orchard street, Knoxville, is in Kittanning Hospital today with serious injuries received when an ambulance in which he was riding crashed with an automobile driven by Mrs. E. T. Davis, of Cleveland, O., in Kittanning, Pa.

Also injured with Ganter were John J. Carney, a funeral director, and his son, Gilbert Carney, of 247 Orchard street, Knoxville. Ganter has a fractured skull and serious scalp wounds. Mrs. Davis had severe cuts and bruises.

SLASHES NECK, LEAPS TO DEATH

A string of rosary beads attached to an arm, the body of Daniel Santucci, 26, was found floating in the Monongahela River beneath the Glassport Bridge at Glassport today.

There was a knife wound in Santucci's neck. Glassport's Police Chief D. J. George reported that he believed the young man had jumped from the bridge after cutting himself. George said that Santucci's brother, Perry Santucci, had said that Daniel several times threatened to end his life.

Two Balk Woman's Leap From Bridge

Attempting to leap from the Smithfield Street Bridge yesterday, Elizabeth Perry, 34, of 103 Cologne street, was seized by two men and was turned over to police, who took her to St. Joseph's Hospital, according to a police report.

After examination she was taken to the West End Police Station and held on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Mother, Girl Escape As Train Hits Auto

QUAKERTOWN, Pa., July 17,—(AP.)—Their automobile struck by a speeding electric train, Mrs. Horace Delong and her small daughter were thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped with bruises. Delong, driving when the car stalled on the tracks, ran to signal the motorman, but did not have time to stop the train.

Lightning Strikes Fox Chapel House

Lightning yesterday struck the home of Vincent Lauer in Crow Meadows Plan, Fox Chapel road, damaging it slightly.

Wandering Boy Makes Surprise Visit to 'Folks'

JACK SCULLY

Returns to End Four Years of Anxiety For E. E. Family

Worry and anxiety are forgotten by the Scully family since their boy has returned home for a visit after being unheard of in more than four years.

In April, 1929, Jack Scully left his home at 130 South Negley avenue. All efforts by his family to find and bring him back proved of no avail. Scully had enlisted in the United States Air Service under an assumed name, and immediately afterwards was sent to the Philippine Islands. He told his family he was homesick for the first few months, but was afraid to write for fear they would send for him. Later he said he outgrew his homesickness and had no desire to write, although he thought of the family constantly.

During the four years in service he traveled around the world. He showed his family pictures taken in foreign parts of the globe.

He returned home last week when allowed 72 hours leave. He called his aunt from the station, and she sent for him and took him home. The family was thrilled and excited when they saw him. He told them many strange tales of adventure. His mother said:

"He hasn't changed a bit, except to look more like a man. I'm sure the experiences he had did him a world of good. It was a great relief to me and the rest of the family to hear and see him again."

Scully returned to his post, but plans to come back to Pittsburgh and all his friends when he is granted his next furlough.

4 Held After Fire Injuring 2 Suspects

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., July 17.—(AP.)—Three men, two of them burned seriously, are held on charges of arson, and a fourth faces a conspiracy charge, as a result of an explosion and fire which destroyed the home of Martin Warhol.

The accused are Joseph Cantor, Joe Valoska, Ben Legnosky and the owner, who is charged with conspiracy.

Chair Plant Swept By $150,000 Fire

UNION CITY, Pa., July 17.—(INS.)—Plans for reconstructing the west wing of the Shreve Chair Company plant here were under way today following a fire and explosion which caused an estimated damage of $150,000.

Firemen said the blast was probably caused by spontaneous combustion. The entire neighborhood was rocked by the explosion.

Police to Stage Annual Ox Roast

The second annual ox roast and outing of Allegheny Valley Lodge No. 318, Fraternal Order of Police, will be held at Falcon Park, on the Leechburg road, July 30, it was announced today by George Frickanisce, president.

PIONEER IN USE OF ANTITOXIN DIES HERE

Outstanding Career Of Dr. Mercur Ended at 72

Dr. William M. Mercur, 72, one of Pittsburgh's outstanding physicians and medical consultants, died Saturday at his home, 5244 Fifth avenue.

He began practicing in Pittsburgh in 1883, after returning from Germany, where he finished his schooling. He was prominent in social work and public health problems.

He gave up his practice in 1911 and since had limited his service to consultation work. He was responsible for instituting the use of diphtheria antitoxin in this district.

At his own expense, Dr. Mercur maintained a complete medical library available to physicians of Western Pennsylvania. He was author of many articles on the social and economic aspects of medicine, and his system of medical nomenclature and indexing of diseases is used by hospitals in many sections of the United States.

Dr. Mercur was a member of the Allegheny County Medical Society, president of the Pittsburgh Academy of Medicine in 1901, was one of the pioneer members of the American College of Physicians, and a member of numerous medical bodies, the University Club, the Fox Chapel and Pittsburgh Golf clubs.

He was born in Towanda, Pa., January 19, 1861.

'NEWSIE' DIES IN CAR CRASH

His family and scores of friends made in 15 years as a newsboy on downtown corners today mourned Isadore Green, 35, who died in an automobile accident yesterday as he drove to visit his son at National Guard camp.

The accident occurred when his car skidded and overturned on a grade near Chambersburg. Green was killed and Mrs. Green, who accompanied him, was injured slightly.

The son, Charles Green, was called from Camp Rickards, near Lickdale, Pa., where he was serving with the 176th Field Artillery.

Green's last post was at Market street and Liberty avenue, where he daily sold newspapers to throngs of shoppers and homegoing office workers of the Triangle. He lived at 755 Bellaire avenue, Brookline, and was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Besides his wife and son, he leaves a brother Abe Green, of Newark, N. J.

PRIEST TO GIVE NOVENA

A novena, or nine-day devotion, will be conducted by Father Jeffrey Stone, Redemptorist missionary, at St. Anne's Church, Railroad street, Castle Shannon, July 18 to 26.

Opening with solemn high mass at 9 a. m. tomorrow, services will be held each morning and evening. A torchlight parade from the church to St. Anne's Shrine near the parish house will mark the closing.

Many out-of-town worshipers are expected. Father A. V. Angel, of St. Anne's, is in charge of arrangements.

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS MAN AND INJURES SON

Fatal Blast Occurs As Father Lights His Pipe

Ernest H. Bovie, Jr., 35, was recovering today from burns suffered in what police reported as a gas explosion which killed his father and wrecked their residence at 231 South Atlantic avenue early yesterday.

The elder Bovie, 60, died in the Pittsburgh Hospital several hours after the explosion, which, police said, occurred when he touched a match to his pipe. The younger Bovie was burned and cut when he ran to the aid of his father.

WINDOWS BROKEN

The blast occurred in the second floor hallway and rocked the district, shattering windows in adjacent residences. The rear wall of the house was blown out, causing the front and side walls to buckle.

Police and firemen who rushed to the house following the explosion reported finding an open gas jet in the house.

Edward Kennedy, 5 son of Attorney John J. Kennedy, who lives at 229 South Atlantic avenue, was uninjured although the room in which he was sleeping was swept by glass from the smashed windows.

OWNER ABSENT

Miss Lauretta H. Martin, an occupant of the house in which the blast occurred, was uninjured. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Murphy, owner of the house, was not at home when the explosion occurred.

Efforts were being made today to locate Harold J. Bovie, another son, who left Saturday on an automobile trip west. He had been traced to Zanesville last night.

William Fries, of 233 South Atlantic avenue, assisted Bovie and his injured son from the house. He made another trip into the wrecked house to assist Miss Martin out.

TARENTUM GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH

On the Coroner's records today was written this explanation of the death of Nina Paganelli, 17, of Tarentum:

"Deceased was out with her boy friend and was made to come home by her father and go to bed. She then broke the window and jumped out."

Soon after she had jumped, fracturing her skull, Nina died in Allegheny Valley Hospital.

HITLER CRUELTY DESCRIBED BY RABBI WISE

$28,000 Pledged Here As Campaign for 2 Million Opens

The German Jews, like Evangeline and the Acadians, are being driven from home and country by the pressure of an all-powerful Hitler government, Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, of New York, asserted yesterday in two meetings in the Concordia Club.

Penniless, the German Jews are being scattered to the four corners of the earth, Dr. Wise reported. His speeches launched the Western Pennsylvania drive to raise part of the $2,000,000 needed to succor the oppressed.

Dr. Wise is national chairman of the American Jewish joint distribution committee.

Joining him on the platform were Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, of Rodef Shalom; Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Public Education; Maurice Falk, philanthropist, and others prominent in Western Pennsylvania Jewry. Leo Lehman, chairman of the drive, opened the meetings.

GIFTS PLEDGED

A total of $28,000 towards the fund was promised by individuals at last night's meeting.

Workers from nearly 40 communities in the district attending the afternoon meeting, and several hundred the evening dinner, will begin the campaign tomorrow and continue a week. A closing meeting will be held next Sunday.

The workers' group passed a resolution, calling upon the Jews of the United States to help the Jews in Germany. It said in part:

"There can be no difference of opinion as to the extent of this dreadful calamity which has been visited upon the Jews in Germany. The official decrees of the German government have deprived Jewish professional men and women of the right to pursue their professions; they have made it impossible for Jewish citizens to serve in any government offices; they have driven thousands of Jews from employment in industrial and mercantile establishments; they have denied to Jewish students the right to equip themselves for their chosen work in life; they have humiliated Jewish children in the public schools; they have treated Jewish property as beyond the protection of the law; they have driven a self-supporting people to poverty and helplessness.

"Surely the Jews of America, and even those not of our faith who believe in man's inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, will not stand by without offering these suffering persons at least some of the things that make for continued existence, food, clothing, help for the sick and the aged, education for the young and an opportunity for a fresh start in other lands for those who are forced to leave the country of their affliction. The day for mere sympathetic utterances is past; the time for generous and

U. S. Checking Bonds Posted in Vote Cases

TROOPERS RAID 30 AT CARDS

Thirty McKees Rocks gamblers who were arrested late Saturday night when state troopers from Greensburg barracks made a raid at 502 Island avenue, will get hearings before Justice of the Peace Margaret M. Morgan, Sewickley, tomorrow evening.

John Myers, the alleged proprietor, charged with maintaining a gambling house, is at liberty under a $2,500 bail bond, and the 29 men charged with gaming were each released on $10.

Sergt. Vincent Bunch, who led the raid with six troopers, said there were poker and dice tables in the rear of the store which had a cigar store front. A pool table was also found the raider said.

Records in Park's Office Sifted by Federal Agents

Uncle Sam today was checking the bonds in District Attorney Park's office.

An agent for the Department of Justice was checking the bonds with Henry Lennon, bond clerk in the office.

It is believed federal authorities are interested in learning whether bonds furnished by those indicted in the congressional election investigation were based on property which also was bonded in other cases in the District Attorney's office.

Attorney John J. McGrath, Republican chairman of the Thirty-second Ward, named last week in the election fraud indictments, today questioned the grounds upon which he was indicted. He said:

"The absurdity of the indictment is made clear on its face in that the alleged unlawful acts are reputed to have been committed, not in the ward of which I am Republican chairman, but in localities in which I have no influence, exercise no control and have no interest."

State Senator James J. Coyne renewed his $3,500 bond today, due to being reindicted last Thursday. The bondsman, the Rev. Lawrence A. O'Connell, of Epiphany Church, also had to appear. The new indictment supersedes that by the grand jury June 28, requiring the first bond to be renewed to cover the second charges.

LINDSAY FLAYS VOTE LAWS

More than 200 acts of assembly should be repealed because they offer opportunities for dishonest elections, Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court and chairman of the Pennsylvania Conference on Election Laws, declared at a union meeting of three Bible classes in the Knoxville Presbyterian Church yesterday.

The classes were the Men's Community and Women's Cornerstone Bible classes of the Presbyterian church, and the Men's Bible Class of the Knoxville Methodist Episcopal Church.

Speaking on "Civic Duty," Mr Lindsay cited failure of many voters to cast ballots, revealing that the total vote in the 1932 elections, which included about 40,000 phantom voters, was only one-third of the possible figure.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

It's a good thing those Italians landed in seaplanes. If they had landed on the ground they wouldn't have had room to land for Italians. Well, they have great cause to rejoice. You know where the idea came from, don't you? Teddy Roosevelt when he sent the fleet around the world. There was a lot of Mussolini in that old boy.

Will Rogers

I will bet you that this Wiley Post makes it around the world and breaks his own record. I would have liked to have been in there with Post instead of the robot. And I could have if I had known as much as it does.

OFFICER IRKS THEFT VICTIM

It cost Salvio Gigliotti, of 203 Covington street $7 for his entertainment in a Hill district gambling resort last night, he reported to Capt. Harry Schunk, of the downtown district, today.

His peeve, however, was not the loss of the money, he said, but the fact that he had been robbed.

Further adding to his ruffled feelings was the attitude of the policeman to whom he reported the robbery. The officer advised him to take his (the policeman's) gun and "go and get your money back," according to Gigliotti's story.

Schunk, investigating, said the officer denied the charges.

Gigliotti also declined to appear as a witness against the officer.

3 NAZI TROOPS DIE IN CRASH

GLEIWITZ, Germany, July 17.—(AP.)—Three Nazi storm troopers were killed and five were seriously injured yesterday as a truck carrying their brass band struck a telegraph pole.

The chauffeur shot and killed himself with a revolver.

VIENNA, July 17.—(INS.)—The Allgemeine Zeitung published a report from Munich today that three Jewish lawyers named Spiegel, Strauss and Aron, had been killed during the last week at a Nazi concentration camp at Dachau, Bavaria.

The Vienna newspaper said that 141 prisoners had died since the Nazis opened the Dachau camp.

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 17.—(INS.)—William Schaeffer, 37-year-old Nazi renegade, was found murdered today. He had been shot three times and his body thrown upon railway tracks from a bridge.

Schaeffer was ousted from the Nazi party last year, charged with betraying alleged Nazi plans to overthrow the existing government.

Suicide Leaves Nickel For 'Phone Call to Son

A police report recorded that before firing a bullet into his brain yesterday, Harris provided for his burial, left a note for his family and set aside money for a telephone call to advise his son of his death.

Police found his body after a milkman had called at the home. The milkman found a note directing him to call Jack Harris, a son, at 5417 Bartlett road.

Beside the note was a nickel to pay for the telephone call, and a key to permit police to enter the house.

The note told the son his father's burial would be no burden to him because of a $400 fraternal society death benefit.

JEWS LAUNCH DRIVE TO AID REFUGEES

whole-hearted action is at hand."

Mr. Aaron, chairman of the meeting, introduced Dr. Wise, declaring:

"Only through a freak of fortune and not because of our wisdom are we among those who live here in freedom and not among the persecuted and despised elsewhere."

He added:

"True, many of us have had bad breaks within the past few years, true, many of us are helping relatives abroad who have had infinitely worse breaks, but no Jew worthy of the privileges and blessings of America will allow even these facts to influence him from doing his bit.

"We who live in a land flowing with milk and honey humbly thank Almighty God for the opportunity that is ours to help, to give, to do our part."

DIRE PROSPECTS SEEN

Dr. Wise, who spent a month in Germany investigating conditions, declared that unless a change of government in Germany occurred, and this seemed unlikely, one-third of the Jews may get along in Germany as best they can, another third must migrate and the remainder go down into poverty and die. He said:

"No change for the better can possibly come. The Jews will have to go elsewhere except for those who can eke out a menial existence, or some few who are actually indispensable.

"The 600,000 Jews in Germany are the actual combatants. And the 15,000,000 remaining must be the non-combatants, who will furnish them food and let them know they are not fighting alone.

"We dare not ask those non-Jews who have been so generous to give us physical help when it is well within our own power to give without hurting ourselves. The money is to go to help educate rich men how to make shoes, and to get a new start. Some must go to Palestine, others to Persia, or to Spain or China or Australia—wherever the opportunity to make themselves self-sustaining can be carved out."

SLURS DEPLORED

Dr. Wise told of the humiliation of sitting around the radio, parents and children, and hearing the Jew denounced, branded as one who is poisonous, a cancer on the national body, and added:

"I hope no one may ever be wished such an experience. The father does not know what to answer to his child's questions. They are being exiled because they are of blood that, if it did not give the world a Saviour, gave it a basis for right living."

Dr. Goldenson declared the worst form of suffering was not physical, nor economic, such as bad times. He said:

"The worst kind of suffering is the organized hatred of your fellow men. And that is the kind the German Jew feels today. The official government with all its power, control of the press, the radio and every implement of authority, is afflicting this suffering.

"It is the suffering of degradation, of humiliation. They are made to feel that they have no birth, no character, no place under the sun to go."

Calling on the Jews to give, he added:

"Give as a people taught in a school of suffering for 3,000 years, should give."

Pittsburghers Visit Grotto of Our Lady Of Lourdes

A cablegram to Brother Andrew at Old St. Patrick's Church announced that Father Cox and his Pittsburgh pilgrims were at Lourdes in France yesterday.

They are two days behind schedule in their itinerary, but this was fortunate because it took the party to the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes on the most important day of the Diamond Jubilee of the world famous shrine.

At 6 o'clock last night, on account of the Feast of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, there was a special pontifical mass in the Grotto Basilica. This came at an hour rarely before known in the history of the church.

It also was the day that Father Cox mailed nearly 4,000 commemorative Lourdes Diamond Jubilee cachets to friends in America who donated to the support of his breadline.

Father Cox was at sea on July 4 and made two patriotic speeches aboard ship. He also officiated at midnight masses every night while on the ocean. The pilgrimage proceeds to Rome today where it will be given a special audience by Pope Pius XI. The party will be in Rome one week.

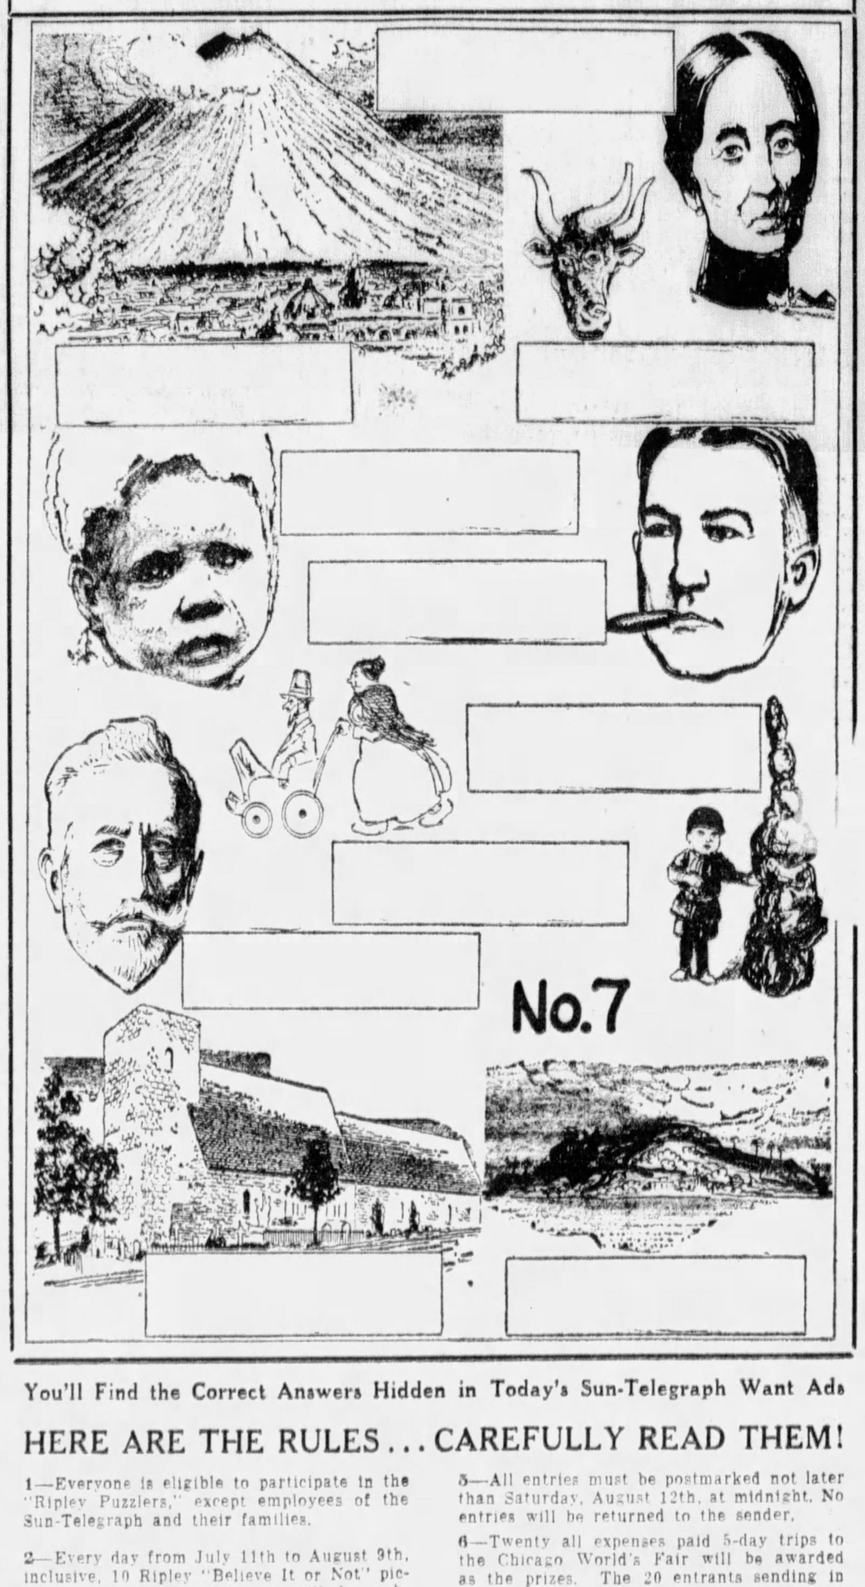
RIPLEY'S PUZZLERS



You'll Find the Correct Answers Hidden in Today's Sun-Telegraph Want Ads

HERE ARE THE RULES...CAREFULLY READ THEM!

1—Everyone is eligible to participate in the "Ripley Puzzlers," except employees of the Sun-Telegraph and their families.

2—Every day from July 11th to August 9th, inclusive, 10 Ripley "Believe It or Not" pictures (without descriptions) will be published in addition to the regular Ripley Sport page feature. The description to each picture will be published in the Classified Ad columns.

3—The new "Ripley's Puzzlers" contest consists in finding the descriptions in the Classified Ads, clipping them out, and placing each under the picture to which it refers. The words making up each description will appear as a single unit in one place.

4—Hold all of the pictures until you have 30 complete sets of 10 each—300 pictures in all. Then send them to the "Ripley's Puzzlers" Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh, Pa.

5—All entries must be postmarked not later than Saturday, August 12th, at midnight. No entries will be returned to the sender.

6—Twenty all expenses paid 5-day trips to the Chicago World's Fair will be awarded as the prizes. The 20 entrants sending in the most nearly correct and the most neatly prepared complete set of pictures at the close of the contest will be awarded these trips.

7—A committee of judges will be appointed by the Sun-Telegraph to determine the successful contestants. All entrants agree to accept the decision of these judges as final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be given to each tying contestant.

8—It is not necessary to purchase the Sun-Telegraph to compete. This newspaper may be examined at the office or at the public libraries free of charge, and if you wish you may copy or trace the pictures from the Sun-Telegraph and then assemble the sets from the copies you have made.

Endless Sorrow Isn't Sign Of a Wonderful Love

Grief—endless mourning, that will not be comforted—Sorrow that bolts out all the sunshine; kills every normal, happy interest and desire—

Is it a sign of a wonderful love—or just a proof that one's a cowardly, selfish cry-baby?

Is that question hard to take? But tears are hard to take, too, when their endless shedding darkens the home, as Alice's tears are doing.

Would the mother Alice mourns desire such tears? Would she praise Alice for shedding them?

Evidently Alice thinks she would.

Dear Miss Robinson:

I wonder if you can find time to help me.

I find myself afraid to face life and yet afraid to die. My mother died eight months ago, and I am heartbroken. We were such pals. We did everything together, going to the store, hanging curtains, getting meals, or just sitting reading. She was so proud of me, and always told everyone how much she loved me, and how close we were.

I am not a baby. I am 29, and have been married for 10 years to one of the most wonderful men there is. But I must have loved my mother more than my husband, because I was always eager to go home to her, wherever we were. I always wanted "Mom," and could hardly wait to get back to her.

I wasn't away from her much. My husband traveled a great deal of the time, so we lived with her. I have an older brother and a grandfather. We were always so happy together. My husband thought so much of her and she of him. It just doesn't seem possible that she is gone. Now Grandfather has moved, to be nearer his work, and my brother is engaged. My husband is away a great deal. I feel so alone!

LOST INTEREST IN LIFE

I don't know what I will do without Mother. I wonder how I can face the years to come—and the holidays! She and I always decorated the Christmas tree together and prepared holiday meals. Oh, why did it have to be my mother? She was only 49 and I see so many old women and girls with their mothers. I could just die!

Maybe I am a baby at heart, but I can't bear it. I try to keep up the house for my husband and brother, but everything seems to be hopeless. I have been ill, too. I have all kinds of fears. I am afraid to be alone, afraid to go out alone. And I worry, worry about everything. I don't care about anything any more. I always took such good care of myself, and now I don't care how I look. Nothing seems worth while.

I see other girls with their mothers, and wonder why I should be the one to lose mine, and I am dreadfully miserable. I miss her so dreadfully that I feel like just banging my head on something. It seems I cannot live without her. Do you think, as time goes on, I will become reconciled and be able to face life? ALICE WADE.

NEVER FACED LIFE

Will you be able to "face life" sometime?

That depends on you, Alice. As a matter of fact, you never have even started to face life.

Why is your grief for your mother so acute? That's why. You miss her dreadfully, which is perfectly natural. But you miss, most of all, what she meant to your life.

She kept you a baby, and you wanted to be kept a baby. It was easier to stay a baby than to grow up and face mature life, with all its problems. And so you clung to the one who could keep you a little girl—

Even though, by doing so, you broke faith with your husband.

You never thought of that before, did you? You never realized how selfish it was for you to refuse to make a home for him—for you still to be clinging to your mother's memory, instead of going ahead into life with him?

You didn't realize, because you didn't want to realize. You weren't concerned with his need. You were only thinking of your own.

And now you're angry—aren't you?—because I have told you the truth. That's good. A little healthy anger may wake you up; may force you to see how the world views such "love" as yours.

Love is the most beautiful thing in life. Love for one's mother is natural and noble. But "love" that is an alibi to cover cowardice and selfishness shames the title it bears.

If you really loved your mother, prove it now by being the fine, mature woman she wanted you to be!

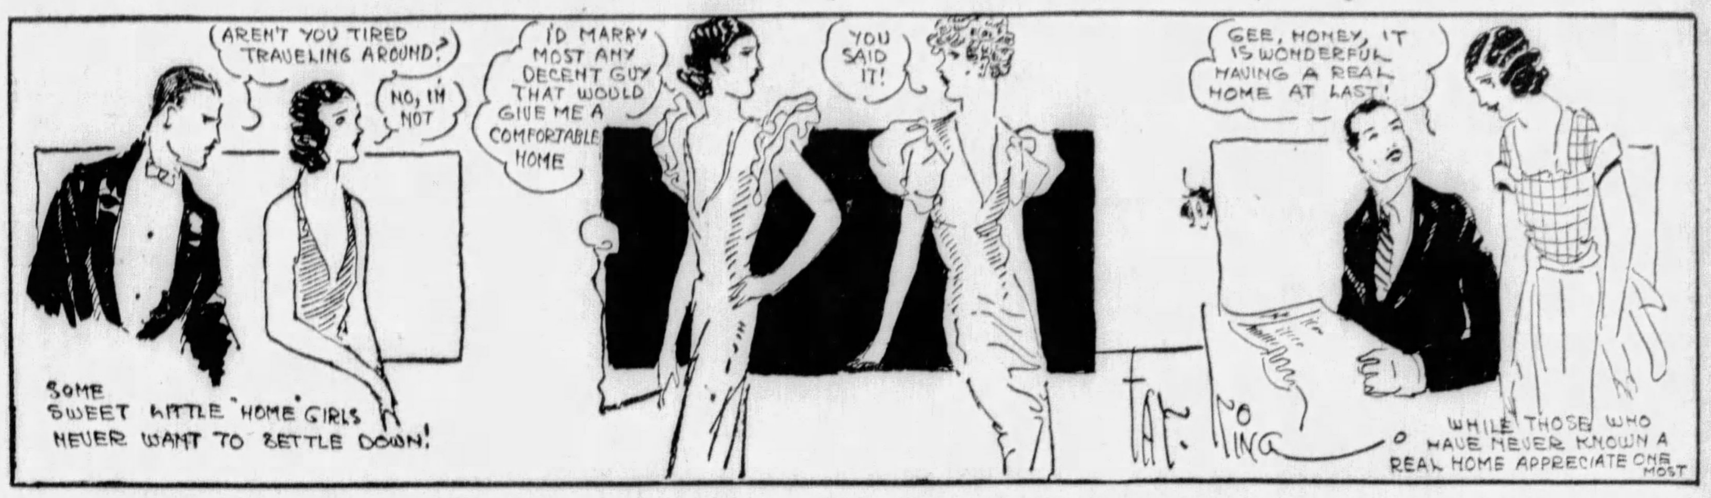
Girl Without Good Home Apt to Make Best Wife—Fay King



By FAY KING.

When a young man is seriously considering matrimony, his mother, his sisters, his cousins and his aunts are very much concerned.

They hope the young lady is a sweet "home girl." A girl who lives at her parents' home is always considered a young man's very best choice for a wife.

They do not realize that some "home girls" marry for freedom. Or, that, inasmuch as a home girl has always enjoyed a good home, marrying into another does not mean so much to her.

While on the other hand the girl who will appreciate a home most, and love to keep it spic and span and harmonious, is often the girl who has worked, traveled, known hardships, and furnished rooms, and never has a real home until she marries.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Pernicious Anemia

At one time pernicious anemia was a dreaded affliction. You know how cancer is feared. I am sure many of you will be surprised to learn that not so long ago pernicious anemia was a disease as greatly feared as cancer is now.

For many years experimental research endeavored to discover a vaccine or serum that would cure pernicious anemia, or retard the progress of this ailment. Until the value of the liver diet was discovered, pernicious anemia was a rapid and fatal disease. Today, liver extracts are prepared in several different forms. They are administered to sufferers from this disease with great success. Those who in former years would be doomed to an inevitable fate are now entirely cured.

Pernicious anemia is a blood disorder that is often confused with other ailments of the blood. Merely because a person is pale and "anemic looking" does not mean he is a sufferer from pernicious anemia.

You have often heard the expression, "he is so anemic looking." Many a mother takes her child to the doctor and says, "Johnny is anemic, please prescribe some medicine to give him a better color."

It is true that the anemic patient is pale, but he usually has other symptoms that must not be overlooked. He complains of poor appetite, faulty digestion and shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion. As a rule the victim of this disease tires quickly and has no "pep" or vitality.

In addition to these symptoms, he has headache, nausea, vomiting and spells of dizziness. What is most confusing is that the patient seems to recover suddenly from these attacks and for a period of time is in excellent health. Unfortunately, this improved state of health is temporary and within a short time it is followed by a relapse. As time goes on the relapses are more frequent and the periods of good health shortened.

The diagnosis of this affliction is easily made and confirmed by the physician. He resorts to the taking of a blood count in all suspected cases. Though the cause of pernicious anemia is not known, the profound effects of this disease are strikingly shown by an examination of the blood. In this examination an estimation is made of the number of red blood cells and of the amount of "hemoglobin," or coloring matter of the blood.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Still Puzzled by Girl's Identity

At the sound of the slamming door behind Dicky, Lillian arched her eyebrows at me.

"Now, this is the question before the house," she said, with a knowing grin. "Is he really cut to the heart—angry enough to boil both of us in oil—or is he making a darn clever stall?"

"He didn't explain who Floss was," I said slowly.

"Nor has he denied knowing such a person,'" Lillian commented and I noticed that her eyes had narrowed, sure sign that she considered the problem an important one.

"You think, then—" I began tentatively.

"I think nothing," she said emphatically, "and don't you go getting fool ideas into that dome of yours. There's nothing for you to do but keep an open mind. Don't jump to conclusions that your husband is deceiving you because some fool female leaves a message for him, and pretends not to know he's married."

"Pretends not to know he's married," I echoed incredulously.

"Yes, pretends," Lillian said stoutly. "You ought to know Dicky's gang well enough to figure that it is entirely possible this whole thing is a hoax. Someone of the Dicky-bird's little boy friends may have thought it just the cunningest thing going to have a girl like Floss call up, when it was certain that he wasn't here and you were. It's just the sophomore trick that would appeal to two or three birds down there, whose common sense is receding from their foreheads along with their hair."

LILLIAN TO INVESTIGATE

"I don't believe it was a hoax," I said stubbornly.

Lillian gave a Gallic little shrug.

"That's your privilege," she said, "and you may be entirely correct in your conclusions, but give the lad the benefit of the doubt until you find out for sure."

"Do you imagine," I asked hotly, "that I shall devote a single second to finding out who this person is, or what she has to do with my husband?"

Lillian strolled leisurely to the couch and patted me on the shoulder, smiling down at me with the hint of mockery in her eyes that never fails to snap me out of my vagaries.

"Valiantly spoken and true," she gibed. "See that you stick to it. But that doesn't prevent me from taking a scout around to see whether the Dicky-bird has been fluttering outside the cage a bit, or whether he's simply an innocent bystander."

"No," as I stiffened instinctively, "you needn't rare back on your heels prepared to balk even a fire built under you, because I'm not taking any forbidding in this, at all, thank you! I've been a friend of both of you too long to let your stubbornness and Dicky's devilish temper gum up the game for you.

OFFENDED DIGNITY

"I think you can safely leave it to me, too, not to do a single thing, not to make a single inquiry, which would embarrass either one of you, or let anyone know that I was at all interested in the situation. But I have my own ways of finding out things. A lot of grist comes to my mill, you know. And it won't be long till I know for sure 'what all the shootin's fur'."

"When you do find out," I said pettishly, "don't tell me anything about it, please."

"Whew!" Lillian gave a gamin whistle between her teeth. "What an extended caudal appendage our pretty pussy has! But it isn't going to do you a bit of good to get high-hat with me. If I think the information is for the good of your soul, I certainly shall hand it over to you. If not, I'll keep it locked in my own bosom.

"But we don't need to scrap about that now. When I came in here, you said you were glad to see me, because you needed me. The Floss cutworm hadn't called up then, so she wasn't on your mind. Suppose you park her in your remotest brain cell, and spill what you were going to before her calliope voice sounded in our ears."

For several seconds I struggled with my own pettishness and offended dignity, then, knowing that I could not wittingly flout this dearest and truest of all friends, I forced my voice to cheerful acquiescence.

"It's about Mary," I said.

"Old Phil's raising the devil again," Lillian exclaimed. "I knew it as soon as I read the papers today."

Household Hints

When ironing, keep beside you an old perfume spray containing water, to be applied to any part that has become too dry. This gives the even dampness and perfect condition necessary for a pleasing finish.

If you give your head an oil shampoo rinse it with cold water before applying soap and hot water. This will take out the oiliness.

Vaseline rubbed well into the nails at night will prevent them from splittings and becoming brittle.

For sea-water stains on canvas shoes and flannels, apply a paste of fuller's earth, brushing it off when dry. The stains can be removed from leather by the application of milk in which a little soda has been dissolved. Afterwards, polish in the ordinary way.

Staines on clothing due to egg, milk, or meat must not be immersed in too hot water, or they become immovable.

Onions should be allowed to soak in cold water for an hour or so before being cooked.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

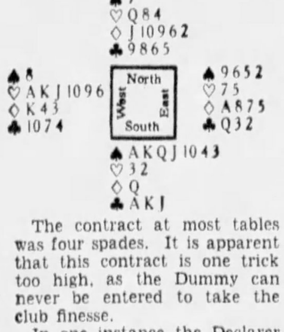
A Problem in Defense

Unquestionably a very large percentage of the hands made at the Contract table could be defeated if the defending side could unerringly hit upon the best defense. However, the situation of a player in the stress of actual conflict is vastly different from that of the cloistered student playing the hands on a Double Dummy basis. Mistakes of the defense may appear very laughable to the man who can study all four hands at the same time, but actually there are few of us who do not make blunders ourselves when the question of defense presented to us is in any manner difficult. The expert player is not the one who makes no mistakes; rather, he is that player who does not let his mistakes mar his game and who does unusual and non-routine things which counterbalance any errors he may make.

In a recent Duplicate game in New York City a hand was dealt that presented a rather unusual defensive problem at a number of tables and one which most of the players found it impossible to solve. Actually it should not have been at all difficult.

South, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.



The contract at most tables was four spades. It is apparent that this contract is one trick too high, as the Dummy can never be entered to take the club finesse.

In one instance the Declarer had his contract presented to him through West, after an Opening lead of the heart King, shifting to a club, which, of course, gave the Declarer his 10 tricks laid down.

At another table the West player cashed the King and Ace of hearts and continued with the third round of the same suit, East ruffing and South overruffing. South saw a faint hope of fulfilling his contract and proceeded to form a plan. This plan was based upon the hope that the hand which held the diamond Ace also held the club Queen and might bare down for the last four cards to the Ace of Diamonds and three clubs to the Queen. With this as the basis of his chance to make the hand, the Declarer played six rounds of spades. West followed once, and then discarded two clubs, one diamond and two hearts. East chose as his three discards, as South hoped, the 8, 7 and 5 of diamonds. South then laid down the King of clubs and followed with the diamond Queen. West had been carefully counting the cards, so did not make the mistake of going up with the King, but East's failure to discard the Ace permitted South to fulfill his contract, his only remaining cards being the club Queen and 3. The club 3 was returned, and South, staking all on the accuracy of his count, finessed the Knave and won the last trick with the Ace.

At still another table this same line of play was attempted, but here East refused to be caught. Instead of retaining the Ace of diamonds, he discarded it and retained a small diamond. It is, of course, true that this play might cost a trick, but strength in clubs seemed to East to be clearly marked in the Declarer's hand, whereas with the diamonds in Dummy and in his own hand, strength in that suit seemed less probable.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Inappropriate Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please inform me whether it is appropriate or necessary for a secretary to give a gift to her employer who is about to be married? If so, what is an appropriate gift?

The secretary has been connected with the concern for about five years.

E.

It certainly isn't a bit "necessary," and to my taste it isn't a bit "appropriate" for a secretary to give a wedding present to the bride-to-be of her employer. If the gift is given, it must, you know, be sent to the bride-to-be, at her home; and this is true whether or not you know her.

You seem not very enthusiastic about sending the gift, and so, if I were you, I wouldn't send it.

Wedding Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to a wedding soon, an evening wedding. Would a black satin evening gown be too wintry looking? I have this gown, and don't wish to go to further expense, unless it is absolutely necessary.

I also have a chiffon dress that I bought for an afternoon wedding, but the skirt isn't extra long, and the neck line isn't very low. Somehow I don't feel that this would be appropriate for a wedding to be held in the evening. Please advise me. READER.

While black satin has, of late, had quite a vogue in evening dresses and afternoon dresses, if the evening is very warm, I think that you would feel more appropriately dressed in the chiffon dress.

"Mother, look at these stockings! Why do I get so many runs?"

"Well, dear, perhaps you've been rubbing away their elasticity with cake soap . . .

"NOW, Mrs. Brown was telling me about Lux—it saves the elasticity of stockings—that's the 'give' that makes them stretch without breaking. Cake-soap rubbing and soaps containing harmful alkali weaken that elasticity and then, of course, the lifeless threads tend to break at the least strain. That's why you get runs. I'd suggest you try Lux, dear . . . it takes only 2 minutes, and your stockings will wear longer!"

TERRY'S PITCHERS KEEP UP FINE WORK

THANKS TO THE sudden return of Red Lucas to form, the distance separating the Pirates from first place was not widened while they were traveling to Brooklyn, turning around, and coming right back again without playing their scheduled Sunday game. It was fortunate that Lucas, who had lost seven decisions in succession and had not scored a victory since he beat the Phillies with Ray Kolp's help on May 10, gave one of the greatest pitching exhibitions of the season to defeat the Giants 1 to 0 in a 15-inning slab duel with Bud Parmalee in the first half of the Sunday bargain bill in Cincinnati. The best the Giants could get was an even break for the day, and it kept them from gaining on any of the contenders. Even splits for the Cubs and the Cardinals prevented those clubs, too, from gaining on the Bucs, either in the front or the rear. In fact, in the "Lost" column, the Rovers gained on all rivals.

Carl Hubbell

But there is nothing for the Bucs, Cubs or Cards, to cheer about in the continued great work of the Giant pitchers. The ball that Parmalee pitched in defeat would win nine times out of ten, and right on top of it Carl Hubbell came back to turn the tables on the Reds with 1-to-0 victory. That Hubbell was the hurler to do it made it all the more important, as it indicates the star southpaw has suffered no ill effects of that 18-inning game on July 2. Since that date he has won two starts, 3 to 2 and 1 to 0. With Hubbell right, the New York mound staff will continue to be a nightmare to Bill Terry's flag foes.

YOU CAN GET an idea of the remarkable quality of the Giant pitching from the fact that the New York slabmen have pitched no fewer than 15 shutouts. And Parmalee pitched almost two more yesterday, though getting credit for none. The next highest club in the majors is Cleveland, with only nine. The record for a season is 32, by the Cubs in 1907 and 1909.

Five times Terry's flingers have pitched 1-to-0 victories, losing twice by the same score. In three Giant double-headers this year both games resulted in shutouts, and New York won five of these six games. It looks as though there will have to be a crack in the Giant staff to give any other club a pennant chance.

ARGUMENTS AS TO the largest crowd that ever attended a baseball attraction at the Yankee Stadium in New York has been settled by Business Manager Edward G. Barrow. It wasn't the 77,365 that turned out for the doubleheader with the Senators on the Fourth.

The record-setter was the gathering of 81,000 or thereabouts at a doubleheader with the A's on Sunday, September 9, 1928. The attendance given out at that time was 85,265, but Barrow now admits that even the club doesn't know how many got in that day. "After 80,000, we lost count ourselves," he said.

THOUGH LONNIE WARNEKE, with seven defeats charged against him, already has lost one game more than he dropped during all of last season, his reverses have been of the tough-luck type. Six of them were suffered by one run and the other by two tallies. He allowed only 17 runs all told in the seven games, but the Cubs made just nine behind him. Warneke lost one engagement to the Braves in 11 innings, 2 to 1, with the Bruins making only six hits in support of him; one to the Reds, 2 to 1, with six hits behind him; another to the Reds, 1 to 0, with four hits by the Cubs; a third to Cincinnati, 4 to 3, with nine safeties for Chicago; one to the Giants, 2 to 0, though he held New York to four hits while his teammates made eight; one to the Cardinals, 2 to 1, when the Bruins were held to three 'lows, and the seventh to the Dodgers, 4 to 3, because Al Lopez stole home on him in the ninth inning with the winning run.

Bill Byron

REMEMBER BILL BYRON? Of course you do. He was the singing umpire who used to warble some of his decisions. For instance he called a third strike on Casey Stengel with "Casey Stengel is Ou-Out," and when he went to the dugout for a drink of water he would be crooning "I wonder who's hissing me now?"

Byron umpired in the National League for seven years and dropped out in 1919 following a salary dispute with President Heydler. He was in the Coast League until 1924, when he retired because of a broken leg suffered

DISTRICT PROS CLASH AT EDGEWOOD

BULLETIN.

Vincent Eldred, of Highland, and Stanley Hern, unattached, carded a 67, five under par, to win the best ball twosome competition of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association at the Edgewood Country Club today. Jimmy O'Donnell, Churchill Valley, and Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland, were second with 69.

By TOM BIRKS

Thirty-five members of the Tri-State Golf Professionals' Association are battling it out over the terrains of the Edgewood Country Club today in an 18-hole medal play event.

This is the second one-day event of the season for the members of the paid brigade, the first being held at the Uniontown Country Club a few weeks ago. At the conclusion of the medal play tourney Toots Erath, genial professional at the Edgewood Country Club, has arranged for a driving competition.

This afternoon the pros will be paired with members of the Edgewood Club in another of those popular pro-amateur tourneys. This tournament will serve to get the pros in shape for the Pennsylvania State Open tourney at Scranton next Friday and Saturday which will find Vincent Eldred, professional at the Highland Country Club, defending the title he won at Oakmont last year.

This is going to be the heaviest week of the season in competitive golf. There is a number of association tourneys and the once famous Nemacolin invitation tourney has been revived. This event will take place Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Niblick Shots

The Valley Heights women are holding a one-day tourney on Wednesday. Time may be arranged by calling Ted Luther at the club.

The Sons of the American Revolution will hold their monthly golf get-together at Stanton Heights on Thursday.

Practically all of the local pros are going to Bedford Springs for the open tourney, which begins Thursday. Vincent Eldred is defending champion in this event. The younger amateur stars also are going to play in the amateur tourney.

The second annual Greene County women's invitation tourney will be played on Wednesday at the Greene County Country Club. The outstanding women golfers of the district have been invited to play in the affair.

WHEAT TO BISCUITS—Within 17 minutes 38 seconds after it was cut, the wheat was threshed, rushed in an auto to a mill, made into flour, thrust into ovens and emerged transformed into hot, brown biscuits by K. C. Jones, mill owner of Ranger, Tex. A previous similar test required 41 minutes.

CARROLL SENT TO SHOWERS IN FIFTH

mound for the Dodgers and Bill Swift for the Pirates.

A small crowd of 3,000 attended the game. Five thousand youngsters, admitted free, occupied the right field stands.

FIRST INNING

BROOKLYN—Boyle singled to center, Frederick flied to Comorosky, Stripp singled to center, Boyle taking third. On an attempted double steal, Boyle was tagged at the plate, but Grace dropped Vaughan's throw and Boyle was safe on the error, Stripp tried to reach third, but was out, Grace to Traynor. Wilson flied to Lindstrom. One run, two hits, one error.

PITTSBURGH—Lindstrom fouled out to Lopez. Comorosky flied to Frederick. P. Waner grounded out to Leslie unassisted.

SECOND INNING

BROOKLYN—Leslie singled to center, Cuccinello flied to P. Waner, Lopez flied to Piet, Wright fouled out to Piet. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Traynor was thrown out by Wright. Vaughan was thrown out by Cuccinello. Suhr singled to right, Piet went out stealing, Lopez to Cuccinello. One hit.

THIRD INNING

BROOKLYN—Carroll fouled out to Traynor. Boyle fanned. Frederick was thrown out by Vaughan.

PITTSBURGH—Piet singled to center, Grace flied to Boyle. Swift grounded to Wright and both runners were safe when Glenn fumbled. Lindstrom sacrificed, Lopez to Leslie. Comorosky singled to center, scoring Piet and Swift. Comorosky went out stealing, Lopez to Wright. Two runs, two hits, one error.

FOURTH INNING

BROOKLYN—Stripp was thrown out by Vaughan. Wilson singled to right. Leslie flied to Comorosky. Cuccinello flied to Lindstrom. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—P. Waner lined to Frederick. Traynor was thrown out by Stripp. Vaughan was thrown out by Stripp.

FIFTH INNING

BROOKLYN—Lopez singled to right, Wright grounded into a double play, Vaughan to Piet to Suhr. Carroll grounded out to Suhr. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Suhr sprinted all the way to second on Cuccinello's fumble. Piet fouled out to Lopez. Grace singled to right, scoring Suhr. Swift doubled to left, Grace taking third. Lindstrom doubled to center, scoring Grace and Swift. Shaute went to the mound for Brooklyn. Comorosky flied to Boyle. P. Waner flied to Boyle. Three runs, three hits, one error.

SIXTH INNING

BROOKLYN—Boyle walked. Frederick flied to Comorosky. Stripp popped to Piet. Wilson forced Boyle, Vaughan unassisted.

NO-HIT GAME RECORDED

CUNARD, W. Va., July 17 (AP)—Harry Kelly, pitching for the Cunard team against the Page team in a Fayette County League tussle, hurled a no-hit, no-run game here yesterday, striking out 20 men.

Fox Chapel Riders Win League Title

The Fox Chapel polo team scored its ninth straight victory and clinched the Western Pennsylvania Polo League championship by defeating the Old Furnace trio, 14 to 5, in a league game at Zelienople yesterday. South Park won over Charleroi, 9-6, in another league fray.

The independent polo tilt between Rosslyn Farms and Chartiers Heights was rained out.

Grays, Homewood Battle Tonight

The Homestead Grays play the Homewood-Brushton baseball team at Greenlee Field at 9 o'clock tonight.

Dormont and the Book team play at Olympia Park and Whitaker meets the Gillespies at Brentwood in City League games.

The Grays won at Meadville 5-1, yesterday, and the Crawfords dropped two National League games at Nashville, 3-1 and 6-2.

YANKS, IDLE, TIE SLUMPING NATS FOR LEAD

SENATORS LOSE FIVE IN LAST EIGHT STARTS

Associated Press.

The slump which strikes nearly every good ball club at least once a season, has hit the Washington Senators just when they seemed to have first place in the American League packed away in moth balls.

A week ago, Washington, with 23 victories in 26 games, had pulled away to a 4½ game lead over the New York Yankees. Then, as the Yanks started a streak, the Senators went wrong and today the clubs again were tied for the lead.

NATS LOSE TO BROWNS

The Senators took a 7-to-0 whitewashing from the St. Louis Browns yesterday, their fifth defeat in eight games.

Irving (Bump) Hadley gave the Senators only four hits, three of them by Heinie Manush, while Earl Whitehill went up in the air in the ninth and Bill McAfee also was hit hard to give the last place club six runs.

The only other American League game saw the Cleveland Indians defeat the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1, in 14 innings, when Frank Pytlak and Willie Kamm nicked Bob Weiland for singles and the former scored after Bill Knickerbocker's fly. Willis Hudlin held the Sox to five hits, only one of which came in the first nine innings.

The New York Giants, National League leaders, continued their career as "hitless wonders" by dividing a pair of 1-0 decisions with the last-place Cincinnati Reds although they got only 15 hits in 24 innings. The Reds won the opener, a 15-inning duel between Red Lucas and Bud Parmelee, when Rollie Hemsley singled George Grantham home. Manager Bill Terry's double and Johnny Vergez' single produced the Giant tally off Paul Derringer in the fourth inning of the nightcap.

CUBS, BRAVES SPLIT

Two of the Giants' principal rivals, the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, also split doubleheaders, while Pittsburgh was kept idle by rain at Brooklyn.

The second place Cubs dropped the opener to Boston, 2-1, when Wally Berger clouted his seventeenth homer of the year in the eighth inning to break up a mound duel between Ed Brandt and Pat Malone. Guy Bush pitched seven-hit ball and Woody English and Riggs Stephenson contributed fancy slugging to give Chicago the second game 3-1.

May Queen Wins Old Bird Flight

May Queen, of the Joseph Lemage loft, won the final old bird race of the season sponsored by the Pittsburgh Racing Pigeon Concourse Association yesterday from Vandalia, O. Her time was 8:17.32. P. M. Bernadette, of the H. Ruben team, was second and Beautiful Lady, flying for the Steele club, was third.

The Lincoln Homing Combine race from Newark, O., was captured by Mother Hubbard, flying to the loft of A. Yodanis. Blue Belle, was second and Tough was third.

Broker's Tip, from the loft of Leo Johnson, won the East Street Homing Club's seventh special race from Newark, O. Another race from Newark is scheduled for next Saturday.

W. Virginia Net Tournament Opens

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 17.—(AP.)—Tennis experts from 10 states begin first-round matches in men's singles today, opening the annual West Virginia open championships. Women's singles matches begin tomorrow. The finals of both are on Saturday.

Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, and Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, W. Va., are defending champions.

Primo Carnera's Own Story of Career

Hard Training for Greatest Opportunity, Return Bout With Sharkey—Battle Is Won and Ambling Alp Becomes Champion of the World.

(This autobiography is a translation from the Italian of Primo Carnera's remarkably clear memories of his career thus far. The new world heavyweight boxing champion can speak English sufficiently to be understood, but, in preparing his life story, he preferred to do so in his native tongue. So far as is possible, the translation preserves the ideas and spirit of the champion.)

CHAPTER ELEVEN

'THE AMBLING ALP' REACHES THE PEAK

By PRIMO CARNERA, Heavyweight Boxing Champion of the World

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

For about six weeks I went through the hardest sort of training for my supreme objective—the world championship fight. My trainer, Billy Defoe, and my American manager, Bill Duffy—both of great fistic experience—will testify that never to their knowledge has a heavyweight gone through more hard conditioning than I did at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Primo Carnera

With a half dozen first-class sparring partners I boxed an average of six rounds a day, in addition to doing fully eight miles of roadwork daily, much rope-skipping, bag-punching, etc. Duffy and Defoe surely made me grunt often during the final two weeks. For the first time in my career, save in its early days, I began to complain some about such an enormous amount of dull toil. But my handlers must have known what they were doing, for at Madison Square Bowl on the night of June 29 I actually felt strong enough to battle 50 rounds, if necessary, and was so on edge that I believed I could whip Sharkey, Baer and Schmeling one after the other on the same day.

EXPERTS FAVOR CHAMPION

Louis Soresi, my chief manager, and others kept me well advised as to what the newspapers were publishing about the match and other reports or rumors concerning the same. Most of the noted boxing experts visited my camp and their reports, generally, were favorable. Towards the end, though, after those same critics had inspected Sharkey, their accounts indicated that the champion was more or less sure to win again. That did not disturb me at all, because my advisers said the same observers had picked Schmeling to beat Baer earlier in the month.

The opinion seemed to be that the championship contest would be one between brains and brawn, mind against matter, and so the experts figured it out that the truly smart Sharkey would outwit as well as outhit the Man Mountain. It was finally reported that, while I showed some improvement in training ring workouts, I still was too clumsy and slow-witted for the champion, who was known to be in perfect shape. Some declared my right was better than it had been, but most agreed that my main defense arm was "as useless as ever for hitting," and much fun was made of my efforts to hit with the right.

Eh bien, my answer to such critics came in the sixth round with a perfectly-timed K. O. blow—a right uppercut that dropped Jack for good, traveling about six inches and landing full force under his chin. I followed with a swift, stiff left, but the uppercut, I think, spelled K. O.

KNOCKOUT WINS TITLE

I did not use that right for much more than defense in the first three rounds. In the fourth, I smashed it short to the body when in close several times and also shot it toward the jaw, but only pounded Jack's arms then. In the fifth, I am sure, I dug it into the body at least twice with much force, but Sharkey was shelling my head with hard rights and these caught the public eye better. From the start of the fourth I was watching and hoping for a good right uppercut opening. It did not come, or I did not see the chance, until near the end of the sixth.

When a smashing left hook to the body made Sharkey bob away near the ropes, I saw in a flash a wide-open alley, leading right to his chin. And, as his head bobbed away, I fired the uppercut for a direct hit to what Americans call the "button." That body hook undoubtedly dazed Jack, momentarily paralyzing his defense. The hard uppercut follow-up sent him to the floor on his face, and thus the Man Mountain—after a little less than five years—was champion of the world!

Of course, I never was so happy in my life before. I was in a most glorious dream for several hours. In the excitement, why—I nearly forgot the English I have picked up, and answered dressing room questions in my native tongue. But they do tell me when I crowded in there right after the fight I let out three or four shouts of "Oh, boy! Oh, boy! Oh, boy!" Bill Duffy said that reminded him of the pet words of radio sports announcers.

CRAZY WITH JOY

The next day some of the papers made fun of my gay spirits, but you, Mr. Reader, would have been as crazy with joy as I was if you had finally succeeded in your chief ambition after years of hard work and several bitter disappointments. Picture yourself in a foreign country with but a little working knowledge of its language and winning a world championship. You would dance and grin and laugh and shout, too—no? Honestly, I don't think I did too much of that sort of celebrating. But I did feel so tremendously happy, and still do for that matter . . . But more of my personal memories of that great night in my life:

When The Ambling Alp (that name amuses me so!) ambled toward my dressing room about an hour before entering the ring on June 29, I knew that everything was at stake, but that I was ready for the outcome. Some say—Benny Leonard, former world lightweight champion—for example—that I have not yet reached the peak of form. That, I hope, is so, but—surely I felt perfect on June 29, especially after I got going in the fight itself. It was still twilight as I approached the dressing room while fans were still hurrying into the Garden Bowl where the preliminary bouts were under way.

I bandaged my hands while the stout and genial John Buckley, manager of Sharkey, watched. Finally the gloves arrived and we all "kidded" American-style until word came that the main bout was soon to go on.

FIGHT IN REVIEW

Many thought that the champion would wage a defensive battle, keeping away from me, but Mr. Duffy had a hunch that Sharkey would attack, instead. And that is what Jack did almost from the opening bell.

Now it is hard for a fighter to remember details of a fight, but I have clear memories of what happened nearly all the time when Sharkey and I traded blows. As I look back, the vision is blurred a little, but not that of the important parts of the fight.

In the first round, we felt each other out, with Sharkey taking the offensive in speedy fashion. I blocked at least four left hooks to the head (he dropped me with one of those in 1931) and two to the body. But he did reach me at least twice with hard righthanders to the head and a few to the body that were not so hard. In the meantime, I jarred him with a couple of lefts to the body and at least two stiff lefts high on the head. I also let go one right uppercut to the chin, but Jack was out of position and I did not put everything into that shot. In close, Jack was strong, but was no match for me in mauling. I spun him almost off his feet on two occasions. Although reporters generally gave that round to Sharkey, I honestly believe I won it handily.

HOLDS BACK RIGHT

The second, third and fourth rounds were much alike, with Sharkey—finding I blocked most of his lefts—opening up with some bold and brilliant right-hand assaults. He reached me hard several times and the fury of his attack forced me to miss, but not so much, I think. Meanwhile, I was reserving my right for defense, but using it, as well as the left, with hard digging effect when in close. Sharkey did seem to outspar me in the second and possibly the third rounds, but I was not worried. His best punches did not daze me, and I had a heavy edge in body punching, mauling and stiff jabbing. I think I dropped him once with a smash to the head, but there was no count and that went as a slip.

The fifth was a most critical round, and — while official and expert report awarded that session to Sharkey—it was really my best round, except the first and sixth, in the fight. Jack scored often to my head in the fifth, a left hook to the cheek staggering me a bit, and those spectacular wallops caught the general eye. But in close I kept on jolting him hard to stomach, sides and heart, with some of my most powerful short punches. He tried to keep away, but there was much speed in my famous feet and tree-like legs that night. The referee broke us as swiftly as possible, but, when mauling — and punching — in clinches, I could feel Jack weaken. That was what I was looking for—also for a good right uppercut opening.

FEELS SHARKEY WEAKENING

Returning to my corner at the end of the fifth, I told my handlers Sharkey seemed to be weakening. So Duffy, just before the bell, told me to open up—to carry the attack to the champion and "use everything."

That is why I counter-attacked so savagely in the sixth, jabbing and hooking hard with my left, forcing my rushes through his punches—he landed one terrific right in particular — and pinning him in a corner (I dropped him once for no count), where I readied him with that left to the body and knocked him flat (his face on the floor) with the right uppercut.

In conclusion I will relate some things that happened after the battle and what my future may be.

U. S. CUP TEAM SELECTED TO FACE BRITONS

AUTEUIL, France, July 17. —(AP.)—The United States will pin its Davis Cup tennis hopes in the interzone finals this week on the same four players who conquered Canada and Argentina.

Bernon S. Prentice, in charge of the American squad, selected Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, George Lott and John Van Ryn yesterday to face England, surprise conqueror of Australia last week, in the interzone series starting Roland Garros Stadium Friday. Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Vines' doubles partner, was picked as alternate.

Although the draw will not be made until latter in the week, it was expected Vines and Allison would be given the two singles berths with Lott and Van Ryn handling the doubles.

England probably will use Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin in singles and Perry and George Patrick Hughes in doubles.

After Friday's opening singles matches, the doubles will be played Saturday and the final two singles matches Sunday. The winner will qualify to meet France in the challenge round here July 28-29-30.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Folks wonder what a pinch hitter thinks of when he goes to the plate. Well, I have trained my bazimpascope on many an emergency swatter and they all think alike, like this:

GOING TO THE PLATE. "I'll murder this guy's delivery. He's just a punk."

STRIKE ONE. "Oh, he thought he'd zip that first one past me, eh? The little runt!"

BALL ONE. He's afraid of me. I'll slam this next one out of the park."

STRIKE TWO. "Well, of all the lousy umpiring! That was a yard outside if it was an inch."

BALL TWO. I'll probably have my picture in tomorrow's paper—the hero of the hour."

BALL THREE. "This guy ain't going to pass me, is he? Come on, you bum! Let me get hold of this next one."

STRIKE THREE. (No family paper would print this, so Uncle Nick won't bother writing it down).

By HARRY KECK

It just goes to show that you never can tell.

One night during the past winter, Mose Butch, local featherweight, and Ross Fields, of Cleveland, were in a 10-round bout at the Arena, on the North Side, and everybody said it would be terrible because both were southpaws.

So Mose started off as a right-hander, this being in the midst of his noble experiment of turning himself around, and he was terrible and was taking a shellacking, being knocked down and everything.

THEIR FIRST BOUT

Then he turned around again, going back to his natural southpaw stance, and from the sixth round on he completely turned the tables and was coming so strong at the finish that Fields, with all of his big early lead, just barely nosed him out.

On the theory that two southpaws against each other are just so much noodle soup, everybody feared for the worst when Mose joined Fields in wrongsiding it—but just the opposite happened. In short, the fight wasn't a fight until both started in to do the right thing wrong, or the wrong thing right, or whatever it was, and then it was a classic.

BOTH IN REVERSE

Just why they haven't been rematched before must remain one of those mysteries of why promoters go broke, but they've finally been brought together at this late date and will be headlining the card of 10 four-round battles at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight. And Mose says he'll southpaw it out from bell to bell with that other fellow who is in reverse. The complete program appears elsewhere on this page.

There will be no show at the North Braddock Bowl Thursday night. It was planned to use Sunny Jim McVey against Lee Ramage, of California, in the main bout, but Ramage was not available, and McVey has been signed to box Charley Belanger, of Canada, in one of two 10-round bouts at Hickey Park next Monday night. Nat Litfin and Petey Sarron will box the other feature. The Bowl plans to operate on a weekly schedule beginning next week.

Long's Sport Comment

while working as a steam fitter. But Bill appeared in his old role as an umpire again recently in Detroit. He came back at the age of 60 to umpire a game between the St. Mary's nine and a team of oldtimers.

FANNING AFTER THE game, Byron was asked to tell of the greatest play he ever had called. He mentioned a play in the 1916 Chicago city series, when Jimmy Archer tried to score from third base for the Cubs on a fly to the outfield. The throw in was 12 feet wide and to the right of home plate, according to Byron.

"But Ray Schalk, White Sox catcher, managed to get his bare hand on the ball," Bill related, "reversed himself and dived for Archer. He put the ball on Archer's leg four inches from the plate. It was the most spectacular play I ever saw and the closest I ever called. Billy Evans, base umpire, told me he never had seen a greater play."

THE SHOWING OF Billy Petrolle in his victory over Bep Van Klaveren last week by a disputed technical knockout was not sufficiently impressive to convince Eastern critics that he is going to have any great success in his attempted comeback. They think he will have to retire eventually as one of the great fighters that never succeeded in winning a championship. For a long time it looked as though Jimmy McLarnin would be in the same boat, but McLarnin finally picked off the welterweight championship and won a well-deserved place in the hall of titleholders. Petrolle will not be without company as a great battler who failed to win a crown, however. Two other notables to miss out, though numbered among the best fighters of any period, were Sam Langford and Packy McFarland.

THERE HAVE BEEN many champions who couldn't hold a towel for either of that pair. McFarland was the class of his day around his weight and at the present lightweight limit of 135 pounds at 2 o'clock in the afternoon he would have walked away with the title. Packy refused to do 133 ringside, the old limit, saying the public wasn't inter

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

HELP FOR YOUNG SEEN IN BEER RETURN

Beer drinkers rarely ever touch "hard liquor," according to Louis Wall, 60-year-old dean of Pittsburgh's bartenders at the Hofbrau, 25 Graeme street. He said:

"Beer will have a tendency to wean the younger generation away from its prohibition spree of highballs, cocktails and bathtub gin. It would be a good thing, too, because beer never harmed anyone."

Mr. Wall has many tales to tell of Tyrolese villagers who drink beer for breakfast.

Of course many of these husky mountaineers never heard of automatic refrigeration such as is employed in the Hofbrau's specially built cellar to keep their beer at a constant temperature 38 degrees. Their beer ages and cools in deep dug cellars, often hewn from native rock.

But what they lack n scientific refrigeration, they make up in picturesque atmosphere, Mr. Schlesinger said. He continued:

"They know the value of environmental aids to digestion. Based on that knowledge we have tried to give to our Old World grill and Danube room the charm of an Old World tavern. Walls of cypress, mission style, with mounted buffalo, elk and fish beneath a beamed ceiling. Hofbrau means 'Royal Brewers' and we have tried to create a 'royal' atmosphere of quiet conviviality."

Most of the famous eating places in Europe have deep wine and beer cellars. In the 'Griechenbeisel,' in Vienna, beer is kept in a cellar 200 feet underground, which was originally excavated as a refuge from Turkish invaders 700 years ago. The Hofbrau has a unique beer cellar where a constant temperature of 38 degrees is maintained by automatic refrigeration. Here the beer "sets" until it is right for use.

Ice-cold beer is all wrong, Mr. Schlesinger said. It should be cooled, not chilled, to preserve the natural taste and high "collar." Keep the glasses on the ice, and the beer cool. That is the secret, he said.

AGENCY NAMES ADVISOR

Lloyd W. Borland, of Monongahela City, has been appointed new unit advisor in charge of the agency activities throughout Southwestern Pennsylvania, it was announced today by Holgar J. Johnson, general agent Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Borland

Mr. Borland came to the Pittsburgh office after 10 years of experience with the Connecticut Mutual. Eight years of this time he acted as supervisor for that company, actively training and developing men. He is a graduate of Penn State, a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity, served in the 10th Infantry of the Pennsylvania National Guard on the Mexican border, and throughout the World War served in the 110th Infantry.

In keeping with the general trend of business improvement, Mr. Johnson reports that the local agency has just completed two of the best months in its history by writing two millions of new business.

The appointment of Mr. Borland was made necessary because the local agency of the Penn Mutual is developing rapidly and is extending its activity throughout Southwestern Pennsylvania, Mr. Johnson said.

FAST AIR LINE TO CHICAGO STARTS

The fastest air service yet established between Pittsburgh, Chicago and the West Coast was inaugurated yesterday by Pennsylvania Airlines, it was announced by H. S. Martin, president. In addition two extra flights, one to Cleveland and one to Washington, will be added to the present schedule of four trips a day in each direction.

Official sanction from the Postoffice Department for the changes in schedule and the new equipment which will be used has been received. High speed 12-passenger trimotor planes will enable Pittsburghers to leave Pittsburgh at 5:25 p. m. and be on the West Coast before noon the following day. Alternately by leaving Pittsburgh at 10 a. m., Chicago can be reached in time to enjoy the sights of the Streets of Paris at the World Fair at lunch time. Mr. Martin said:

"Of course the difference in time between Pittsburgh and western cities is responsible for the convenient hours of arrival, but three hours have been cut from the previous fastest time to the Coast and 45 minutes from the time to Chicago."

The new southbound flight will leave Pittsburgh at 9:20 p. m., eastern standard time, and arrive in Washington at 11, enabling travelers from Pittsburgh to leave after dinner and arrive in Washington in time for a good night's rest. The flying time to Washington has also been cut on all schedules to an hour and 45 minutes against the present time of nearly two hours. The new northbound flight will leave Pittsburgh at 7:20 p. m., arriving in Cleveland at 8:45 p. m., where direct connections are made to Chicago and the Coast.

Schedules on all trips have been somewhat altered to make better connections both to Northwestern cities such as Buffalo and Detroit, to the Middle West and to southern points such as Richmond, Atlanta and Jacksonville. The new departure times from Pittsburgh are: Southbound, 9:10 a. m., 2:00 p. m., 5:50 p. m., 9:20 p. m., and mail only at 2:30 a. m. Northbound, 10:00 a. m., 2:15 p. m., 5:25 p. m., 7:20 p. m., and mail only at 12:20 a. m.

Holiday Lightens Coal Production

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP.)—The July 4 holiday reduced bituminous coal production by 1,040,000 tons the week ended July 8.

The Bureau of Mines today estimated the week's output at 5,530,000 tons, as compared with 6,570,000 the previous six-day period. Production, however, remained nearly 2,000,000 tons above that for the corresponding week last year.

The holiday also accounted for a sharp drop in anthracite mined. The Pennsylvania fields turned out only 691,000 tons, as compared with 1,137,000 the previous week.

BUSINESS

Expected Price Rise Increases Coal Production

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

SHARP INCREASES in coal production during recent weeks have reflected the general industrial improvement as well as coal going into storage.

The railroads again are in the market for substantial amounts of fuel. In addition, a large volume of coal is being shipped to docks at lake ports. Industrial consumers are doing some forward buying. Residential users are beginning to buy coal in an exceptional volume for this time of year.

The general expectation that the enforcement of a code under the provisions of the industrial recovery act will materially increase coal production costs and that this will be reflected immediately in prices has been responsible for forward buying as well as the piling of coal at lake docks.

Labor Costs Are Important Factor

WAGES HAVE a greater effect on the cost of producing coal than in most other industries. The advances in wages which will result from the enforcement of a code may amount to from 30 to 50 per cent. While the administration discourages price advances, the codes usually provide that industries must not sell below costs. Few coal operators have made money in recent years so that it is quite obvious that the wage increases will be immediately reflected in higher prices.

Coal prices at present are not far from the low levels of the depression. Lump is quoted at $1.40 to $1.50 a ton at the mines. Slack is 60 to 70 cents. Mine run averages about $1. The exact distribution of the advances between grades of coal is uncertain. Most coal dealers expect domestic coal prices to increase from $1 to $2 a ton.

Coal Production Gains Steadily

COAL PRODUCTION in the week ended July 1 amounted to 6,450,000 tons. This compared with 5,990,000 tons in the previous week and with 4,070,000 tons a year ago.

Coal output crossed the level of 1932 early in April. Since that time an almost uninterrupted rise has been recorded. At present output is close to the level of this time in 1931.

Unfilled Lumber Orders Show Increase

SEATTLE, Wash., July 17.—(INS.)—The unfilled order file for lumber still grows in size, today standing at 504,126,000 board feet, an increase of 10,800,000 over last week and amounting to 48.95 per cent of the total lumber in stock, the largest ratio since the summer of 1929. Wages generally were increased the first week of this month and another and larger increase is allowed for in the proposed code now before the national industrial recovery administration.

BOOK EXPOSES 'GYP' BROKERS

The dangers to investors from unethical brokers and security salesmen are outlined in "Your Money," a book published by the financial service department of the Osborne Company.

The book explains the methods used by unscrupulous organizations which have cost the public nearly $2,500,000,000 yearly.

In addition the volume outlines common investment practices and explains the operations of legitimate brokers and exchanges.

American Engineer Seeks British Papers

LONDON, July 17.—(AP.)—Alfred Chester Beatty, mining expert, who was born in New York 58 years ago, applied today to the home secretary for naturalization as a British subject.

He said he had decided to give up his American nationality "because, though I am very fond of both countries, I have taken root here and have decided to leave my bones here."

METALS TO GET NEW OFFICERS AND BOARD

A complete change in the management of Carnegie Metals Company was announced today. Later in the week the new management is expected to make public the details of a refinancing plan which will permit the liquidation of the company's indebtedness to banks.

S. A. Taylor, a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh, and formerly president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, has been elected president of the company.

W. S. Linderman, formerly president of the Duquesne National Bank, has been elected vice president.

They succeed J. H. Sanford, president, and E. M. Love, vice president.

D. R. Frazier will continue to act as secretary.

Within a few days new members of the board of directors representing the banking interest in the company will be announced. The new members of the board will include several prominent Pittsburghers.

The reorganization plan will permit the liquidation of about $1,000,000 of indebtedness to banks and will provide ample working capital for operations. The plan, it is understood, will include an offering of rights to stockholders.

STOCK PRICES, COMMODITIES RUSH UP

NEW YORK, July 17.—Stocks and staples soared today on wings of renewed optimism and highest levels for the past two years or more were reached by most commodities and leading securities.

With May wheat spurting more than 5 cents a bushel in Chicago, cotton rallying around $2 a bale, barley jumping more than 10 cents a bushel and corn, rye and rubber futures exhibiting strength, the buying rush in shares swept quoted values forward with a momentum that taxed the machinery of the stock exchange. The ticker tape was late most of the session and all classes of stocks participated in the advance for gains ranging from 1 to as much as 8 or more points. The dollar apparently was a negligible factor, as it maintained a fairly steady position in foreign exchange transactions. Bonds generally were firm.

The alcohol group again led the forward dash, with National Distillers, Commercial Solvents American Commercial Alcohol, United States Industrial Alcohol and Owens-Illinois getting up 2 to around 8. Advances of 4 to more than 7 were recorded by Western Union, Case, International Business Machines and Auburn. Shares gaining 1 to 3 or more included Goodyear, Firestone, Goodrich, United States Rubber, Du Pont, American Telephone, Deere, Johns-Manville, United States Steel, United Aircraft, United States Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, New York Central, Santa Fe, Delaware and Hudson and Union Pacific.

Followers of the sugar stocks, most of which have risen substantially in the past week or so, were cheered by the announcement from Washington of a tentative agreement reached at a meeting of leading refiners to curtail imports from Cuba and the Philippines. The sugar curtailment agreement, it was said, will be submitted soon to the agricultural adjustment administration to serve as a basis of a formal hearing under the farm act.

The boom in the cotton trade, according to the New York cotton exchange service, has caused a mill consumption increase during the first half of July to about 128 per cent of the average rate in 1922-1927, as against 126 in June and 54 in July of last year.

While production gains in the various industries are viewed with much staisfaction by market observers, the administration's monetary program is being watched carefully for indications of long-range repercussions. If and when the commodity price level reaches the average of 1925-1926—which is said to be the government's goal—some financiers expect action may then be taken to lower the gold content of the dollar as a price sustaining measure. It is pointed out in other quarters, however, that currency stabilization measures are still highly uncertain and much will depend on the foreign attitude toward the price-raising program as well as the move for increasing wages.

GRAINS REACH NEW HIGHS

CHICAGO, July 17.—Wheat and corn promptly reached new high price records at the outset today, but advances were restrained as compared with recent wild upsurges. Crop losses continued in the drought and ruin rains of importance, but trade leadership values had scored tremendous upturns, and that utmost conservatism was desirable.

Opening ¼ to 1 cent higher, wheat afterward held near to the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to 1 cent up, and subsequently rose all around.

Brisk trading and frequent fluctuations followed the opening of wheat dealings, but with prices gradually mounting higher after setbacks. Before half an hour had elapsed, wheat touched a long awaited goal, $1.25 a bushel. The fact received hardly any more notice, however, either from brokers or spectators, than a quick arching of eyebrows, $1.25 being treated as just another set of figures in the upward trend of quotations.

Notable steadiness of offerings of barley made prices for that grain advance at times doubly faster even than wheat. When wheat jumped above $1.27, barley showed a gain of 12 cents a bushel today to 83¼ for December contracts.

About midsession, wheat was approaching $1.26 and corn was more than 2 cents up.

Provisions went upward with hog values and with grain.

After midsession, wheat was 3⅜-4⅜ cents over Saturday's finish, with May wheat at $1.26¼ and corn was up 1 to 1⅝ cents.

RISING PRICES BRING SALES HOLIDAY TALK

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 17.—With business volume and prices ascending, there has recently been some soft pedaling of salesmanship.

Mr. Rukeyser

Some chief executives have suggested that their salesmen take a holiday, feeling that their present zeal would hurt the year's income account." One executive complained that salesmen immersed with the customers' viewpoint, were bringing pressure for too low prices.

Another explained that, with prices on the way up, he preferred to discourage forward buying, and to book later business at higher prices. His salesmen, however, desiring to win the appreciation of customers, were urging them to stock up before the price advance had run its course.

Although the national industrial recovery administration has focussed attention on the seeming tendency to build up inventories, some optimistic industrialists contend that the spiral of recovery will prove such that many who think they have placed orders ahead will find that they have not fully covered their near-term requirements.

Meantime, the basic problem is to rehabilitate consumer purchasing power. It is well to remember that the relative increase in farm prices is an important instrument in making it possible for the vast social groups in the city and in the country to resume trading with one another.

As the exchange value of agricultural products rises and the 8,500,000 workers are again in position to buy industrial products, factory workers will again be summoned back to gainful employment.

In righting the economic mechanism, the return of farmers to a buying status is more important than their position as 18 per cent of the gainfully employed indicates, because it repairs the economic machine at its weakest point and again facilitates the normal circulation through the system of goods and services.

Thus far, with the farmers out of numerous products, except hogs, the improvement is partly in the future though vendors already show a disposition to discount the betterment by making credit available.

The other significant way to improve consumer buying power is through the related process of reabsorbing the idle back into industry. In some quarters it has been estimated that 3,500,000 man-hours have been added to payrolls and that the national income has risen between 15 per cent and 20 per cent from the low point.

REMEMBER WHEN GAY NORTH SIDERS RODE THIS SIX-SEATER BIKE?

CHARLES SCHULTER THE LATE GEORGE MEYERS MR. WINNERS ELMER KRAUSE STEVE ZYBEL FRANK HOFFMAN

The six-seated bicycle (there was a detachable 'rumble' seat, too) that J. W. Moon, North Side sporting goods proprietor, bought about 28 years ago for the Race-Cycle Bicycle Club that he sponsored. It was one of three of its kind in the U. S., was originally built to pace racers at Madison Square Garden (now using motorcycles), cost about $600, weighed 212 pounds and carried a crew that weighed more than 800. The crew had to be trained, often went for 150-mile Sunday rides, boasted of great speeds to beat trains, etc., once on a hill broke a chain and went through a house to avoid hitting a buggy. Of the six men pictured here, all but one are living. Five were members of the crew, Mr. Winners a substitute. This picture was lent by Mr. Krause, 1215 Middle street.

MEN—STEADY WORK

We will hire 8 men at once who live in Pittsburgh, train them thoroughly at our local branch at our expense, and employ them immediately in permanent positions, full time.

Married men preferred, as these positions are responsible and we require no investment of deposit—but you must be reputable, and able to learn the work as taught. This is steady, profitable sales work, but our method of putting the prospect into the market for our invention is so unusual that you must be trained in it. While learning, new men must be satisfied on earnings of $35.00 to $45.00 per week, but later can increase this substantially. Previous experience not important because our method is so unusual, but applicants must be willing to work hard and study to qualify for the higher incomes. Apply tomorrow morning, 9 to 12, and 1 to 3, at 305 Investment Bldg., 239 Fourth ave.

CHAPTER IV.

With the return of Leni to the box, Cavanaugh lost all interest in the story unfolding on the screen. Gates had moved over to the seat next the rail and was sitting utterly quiet with his head dropped slightly forward.

The fragrance of Leni's perfume preceded her into the box. Without removing her cloak, she sank into the inside chair beside Gates.

Cavanaugh was so close to her that he could easily have reached out and touched her shoulder.

The color had not come back to her face; he sensed the painful beating of her heart. When she leaned toward Gates, Cavanaugh heard her disjointed utterance.

". . . If I marry you . . . no matter what scandal . . . protect me from the whole world? Douglas . . ."

She waited for an answer, but none came. The squareness had left the man's shoulders; he was relaxed and a trifle rounded. His breathing was deep and steady.

This was the greatest ironic tragedy that ever happened to Leni Luneska.

A man had drowsed away in the midst of his wooing.

Tears formed in her eyes and one of them glistened on her cheek.

Of the four thousand people in the theater, Lucky Cavanaugh was the only one to see and to understand. Slowly his hand reached forward and grasped one of hers in the darkness. His grip was warm—firm—young.

LENI ENCOURAGED

Leni did not know whose hand had gathered around her own. But something magnetic and strengthening generated in the secret clasp. There was a pressure of palm and fingers which, instinctively, she returned.

The door behind this box is open," Lucky Cavanaugh leaned forward and said in a low voice. "Let's slip outside and get a breath of air."

And all the while on the screen, Leni Luneska was smiling and laughing. But it was quite a different story in the box. Cavanaugh had made a bold stroke and he knew it would be successful. Leni turned and looked straight into his level, steadfast eyes. For a moment, each probed the other with unwavering gaze.

"I do not know you," she said—but there was no withdrawal of her hand from his.

"Nevertheless, I know you," returned Cavanaugh with a smile, "and that puts us fifty per cent of the way home already."

She was aware of an encouraging vitality in his words. They flowed into her heart like balm. Almost immediately she ceased to be unstrung.

GOES WITH CAVANAUGH

Like all people who have reached a mountain peak she had virtually expended herself in the effort. Stardom and exhaustion were synonymous and now—the return of Karl Kruger! Life, at last, had succeeded in wringing tears from her.

The strong hand holding her own seemed at this moment her only grasp on safety.

"I will go with you," she said.

She made the statement as though she were about to leap off a precipice—as though it were sheer madness. Cavanaugh was conscious of a quick sympathy, mingled with amusement. Poor Leni Luneska! What the girl needed was a little cheering up.

Behind the curtain of the box he took her arm. She was breathing sharply through her teeth.

One of the side doors of the theater had been opened for ventilation. Cavanaugh, with his hand under Leni Luneska's elbow, stepped out into the feeble light of a concreted areaway between the buildings. The man dressed as an usher lurked near the door and, apparently, paid them no attention.

DISTRESS ERASED

"Smoke?"

Cavanaugh offered his cigaret case. The flame of his pocket lighter threw a little glow on her smooth white chin. Leni drew eagerly upon the cigaret and immediately her nervousness seemed relieved. He noticed that her teeth were perfectly even and sparkling; that her lips were warm and sensitive.

"Shall we—promenade?" she said, giving him a bright look from which all distress had been erased. She said it as lightly as though she had not a care in the world.

"We'll do anything you want to do," said Cavanaugh.

He looked down into her clear eyes with a smile. Her head was thrown back a little and she returned his smile with a touch of gaiety. She was unblemished and enchanting. Her soft hair formed a pale golden halo around her face. His commonsense told him her smile was a mask—that she was still an actress.

"What I want is quite simple—but impossible," Leni said. "Perhaps you are a miracle man. Maybe you have a way to make people brave when their hearts are like water?"

"Don't tell me your heart is like water, because I won't believe it," said Cavanaugh. "The excitement tonight probably made you a little nervous."

They had strolled along the areaway to the end and were forced to retrace their steps along the sweating concrete. The air was close with the smell of buildings—a dank contradiction of the buoyancy in Cavanaugh's breast.

"How long before you want to go back inside?" he asked abruptly.

"I don't want to go back at all—but I must," said Leni. "All I needed was a cigaret and a breath of air."

DOESN'T WANT PROTECTION

But Cavanaugh detected the hollowness in her words.

"You are not going back yet," he told her succinctly. "I wouldn't consider taking you back under a half hour, at least. You are still a very beautiful but groggy young lady."

Leni raised defiant eyebrows.

"I detest these pathetic and appealing roles," she stated. "And don't try to protect me. You are a nice man—but don't spoil it. You caught me off guard for a minute. That does not mean I have placed my life in your hands."

Cavanaugh had heard many people talk with a curdle of aggressiveness in their voices. They had never impressed him as being secure. But he was not certain now whether Leni Luneska was finding her lost poise, or whether she was still acting.

'Whatever made you think I wanted to protect you?" he asked her lightly.

"Don't you?"

"Only against every man—except myself."

"You are like all the others, then?"

"Only more so."

Leni sighed. "I suppose I shall have to put up with you." Her small hands inside his arm pressed slightly. "You're a nice man. I think I shall know you better."

"Positively," Cavanaugh assured her.

Synopsis

Attending the premiere of her latest motion picture, beautiful Leni Luneska, the star, is confronted by a shabby man, who emerges from the crowd crying "Leni! It is I, Karl Kruger!" Leni turns white. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, saunters into the theater. He prevents Kruger from making a scene. During the performance Douglas Gates, Leni's elderly escort, proposed to her. In the office next to where Kruger waits, thieves are robbing the safe. Leni leaves her box and goes to Kruger, whom she married in Vienna when 14 years old. He wants recognition as her husband. She refuses, but he says he will wait for her to think it over.

Now Go On

"I detest these pathetic and appealing roles," said Leni.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Attention, fellows!

News flash! Starting now, the Sun-Telegraph is going to give every Captain of a Junior Patrol a Captain's armband!

We'll bet that you'll say they're the best looking and niftiest armbands you ever saw the minute you see them. They're made of genuine wool felt, in colors of orange and black. In bright letters they say: "CAPTAIN—JUNIOR PATROL."

We want every Captain of a Junior Patrol to get one of these armbands as soon as possible—it's easy to do. Just make a list of your members' names and addresses and the time and where your Patrol meets, and send them all to Junior. We'll send you your Captain's armband right away.

And why not, when you are sending Junior the list of members in your club, send your pictures too? But don't forget that every member of a genuine Junior Patrol must be a member of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Patrol with a membership card and badge.

The armbands are well made. They will last a long time, and boy oh boy, they sure do make a fellow look like a Captain!

If you don't have a patrol organized already, fellows, in your neighborhood, here's your chance to start a swell club. If you are elected Captain, you can begin wearing the armband just as soon as it arrives.

Junior Patrols are already organized in many places. Their Captains should write to Junior right now and send in a complete list of the members in his club, and the time and place it meets.

Looks as though Spike and Snuggins are having some exciting adventures down the river, doesn't it? We're getting anxious to see what's going to happen to the good ship "Junior Patrol" and her passengers tomorrow.

The Mail Box is still looking for interesting letters and drawings by Junior Patrol members. We are going to keep right on publishing just as many of the best letters as we can, and if we get some nice drawings, we may publish those too. Patrol lieutenants ought to send in their Patrol news every week or so.

Here's a letter that came today from Betty Dickey, of 1104 Penn street, Sharpsburg. Betty says:

"There is no Junior Patrol in our town, but I want to join. Please send me a button."

Sharpsburg is a pretty big place not to have a Junior Patrol, Betty. Are you sure there isn't one? If not, how about starting one of your own? Talk it over with your playmates. Find out how many of them would like to join a Junior Patrol, and begin helping others. We'll bet that there are a dozen kids right in your neighborhood who would like to join. If you called a meeting, you could elect officers right away, maybe, Betty, and the Captain would get his armband as soon as he sent us the list of members.

AUNTIE B. NOW AVAILABLE FOR ALL

NOTE—There is a growing demand for Aunt Bella to recite her own poems at luncheons, gents' smokers, etc. While she would like nothing better than to do this without charge, Aunt Bella feels that she should, and hereafter will, charge a small fee for this service. The money collected, she points out, will go to make some one happy.

"I HATE the depression," say
Tom, Dick and Howard,
To which I reply, "You talk like a coward!"
"I LIKE the depression!" say optimists who
Know that the sky is not grey.
It is blue!
Before the depression we wallowed in wealth
And ate the rich food that is bad for our health;
Before the depression, alas, and for shame!
We played the old selfish get-rich-quick game;
Didn't have time, in our scramble for money,
To call friend and neighbor "Dearie" and "Honey;"
Didn't have time, in our stress and our strife,
To half get acquainted with husband or wife;
Didn't have time, in our blind, frantic speed,
To bend the old elbow or do a kind deed.
"I LIKE the depression!" It's not what it's painted.
Come, boys and girls—let's all get acquainted!
Let's exchange favors, greetings and jokes.
Step up! Get chummy! Aunt Bella's "just folks."

BETTER LUCK NEXT TIME

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

The boys that do business have to be on the lookout. Friday forenoon Russ Simmons was tending his gas station. A stranger in a car bearing a Texas license stopped and showed a punchboard. He showed it paid the house well, and he was leaving them along the highway. He charged only 20 per cent of the profit. He'd leave the board and be along in a month. Russ allowed the stranger to leave the board.

Early Saturday a stranger stopped in, moseyed up to the punchboard to try his luck—and it was certainly good. Before Russ knew what happened, the man had won $10. He said he guessed he'd go, and asked for the ten. Russ had only $5, so he gave the lucky wayfarer the five and a tire. He noticed the man's car bore a Texas license. Russ said the man that brought the punchboard the day before had a Texas license.

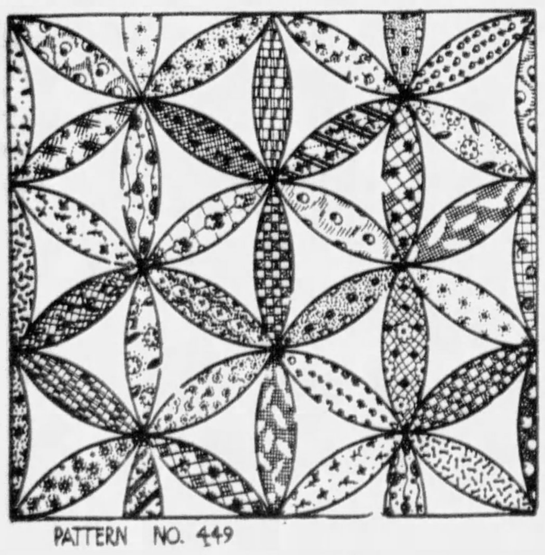
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



PATTERN NO. 449

By LAURA WHEELER

Joseph's Coat, Pattern No. 449, is one of the most attractive and practical of scrap quilt designs. Like in the crazy-quilt every conceivable scrap of material can be used, just as it comes to hand, for the materials are joined on in no set order. Unlike the crazy-quilt though, the resulting pattern is a charming, flower-like design that is most orderly and decorative. Its name, Joseph's Coat, is aptly taken from the biblical coat that, like this quilt, was made of many gay patches, and delighted its proud possessor.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

New Game Astonishes Onlookers

The new game of grand palace is rapidly taking the place of contract bridge. It has no rules, no reasons and no postmortems.

It was invented to annoy kibitzers and well-meaning but hard-breathing millstones who hang around your neck while you are trying to play the paper slabs.

Grand palace changes its system with every deal, every shuffle and every card. Just make up your conventions as you go along.

We will give you a list of some of the plays gathered in Hollywood, Montreal and Long Island:

Sobbing Sarah: Queen of spades without jack of hearts.

Liverpool Jump: Rubbing a spot off two of diamonds and making it an ace.

Reverse Gears: When a finesse fails you can take it back and try it the other way.

Double Snooper: Playing your cards upside down and claiming everything.

Marching Chinese: Running around table to cop a sneak at your opponent's cards.

Lover's Leap: A grab for your own beer and knocking all the other glasses off with your elbow.

Grand Palace: Tearing the deck into little hunks. Then throwing the result at your partner.

Teentsy-Weentsy: Deuce, trey, five of any color or any suit. Add them up, divide them by six and play carefully, changing the trump with each card.

Morgan's Midget: A deuce will take an ace just by saying so. But say it quick.

End Play: Wide run around the room while your interference bowls over the kibitzers.

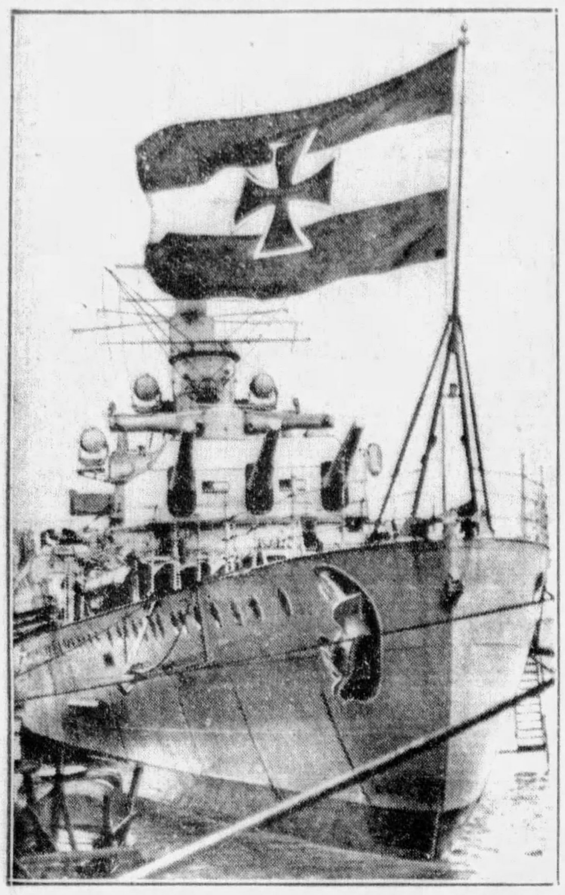
BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Small, Swift, Deadly

We Need Ships Like This, NOT "Floating Forts."



GERMANY'S POCKET BATTLESHIP "DEUTSCHLAND"

On March 8, 1862, the Confederate ironclad ram Merrimac sank one wooden warship of the Federal Navy at Hampton Roads, Virginia, burned another, ran three more aground, and made every navy in the world obsolete.

Next day the Federal ironclad Monitor fought the Merrimac and made IT obsolete.

Those two days show you how quickly styles in warships can change.

They are mentioned here because styles in modern warships have changed almost as rapidly, though the German navy seems to be the only one that knows it.

In the opinion of many experts she has made the big "floating forts" in the British navy and our navy and the Japanese navy about as useful as wooden ships were when the Merrimac attacked them.

A "first class" battleship is two or three times as big as this ship.

It costs more.

It is slower.

It is a better target for airplanes, submarines, guns, and surface torpedo boats.

In the last war the floating forts hid in harbor most of the time, and on the only occasion when they met in full force on the high seas they all went home except those that went to the bottom.

The "pocket battleship" on the other hand, presents a small target to attack from the surface, or undersea, or the air.

She has six eleven-inch guns which can outrange and outhit anything a cruiser carries.

She can outrun any battleship afloat.

She has Diesel engines instead of steam.

She is built of super-hard steel, her hull is electrically welded, and she can cruise 10,000 miles at a speed of 20 knots without refueling.

She is small, swift, handy, dangerous—and compared with a floating fort—CHEAP.

We are about to build 32 war craft of various sizes immediately, and a full "treaty navy" eventually.

Many Americans wonder whether the government will spend vast sums on a few big, outdated floating forts, or whether it will put the money into a larger number of these new and EFFICIENT pocket battleships.

Navies are run by old men, and comparatively few old men take kindly to new ideas.

Don't be surprised, therefore, if you see plans announced for the building of more floating forts, which will have to hide in harbor in the next war as they did in the last.

The Confederate navy didn't think much of the Merrimac, until it sank the Union fleet.

The Union navy didn't think much of the Monitor, until it chased the Merrimac up the river.

It takes a war to make most of us think, and the gentlemen in charges of navies are no exception.

Protecting the Babies

There Is Ample Justification for the Requirement That Cows Shall Be Tested for Disease.

Pittsburgh put into effect on July 1 an ordinance requiring that all milk sold in the city shall be from cows tested for Bang's disease and found free from it.

Some dairymen are protesting against the ordinance. It is to be hoped their complaints will be of no avail. Dr. W. W. McFarland, director of the Health Department, tells us that state and municipal health officers and physicians everywhere are recognizing the gravity of Bang's disease in cattle and its transmission to human beings, resulting in undulant fever.

The throwing of safeguards around the milk and water supply of Pittsburgh has brought about a marked reduction in infant mortality. For many years 200 of every 1,000 babies born in the city died soon after birth. Water filtration cut the mortality rate considerably, and since its advent other reductions have been effected, so that in recent years the rate has averaged no more than 69 deaths per 1,000 births.

It is believed the Bang's disease ordinance may cut the rate to a still lower figure. Certainly it should be given a thorough trial. The Health Department has proved that it knows what it is talking about.

Supervision over milk and water cannot be too strict.

Believe it or not, the above is signed by a WOMAN! And it's genuine!

Jealous? Far worse than that! I'm positively ENVIOUS! Man is Nature's Pet, and I envy him, not only because he gets all the good breaks in life, but for all those fortunate traits of temperament and character which make him the darling of the gods.

I envy him his gorgeous, cast-iron stomach, which seems to be able to assimilate cheese, hot-dogs, beer, pretzels, and lobster salad at any hour of the night—and wash them down with libations that would drive a woman to a doctor.

I envy a man his immunity and freedom from all the boredom, nagging, tiresome little details and duties of life—which he can always find some WOMAN (a wife, stenographer or a sister) to do FOR him.

Above all, I envy man his sublime self-confidence! His imperturable SELF-COMPLACENCY! I'd give my right eye for just a spark, a scintilla, a few crumbs of it!

A woman is always wondering if "she'll DO." But, did you ever hear of a man wondering if his hat was becoming or if his nose was shiny? Or ever hear of a MAN lying awake nights, wondering if he had made a hit with a girl—or if she would call him up, next day? * * *

He may be modest, he may be even shy—but it's harder to find a man with a genuine inferiority complex than it is to find a woman with a genuine complexion! No matter what he may see when he glances in the mirror he always has a secret conviction that there is "that something" about him which is attractive to the women.

AM I jealous, am I sore, because I was NOT born a man—to go through life blithely and lightheartedly free from all inhibitions and doubts, all social obligations and all domestic responsibilities? Oh, yes, I ENVY a man—but my envy comes straight from the heart, and is born of my ADMIRATION for the Nonchalant Sex.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 17.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Breakfasting with Stuart Price. Then walking a short skitter with Keats Speed and Harold Anderson, who wrote the famous editorial "Lindbergh Flies Alone." Thence to my quarters to hear that a motorist deliberately ran over a neighbor's dog, and went all sick inside.

In the afternoon Harry Mack Reed and Willis Wood Williams, Plattsburg (Mo.) youths attending Princeton and Yale, called. And I remembered their mothers as two of the fairest maids of our town. Jimmy Durante wires me earnestly he has not gone Back Bay but is the same old Jimmy, hot-cha-cha and all.

To Billy and Phyllis Seaman's spread for the William Gaxtons and a goodish gathering of stage folk. And Sam H. Harris introduced a politely cold-muffin lady as beautiful as ever I saw, but whose name I did not catch. So home and my wife read "Anthony Adverse" to me, a noble tayle.

Frankness comes to street begging not without appeal. On West Forty-fifth street today a blowzy fellow tumbled out of a doorway, and, extending an empty bottle, implored: "Cap, gimme 15 cents to fill this. I don't want a drink now, but in the morning when I'll sure feel terrible."

The swankiest gesture in book publishing was accomplished by William K. Vanderbilt in his privately published account of his eight-month cruise below the equator in his yacht Alva. The edition was limited to 1,000 copies and only 50 were offered for sale—and, these, owing to elaborate and costly illustration, were within purse reach of only blue-chip nabobs. Vanderbilt himself navigated every knot of the 30,000-mile voyage.

I know a man who has written the frankest autobiography ever penned. He has set aside a sufficient sum in his will for publication posthumously in case his publisher balks. He spares no one, not even himself, and gives astonishing insights into the celebrity racket. He expects it to have a sale of 100,000 copies at $2 each, profits going to his widow.

Broadway's topsy-turviest roman once more reaches placid waters. Neil Andrews, rich young manufacturer, and Dorothy Hall, platinum star, again married, are seen everywhere in perfect accord after a trial divorce six months ago. The cross currents of the White Whirl that often tossed them on the rocks has been given much headline importance. One week they were like this and next as far apart. . . . as this. During separation they tried to appear indifferent, but sometimes during the evening they would manage to appear in the same spot with different escorts. And that would tickle the blabbers.

The best of Christopher Morley's musings in "Mandarin in Manhattan," I believe, is this:

Excellent fellow was that friend of mine
Who, needing a motto for his sun dial,
Inscribed it:
It is later than you think!

Thingumbobs: Al Jolson's first stage appearance was with Ed Rush's Burlesquers . . . Montague Glass' plays are billed in Russia "by Montague and Glass" . . . Crystal Hearn, the actress, lives in New York's oldest apartment house, The Stuyvesant . . . Rose Coghlan also lived there as did Edwin Booth's parents . . . Mrs. Eleanor Robeson Belmont is considered the best woman speaker in New York . . . John Erskine's dining room is checkered in black and white . . . William Muldoon told friends before his passing that tobacco was the greatest foe of humanity . . . Max Baer is listening to the advice of no one but Jack Dempsey, his idol.

I smiled inwardly but superiorly at a sweet young thing at tea who, never having imbibed, was pressed to take a drink. As a Jeeves came along the lady next the sweet young thing asked for a Martini with lots of Martini in it. The s. y. t. requested "a Bronx with plenty of Bronx, please." I say I smiled yet I was the bright play boy who ordered from a Paris cafe menu Tournovos, Chateaubriand and filet mignon, receiving, naturally, three steaks!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

This time it's an S. O. S. from the most bewildered creature on earth—the father of a college girl graduate. The burden of his lament is—"AND NOW, WHAT?" And what a chorus of sympathy that query will raise.

The story? Chances are you can duplicate it in your own family circle. They're comfortable, middle class people, badly bent, like the rest of us, by the depression. Four years ago they sent Sissy to college as a matter of course. Only thing to do. Everybody sent their girls to college.

As a matter of fact, Dad didn't have much to say about it. Mother decided things like that. Dad just footed the bills.

So for four pleasant years Sissy fooled around the campus; filled the house with crowds of lazy, laughing young friends; flirted and yawned through her vacations.

Sometimes Dad wondered what it was all about; particularly when the monthly bills came in. Whew!

Now, suddenly, Sissy has been graduated. The four years are over. Sissy's home sitting around, growing more restless and irritable every day, waiting for something to turn up. Waiting for what? Sissy doesn't know. Neither does Mother or Dad.

Four years! All that time! All that energy and enthusiasm! All that money! What has it brought? For the life of him, Dad can't see that it has brought a darned thing.

Sissy can't do anything—not even teach, except in grammar school. And look at the unemployed teachers! She wouldn't be any good at teaching anyway. She can't write, though she took a course in journalism. Social service? That's out, too.

Dad thinks of his own sister, Em, when she was Sissy's age. She was smart and pretty, too. Smarter, maybe, than Sissy. But girls didn't go to college much then. Even if they had, the folks had no money. So Em stayed around the house after she got out of Hi—and married Hal Garson before she was 20.

Hal had just taken over his father's trucking business, then. It didn't seem much of a chance for Em. But she pitched right in—learned bookkeeping. Now she and Hal have a pack of youngsters, a fine car, as good a home as anybody'd want.

Sissy, of course, lifts her plucked eyebrows when anyone mentions Em's home. She says Aunt Em has no taste—that she goes with the weirdest people.

But jolly, fat Aunt Em doesn't mind Sissy's criticism. No matter what anyone thinks, she's sure she has had the best of life.

Has she? Dad wonders. Was it all a mistake—sending Sissy to college? If she had stayed home her life would have gone on like Em's probably. She'd have fallen in love with some poor young fellow—married on a shoestring—pitched in—made a place for herself. She'd have done all this in those four years that Sissy has spent on the campus. She'd have made a real start by the time she was 22.

But Sissy hasn't even decided what she wants to do, much less make a start. What did college give her, after all? Mostly notions. Restless, rebellious notions. Notions that make her feel she's too good for the sort of life she might have had.

But the fellows Sissy would like to marry can't marry her. Now that college is over, they're as stranded as she is. All dressed up with a college diploma—but no place to go. Hard enough to take care of themselves, with their expensive ideas, without thinking of a wife.

So then, what?

Dad would like to know.

Has he spoiled his girl by sending her to college?

Or will she, some day, make a better start and go faster and further because of those four years?

The Human Side of the News

Justice for the Indian — Colonel Cresap's Descendants Plan to Preserve Logan's Elm—His Famous Oration

By EDWIN C. HILL

AMONG the beneficiaries of the new deal will be, it appears, the poor Indian. Recent news from Washington suggests pretty clearly that the President and his advisers will make short work of gentlemen who are playing the old, old American game of short-changing the red man, cheating him out of the scraps of land still left to him from the vast territories which were once his own.

We have little to be proud of in our conduct, as a white race, toward the Indian. Every treaty we made with the original American was broken ruthlessly and shamelessly the moment that treaty barred the way to land or gold. The whole record of the government's dealings with the Indian is spotted with bad faith and stained with cruelty.

There is an echo in the news of the terrible crime which was committed 159 years ago by white men against the great Indian chief, Logan, war chief of the Cayugas—a crime which turned Logan from a devoted friend of the white man to a revengeful fiend. Far back in the history of our country—before it was a country—the brave and honorable Logan, looking upon the bodies of his wife and sons, cursed the name of Michael Cresap and threw down the gauntlet of war to the white man in a speech which lives as a model of oratory. And now descendants of Col. Cresap—one of the chief citizens of Chicago, Mark W. Cresap, together with Logan Cresap of the United States Navy—are raising a fund to save the elm tree near Circleville, O., under which the great chief stood when he poured out his bitter grief.

Lord Dunmore's Horrible Scheme

IT was in 1774, when the British flag still waved over the colonies, that war between the colonies and the mother country seemed inevitable. Lord Dunmore, then British Governor of Virginia, conceived the horrible scheme of stirring up the Indians on the Western frontier, so that the colonies would have to fight them instead of turning against England, if the war should come. He sent a young officer named Michael Cresap and a small force of troops to the frontier. Cresap, obeying orders as a soldier must, was not aware of Lord Dunmore's ulterior scheme and marched, as he believed, to prevent an Indian outbreak.

While Cresap was near Yellow Creek, a vicious Tory named Greathouse, who kept a log tavern and who may have been in Dunmore's confidence, lured Chief Logan's wife and children to his tavern, made them drunk and cut their throats—one of the most horrible crimes that ever stained history. That was on the thirtieth day of April in 1774. Greathouse fled before the wrath of the Indians, and Chief Logan, turning from the bodies of his dead, led the Cayugas in the short and bloody war that followed. "Dunmore's War," it was called.

Unaware of the truth that the fiend, Greathouse, was the destroyer of his family, not Col. Cresap, Chief Logan prayed to the Great Spirit morning and night to deliver Cresap to his hand. He himself killed 30 white men before peace was made, and whites and Indians met in the peace council under the great elm near Circleville. It was then that Logan, from the bitterness of his heart, made one of the great orations of all time—an oration with the terrible simplicity of the Old Testament. Looking with blazing eyes upon the whites gathered around him in a circle under the elm, Logan began:

Chief Logan's Famous Oration

"I APPEAL to any white man to say if he ever entered Logan's cabin hungry and he gave him no meat; if he ever came cold and naked and he clothed him not. During the course of the last, long, bloody war Logan remained idle in his cabin, an advocate for peace. Such was my love for the whites that my countrymen pointed as they passed and said, 'Logan is the friend of the white man.' I had even thought to have lived with you but for the injuries of one man.

"Col. Cresap, the last spring, in cold blood and unprovoked, murdered all the relations of Logan, not even sparing my women and children. There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. This called on me for revenge. I have sought it. I have killed many. I have fully glutted my vengeance.

"For my country I rejoice at the beams of peace. But do not harbor the thought that mine is the joy of fear. Logan never felt fear. He will not turn on his heel to save his life! Who is there to mourn for Logan? Not one!"

He took to the woods. His mind gave away. He imagined that he himself had slain his wife. Overtaken by a chance band of Indians near Lake Erie, he attacked them in his madness, and was killed by them in self-defense.

So passed one of the greatest of red men—Logan of the Cayugas, of the People of the Iroquois.

ART OF LIVING

By Winifred Black

She isn't in the least bit good looking, the woman who lives in the great nursery, where the tall trees and the great clumps of old-fashioned phlox and arum lilies grow.

She looks a little delicate, too, as if her strength was never quite enough to make her feel that life is a gay affair.

When I went to see her the other day about some arum lilies, she was in the garden working with some grass pinks; she was singing as she worked, in a clear, sweet, rather childlike voice.

A song that had something in it about stars. She was startled when I spoke to her, and when she flushed with embarrassment she looked somehow like a good little girl who ought to be in school studying her lessons.

Not at all pretty, the wife of the nurseryman, but there's something about her eyes—I don't know, they look so sort of happy and blue, and full of pleasant thoughts.

Yet I think she works rather hard in her husband's garden. He's always worrying about that. He says he tries to keep her in the house, but out she will come no matter what he says or does.

I see them riding around in their little, old-fashioned, rather rattly car, with the back seat piled high with slips, and bulbs, and little pots with growing roots in them.

They are always laughing and talking together—they never seem to have time enough to say all the things they have to say to each other.

The nurseryman has had a strange and interesting life.

He has lived in South Africa and in Asia, and in Europe.

He was wounded in the great war and stills bears the scars of these wounds. I don't think the nurseryman is particularly strong himself, but dear me, what a fine affair he makes of life.

What with his plants and his trees and his wife with her eyes that are like the eyes of a happy child, and his dog Rex, and the great yellow Persian cat that sits in the sun in the green house window, and the cozy little cup of tea in the afternoon with the little cakes the wife bakes especially for him.

He's English and she's American, but for his sake, she drinks the afternoon tea, too. To hear them laughing and talking together as you pass the nursery wall—well you wouldn't believe it, that's all.

No, it doesn't seem to take money or high position or good looks or even exceeding youth to make real happiness, does it?

I know at least a dozen prosperous, good looking young couples that well might change places with these two.
